

STATE SEALER IS AFTER DRUGGISTS

Writes to Local Sealer Requesting That Weights and Measures of Druggists be Carefully Tested

The statement that the prescription device, counter scales and measures of various kinds used by druggists are not always correct and that there is a certain kind of sanctity about druggists' scales and weights and measuring devices handed down from the time of the alchemists is contained in a letter received by Commissioner Cummings from the office of the commissioner of weights and measures at the state house and the weights and measures officials are now endeavoring to pass by the drug stores. The letter, dated Sept. 29, 1913, is as follows:

Dear Sir: Your attention is respectfully called to sections 12, 14, 15, 16 and 17, chapter 62 of the revised laws, which relate to the testing and sealing of apothecaries' scales, weights and measures. The field of endeavor of weights and measures officials is broad and is continually broadening, hence, due to the lack of help, lack of facilities, and lack of the certain phases of sanctity about druggists' scales and weights and measuring devices in drug stores. The cause of this seeming neglect, aside from the help or time elements, is often found in the idea that has been instilled in the minds of some of the local weights and measures officials through the prevailing notion of the general public and many druggists that there is a certain kind of sanctity about druggists' scales and weights and measuring devices. This notion has been handed down from the time of the alchemists.

This idea is typified by the reception that the weights and measures official very often receives upon entering a drug store. The druggist or clerk will smile knowingly and say: "You surely do not want to test my druggists' scales, do you? How absurd it is to do so. The weights and measures officials will cause surprise and wonderment at their inaccuracy. Even recognizing that the field of prescriptions is relative weighing and therefore need not be done as carefully as absolute weighing, and further recognizing that more or less inaccuracy or carelessness does not so materially affect the results attained by prescription, inas much as the potent element in the prescription is generally small, yet these same scales are often used in making weighings where it is very important that considerable accuracy be obtained not only from the standpoint of the consumer, but also from the standpoint of the druggist, as the commodities handled are not only of considerable monetary value, but may have a decided deleterious effect if not properly measured or weighed.

A drug store of today is a peculiar combination of drugs, soda fountain, cigar stand, stationery, notions, etc. Disregarding all these things that have been added in the past few years, some of which, to be sure, have weights and measures which require testing, as for instance, ice cream pails at soda fountains, the weighing and measuring devices of drug stores may be divided roughly as follows: First, prescription devices; second, counter scales and measures; third, pails and oil measures; fourth, graduated glassware offered for sale.

The sealer should call the attention of the druggist to the fact that the graduated glassware which he handles should be correct, and urge him to be sure that the same is correct, and that the scales and measures which he uses should be well to purchase the glassware subject to the test by the sealer. A great deal of this glassware is used for the purpose of measuring food for delicate or sickly people, and in some cases it becomes necessary that this be very carefully done. It costs no more to have the glassware accurate than to have it inaccurate, and the druggist might just as well pay for what the goods are supposed to be.

The weights and measures officials in their tour of inspection should not pass by the drug stores. Some of the sealers may not be equipped to test some of the weights and if they are not it becomes their duty to have their respective boards purchase for them the necessary apparatus to make the proper tests.

Yours very truly,
Thure Hanson, Commissioner.

DYING IN WOODS OF STARVATION

John Kendall of Collinsville Was Found in No. Chelmsford—Had Been Missing Six Weeks

While walking in the vicinity of North Chelmsford yesterday, Joseph Fallon and Fred Reidy, two young men of that town were horrified to find a man unknelt, disheveled and almost in the last stages of starvation lying in an old shack near the disused rifle range. He was terribly emaciated and had evidently lain where they found him for several days. The chairman of the board of selectmen was notified and immediately went to the scene. When he saw the condition of the unfortunate man he sent for Dr. Varney, who rendered medical assistance and advised the administration of nourishment judiciously as the man was perishing for want of food. At that time he was unable to give an account of himself, where he hailed from or how long he had lain there, but later in the evening when his condition improved he muttered something about Collinsville.

Accordingly, this morning he was driven to Collinsville and taken to the home of John Brennan, town clerk of Dracut, for identification. Mr. Brennan identified him as one John Kendall, who had lived in Collinsville up to six weeks ago, but had mysteriously disappeared about that time. Because of his weak and emaciated condition Mr. Brennan immediately ordered him to the Corporation hospital. He is said to have relatives or friends in Church street this city.

When interviewed this morning on the subject Mr. Brennan said: "I know the man very well as he has lived and worked in Collinsville for some time past and people there were very surprised when he disappeared suddenly about six weeks ago. In a short time, however, the matter was forgotten and you can imagine my surprise when I was called upon by the Chelmsford authorities to identify him and found instead of the strong, vigorous man weighing 150 pounds or more, a living skeleton not weighing 80 pounds. Undoubtedly were he not discovered he would have died of starvation within a few days. The poor fellow acted as though he is not all right mentally and I could get nothing definite or connected from him as to his wanderings or the cause of his condition. At the hospital this morning it was said that though the man is very weak he may recover. Owing to his precarious condition and the long time he was without food he can take but little nourishment and, therefore, his recovery will be slow. They consider him all right mentally but can get nothing connected from him owing to his weak state. He seems to be laboring under the stress of some great trouble and whether this drove him into the woods or is the result of his harrowing experience it is at present impossible to say.

HANS SCHIMDT HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Coroner's Jury Holds Him Responsible for the Death of Anna Amuller

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Hans Schmidt, the murderer of Anna Amuller, became frenzied today at the coroner's inquest into the death of his victim, more from his neck the rosary he had worn ever since his incarceration and hurled it at the newspaper reporters sitting half a dozen steps away. The jury found him responsible for the girl's death.

Schmidt's outburst of temper occurred in the presence of a jury of millionaires empaneled to conduct the inquest. The verdict was quickly found.

It follows: "We, the jury, believe that Anna Amuller came to her death on Sept. 2, 1913, at number 65 Broadway, New York, at the hands of Hans Schmidt." Schmidt was immediately remanded to the Tombs without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co., was foreman of the jury. His fellow jurors included Vincent Astor, B. J. Greenhut, merchant; Mortimer Regensberg, cigar manufacturer and E. S. Marston, banker.

When Schmidt was brought into the courtroom he appeared to be calm. During the brief examination of witnesses he sat with his back to the courtroom floor upright and made no unusual move till the coroner had concluded his charge to the jury.

Coroner Feinberg's charge seemed to lash the prisoner into a sudden tempest of fury. Jumping to his feet, his eyes blazing and his lips moving, Schmidt tore the rosary from his neck and before detectives could stay him he had hurled it at the reporters.

The case of the victim was identified by Anna Hirt, who roomed with the Amuller girl at the parish house of St. Boniface's church. A small brown mark on the bosom, which may have been the birthmark, furnished the means of identification.

The Hirt woman was followed on the stand by detectives, the physician who made the autopsy and finally by Inspector Faurer, in charge of the detective bureau, to whom Schmidt confessed.

"Do you wish to place your client on the stand?" Coroner Feinberg next asked counsel for Schmidt. The answer was in the negative.

The coroner told the jury that it could find that Anna Amuller came to her death at the hands of an unknown person or that she was killed by a person to be named by the jury.

"Hans Schmidt does not appear before you on trial for murder," he said. "You are simply to find a verdict as a coroner's jury."

Within 15 minutes from the time the first witness had taken the stand the jury had withdrawn for consideration of the case. Within ten minutes more it had returned with its verdict.

SCHOOL STILL CROWDED

Work in Many Departments at High School Hindered by the Lack of Room

The crowded condition of the rooms at the Lowell high school still prevails, according to the statement of Principal Irish to a Sun man this morning. Two of the classes are at present holding their recitations in the assembly hall of the building, a course which is accompanied by setbacks and considerable inconvenience affecting several departments.

With the two classes, both of which are very large, holding their recitations in the same hall, very near together, it is with great difficulty that the work of instruction and of hearing the daily lessons is carried on. Moreover, under the present state of affairs, it is, of course, out of the question to hold the election classes, and thus the work in this line has had to undergo suspension until better arrangements are effected.

Mr. Irish said that he had succeeded in placing all of the pupils by crowding them into the various rooms, providing extra chairs, benches, etc., but that the principal need is that of suitable recitation rooms. The work in many departments is hindered by the lack of room.

The members of the school committee have taken up the question of providing additional rooms and have under consideration the house of the Jewett state in Kirk street, just north of the high school building, and directly in the rear of the Knights of Columbus building. The occupants of this house, it is said, have recently begun to move out, and from this it is supposed that they have received notification of one sort, perhaps from the authorities in charge of the place, who may anticipate leasing the building to the city for school purposes.

A member of the school committee said that he believed that the use had already been signed by Mayor O'Donnell for the city of Lowell, the lease being granted by J. D. Jewett representing the heirs of Harriett E. Jewett, who are said to reside in Arlington. His Honor, the mayor, however, replied that he had not as yet signed any lease, nor has he received any official notification that such an action was pending. He did say, however, that from various sources he has heard that it is the intention of the school board to request him to sign such a lease at an early date. It seems to be the general belief that the matter will be transacted as soon as possible, so that the carpenters may prepare the rooms to be used as recitation rooms. The location of the building, adjoining as it does, the main high school, is most favorable.

Football Game Monday

The football game between the Lowell High eleven and the team representing the High School of Commerce of Boston, will be played at Spaulding park on Monday afternoon, having been postponed Saturday because of the failure of the authorities to secure the use of the park for that date.

The team is reported to be in fine shape and it is expected that a large number will go to the park to see the first home gridiron contest of the season.

NEW SATURDAY FEATURES

LADY LOOKABOUT, THE MAN IN THE MOON AND SPELLBINDER WILL HAVE SOMETHING INTERESTING TO SAY

In tomorrow's Sun Lady Lookabout will have the most interesting article yet touching upon various topics of interest to women, including politics and the manner in which candidates modestly announce their own benign qualities. "The Man in the Moon" discusses various abuses, including the degeneracy of the sporting spirit to a sordid contest for money; the no-smoking signs that are ignored, profanity on the streets and the true spirit of charity. The Spellbinder calls right into some of the candidates and their records that should make any man blush. He tells why Gardner should be hanged in the coming election and touches on all the local contests.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

Now in Full Swing With a Large Attendance— Football Team Busy

The work at the Lowell Textile school is now in full swing with a very large attendance at all of the classes. Those classes in which after a four years' course, degrees may be obtained are especially sought by the entering students.

On last Wednesday evening, the alumni of the institution gave an informal reception to the students, old and new, at the school and a very pleasant evening was spent by all. In this way a valuable intercommunication is established between alumni and student body, which may be of especial benefit to the latter. There was an address of welcome by Mr. Arthur C. Varney, assistant superintendent of the Sterling mills of this city, and a graduate of the Textile school, class of '06. His words were of deep interest to all and were listened to attentively throughout. The speech was followed by a program of music, instrumental and vocal, after which these present went about renewing acquaintances, establishing new friends, and generally making the graduates and students of the institution.

The evening classes of the school will start work on Monday evening next. Registration periods for these classes have been held on the past two Thursday evenings and the enrollment thus far is more than usually large. A great many students from Lowell and Lawrence will attend the evening session.

The football eleven is benefiting by daily workouts on the campus and gives promise of being a winning aggregation. Thus far a very large number of candidates have reported to the coach and the interest is even greater than that of last year.

The members of the various classes will be called into session at an early date in order to organize.

FRANK O. MCCORMICK SENTENCED FOR FRAUDULENT USE OF THE MAILS

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—A sentence of 18 months in the Greenfield jail was imposed on Frank O. McCormick upon his plea of guilty of fraudulent use of the mails by Judge Morton in the United States district court today.

Under the name of G. E. Munsey, McCormick advertised that upon receipt of $1 he would forward 7½ pounds of butter or 3½ dozen fresh eggs by parcel post. Complaints were made to the postal authorities by persons who had sent the money that neither butter nor eggs were shipped. The authorities seized at the Hinsdale, N. H., post office through which McCormick did business more than 200 letters, each of which contained a dollar.

CURRENCY BILL

Situation Confronting it in Senate a Matter of Deep Concern

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The situation confronting the administration currency bill in the senate has become a matter of deep concern to President Wilson and members of the senate who favor early action on the bill. Four members of the senate banking and currency committee have been in conference during the last week in an effort to devise a plan for hastening action on the bill, but they have not decided finally what course will be followed if the full committee should refuse to report the bill back to the senate.

Chairman Owen and Senators Dummer, Hollis and Shafroth have participated in the conferences which began soon after the visit of Senators Owen and Shafroth to the White House early in the week. It is understood that Senators Hitchcock, O'Gorman and Reed, the three other democratic members of the senate, have thus far refused to agree to any plan of immediate action on the bill.

Several tentative plans for forcing the measure upon the attention of the full senate have been considered by administration leaders. These include a proposal to have the senate committee discharged from further consideration of the bill, thus bringing it before the full senate and the alternative possibility of having a democratic caucus take up the problem and determine what course shall be followed.

In both cases, however, the friends of the administration bill recognize that sentiment is divided on the democratic side over many provisions of the measure. It is believed that an exodus of senators from Washington will follow the signing of the tariff bill and that any contemplated action involving the full democratic strength of the senate will be withheld for several weeks. The senate committee met today to hear of delegations of small bankers of the south and of middle west.

JUVENILE AUTO RACES

BOYS TO TEST THEIR SELF-MADE VEHICLES IN TRIAL OF SPEED TOMORROW AFTERNOON

The younger element of upper Broadway is looking forward with great interest to the amateur automobile races that are to be held in that vicinity tomorrow afternoon. Several of the lads who reside near the corner of School street and Broadway have manufactured automobiles and the business men of that district have donated baseball gloves, roller skates, a football and many other prizes to be awarded to the winners.

The starting point will be at the corner of School street and Broadway and will run up School, down Cross, down Mt. Vernon and up Broadway to the bridge place. In the big race the boys will go over this course about 12 times and as the automobiles are operated by hand power it will be necessary to have a relief man at every corner. The owners of the "speccers" will sit at the wheel and blow the horn when a pedestrian endangers his life by stepping in front of the machines.

LIKE THE NEW SYSTEM

Auditor Paige and Assistants Im- pressed With the Book-Keeping Arrangement

The new system of bookkeeping that is being installed at the city hall by experts from Gettemy's office will be in operation in a very few days and the experts will then march on to Lawrence to install the system there.

City Auditor Paige and his assistants are very much pleased with the new system. It means considerable more work for them, but the system is so thorough that they allow the extra work to be worked out by turning more or less than a corporation system of bookkeeping, double entry.

Under the new system the card classification scheme will be eliminated and will be superseded by the bureau of statistics classification book. Under the new system it will be possible for the auditor to balance the city's books daily. If necessary, and the necessity of leaving something over until tomorrow as was the case under the old system will be wiped out.

The experts have posted the new books up to September 1 and in a day or two they will have them posted up to Oct. 1. Then the experts will turn the books over to the city auditor and go on to Lawrence, leaving one man behind to write classification sheets. It is generally conceded that the new system will work a great improvement.

More Money Needed
Nobody at city hall knows how much youngsters have spent much time getting everything into shape for the big contest and several minor wagers have been made as to who will be the first to cross the line.

It is no easy task to build any of the machines and nothing has been left undone to make them complete. In many cases a registration number has been painted on the front and rear of the vehicle and mud-guards, hood and all parts are in good shape. A large number of spectators will be on hand tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to witness the young auto racers as they go over the course.

money will be required to piece over the different departments for the year. The school department and the board of health are not the only ones who will ask for money. The purchasing agent's department will have to have more money because of increased expenses connected with the office.

This would be a good time, it was suggested today, for the council members to think about what is going to happen next year. This year's government is allowed to borrow for current expenses but after Jan. 1, 1914, all borrowing for current expenses must cease, and that is one big reason why the state allowed the cities and towns the privilege of making the tax rate $12 instead of $13. The extra dollar was intended to relieve the embarrassment of being unable to borrow for current or departmental expenses.

"The city will make a big mistake if it does not raise the limit to $12," said Mr. Tarbox of Gettemy's office today.

City Planning Board

The city council has not yet elected successors to Messrs. Joseph A. Leary and George P. Green, who declined to serve on the city planning board, and Mayor O'Donnell said today that so far as he was concerned he didn't have any new candidates in mind.

Gor. Fess will call a meeting of the planning boards of the different cities throughout the commonwealth. The meeting or conference will be held in Boston about Oct. 19 or 20.

Registration

Registration for the state election opened yesterday afternoon and was continued last evening. The total was 35, divided among the wards as follows: Ward 1, 1; ward 2, 3; ward 3, 5; ward 4, 4; ward 5, 5; ward 6, 7; ward 7, 4; ward 8, 4; ward 9, 5. Registration will go on this afternoon from 1 to 3 o'clock, and tonight, from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Man With Itch

A fellow who claims to have contracted barber's itch in a barber shop in this city has complained to the board of health. He does not know what particular shop to lay the blame upon for he has not been in the habit of visiting any particular shop. So far as barber shops are concerned the man with the itch didn't play any favorites and he asks the board of health to take a peek at all of the shops. He avers that a great many of the shops need watching.

It was also suggested, but not by the man with the barber's itch, for he has troubles of his own, that the board of health should visit the barrooms once in a while, not for the purpose of tanking up, but to take a glance at the water in the troughs where the glasses are washed and to observe other unclean practices. The man who made this suggestion, said: "I have often thought of the wonderful attention paid to milk and milk dealers by the board of health with never a word about the barroom. Some of the barrooms need attention."

After this man had made his little spiel he was quietly told that the hotel, saloon and gross shop business was up to the license commission.

LEAPS TO DEATH

Patient in Maine Hospital Jumps Through Window

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 3.—While in a delirious condition caused by a fever Frank H. Boody, 30 years old, leaped through a window on the fourth floor of the Maine General hospital early yesterday and was instantly killed when he struck the brick sidewalk.

Boody was a traveling real estate agent and had recently taken a house in this city. Soon after midnight the nurse, Miss Jeanne Keene, detected symptoms of delirium in her patient. She secured a set of bands with which to confine the man to the bed and was just leaving the room for help in adjusting them when Boody leaped up and sprang for the window.

Before the nurse could block his flight he dived out head first, going through the screen, the window being open. Miss Keene was in time only to seize him by an ankle. The man's weight almost pulled her through the window and the edges of the screen and window sill severely lacerated her arms and wrists. Her shirtwaist was torn to shreds. The young woman screamed for help, but none came until after she was obliged to loosen her hold.

LIFE SAVERS TO RESCUE

CAPT. CAHOON OF HARWICH IS A DANGEROUS FLIGHT—BOAT GOES ON ROCKS AT LONG LEDGE

SCITUATE, Oct. 3.—Capt. Cahoon of Harwich was rescued by the local U. S. life-saving crew from a dangerous position when the 20-foot cat-boat in which he was sailing alone from Boston to South Harwich went on to the rocks at Long Ledge, off the Sand Hills beach, about 7 last night.

Capt. Cahoon left Boston yesterday afternoon, and just after passing Milne's Light his compass went overboard when a big wave struck the little craft.

A heavy sea has been running the past two days, owing to the high north-east wind and the waves tossed the catboat about so that it was almost unmanageable. Capt. Cahoon, with his compass missing, lost his direction when darkness fell and striking on the rocks was the first intimation he got that he was near land.

Some people on the beach telephoned the life-saving station. Capt. Frederick Franzen and his six men hurried with their apparatus down the three miles of a beach to a point opposite Long Ledge. A large dory was launched and the life-savers rowed 300 yards to the craft, which had careened and rolled off Capt. Cahoon. He was brought to the life-saving station where he remained last night.

The catboat was sighted and anchored in a safe place for the night. The craft was not damaged and Capt. Cahoon will resume his trip, in the morning.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 3.—Governor Dumes will call a conference of leading citizens of Illinois next week to consider the proposition of addressing a memorial to President Wilson asking him to fix Wednesday, Nov. 13, as Thanksgiving day for this year.

Nov. 13 will be the fiftieth anniversary of the delivery by Abraham Lincoln of his Gettysburg address. The movement, it is said, has the endorsement of United States Senators Sherman and Lewis of Illinois.

CLABBY AND PETROSKY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—Jimmy Clabby, the eastern middleweight, will meet Sailor Petroskey here tonight in a 20-round fight, the winner of which probably will be acclaimed the champion of his class. Although the easterner is a shade more highly held in the ring public's estimation at odds of 9 to 10, experts agree that there is little to choose between the men and a hard fought contest is expected.

Clabby is conceded about ten pounds to Petroskey, who made it a condition that he be allowed to weigh 120 pounds, two pounds over the recognized middleweight class.

MATHEWS OF BILLERICA

TENDERED RECEPTION TO REV. FR. CORNELL, O. M. I. RETIRING PASTOR OF ST. ANDREWS

About seventy members of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society of North Billerica assembled in their hall last night to bid farewell to the Rev. E. J. Cornell, O. M. I., chaplain of the society and pastor of St. Andrew's church of North Billerica. A similar reception was held by the residents of the town in Taubert Memorial hall last week and the members of the Mathews also took an active part in that event.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of a silver watch to the pastor as a token of the appreciation of the interest that he has taken in the Mathews during his stay in Billerica. The presentation was made by Mr. Fred Reardon, president of the society, and he in behalf of the members expressed their good wishes wherever his new field may be and told of the respect that the Mathews and others felt when it became known that he was to leave the church and society. Fr. Cornell thanked the members for the thoughtful gift and assured them that his connection with the society was one of the pleasant features of the jubilate order. Mr. Edward F. Slattery was present and spoke at some length on the history of the Mathews of No.

Billerica. Mr. Slattery was one of the organizers of this society and he stated that he had missed very few social events since its organization and took great pleasure in being with the members. He was loudly applauded at the close of his talk by those who know him as the "father of the society." During the evening there were musical selections by Mr. Charles Fair-brother, Mr. George Ennton and Mr. Nestor Hubert and recitations by Mr. Maurice O'Donnell. The committee in charge was as follows: J. Fred Reardon, J. F. Gannon, and William Taylor,

TARIFF PASSES IN SENATE

By Vote of 36 to 17—Expected
Bill Will be in Hands of Pres.
Wilson by Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The democratic tariff revision bill probably will be in the hands of President Wilson for his signature by tonight. The senate at the end of a listless debate passed the conference report at 3:30 o'clock last night by a vote of 36 to 17, only four more than the necessary quorum of the senate.

Senators La Follette, republican, of Wisconsin, and Poindexter, progressive, of Washington, voted for the conference report as they did for the bill on its passage. And Senators Randall and Thornton, democrats, of Louisiana, voted against it as they did against the bill. Otherwise it was a strict party vote.

Cotton Tax Dropped
Immediately after the passage of the conference report acting on motions made by Chairman Simmons of the finance committee, the senate rejected the Smith-Lever compromise cotton futures tax amendment passed by the house Tuesday; and then receded from its own amendment, known as the Clarke cotton futures tax plan.

Both of these motions were carried without roll calls and their effect is to leave the cotton futures question out of the tariff bill, so far as the senate is concerned.

The bill was returned to the house early today.

At a conference of house leaders yesterday the question was taken up as to whether the bill might not go directly from the senate to the president. While many parliamentarians held that this course would be legal, Chairman Underwood and Speaker Clark decided that the house should take formal action today to recede from its cotton futures tax amendment. Such action will eliminate the subject from the bill and the completed measure can go to President Wilson at once.

Soon to Be Law

It was thought at the capitol last night that the bill would become a law Saturday. Anticipating such a conclusion to the tariff revision fight, the treasury department was busy yesterday making final preparations to put the new rates of duty into effect on all foreign merchandise on the day following the signature of the bill by the president. It is expected that millions of dollars worth of imported goods now held in bond will be withdrawn for distribution in this country within two or three days after the new tariff rates become effective.

The eight and a half hours of debate in the senate yesterday produced but little real criticism of the tariff bill or the conference agreement. Chief interest centered in the speech of Senator Penrose (republican) of Pennsylvania, who raised the standard of the Angora goat over the democratic party and moved the senate to continued outbursts of laughter with his allusion to the new duty that had been put on Angora wool. The principal criticism of the conference committee came from Senator Pomerene (democrat) of Ohio, whose amendment imposing a tax of $1.10 a gallon on spirits used to fortify sweet wines had been dropped out by the conferees, and from Senator Borah (republican) of Idaho, whose amendment prohibiting the importation of goods made by child labor also had been eliminated.

Senator Pomerene said he acquiesced in the decision of the conferees because he knew the senate members had been compelled to drop the wine tax amendment.

Senator Borah declared that the opposition to the child labor amendment had been fostered and stirred up by importers and aided by "sinister influences" in this country that were opposed to restrictions against child labor.

Child Labor Law Favored

"There is nothing so pathetic, nothing so menacing to the citizenship of this republic," he added, "as the fact that these conditions of labor continue here in our country year after year, and there seems no remedy for them."

Attempts to impeach the work of the conferees on points of order were overruled by Senator Clarke, president pro tempore. Senators Burton and Penrose declared the conference had injected new matter into the tariff bill by changing rates that both houses had agreed to.

Senator Simmons, in presenting estimates of the revenues to be derived from the new tariff rates, declared that the democrats were to be congratulated on the character of the tariff bill that finally had been brought out of the conference committee. "This is the first tariff bill ever passed in this country," he said, "that was framed by the whole body of the party responsible for the legislation."

FALLS OUT OF TREE

BOY PLAYING "STUMP THE LEADER" DROPS 25 FEET AND IS BADLY INJURED

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—During a game of "stump the leader," James Thornhill, 14 years old, of 15 Plymouth street, Everett, fell 25 feet from the topmost branches of an elm tree yesterday afternoon on School street and sustained a broken wrist, a fractured right arm, besides possible internal injuries.

The injured youth was taken to the Whidden Memorial hospital, Everett, where his condition is serious. It is expected, however, that he will recover.

The boy, with several of his companions, had been climbing the trees in the vicinity all the afternoon, and Thornhill was attempting to outdo his companions when he fell. The branch was unable to withstand the boy's weight, and he toppled from branch to branch upon a heap of rocks and gravel below.

OELRICHS OUT ON $1000 BANKERSTOMEET

Will be Arraigned Tuesday on Charge of Felonious Assault on Lucille Singleton

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Young Herman Oelrichs remained in seclusion today, declining to discuss the charge of Lucille Singleton, daughter of a Texas mining man, that he had stabbed her on Tuesday night last before the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a tree. He referred all inquiries to his lawyers who repeated what they had said yesterday, and last night—"That the stabbing charge was ridiculous."

They were equally emphatic in stating that no attempts had been made to "rush the matter up" and that no offer of a money settlement to the girl had been or would be made. The girl kept to her room today awaiting the arrival of her father from Dallas, Texas. She is still suffering from shock and from the wounds on her breast, which Oelrichs' lawyers say were sustained when she was flung through the windshield of the auto.

Columbia university authorities, it was understood, were to investigate the affair to determine whether the facts warranted Oelrichs' dismissal as a student at the institution.

On Tuesday next the case will come out in court, when Oelrichs will be arraigned on a charge of felonious assault. Meantime he is out under $1000 bail.

The ushers were the Misses Florine Bean, Margaret Archibald, Lillian Butler, Esther Gadden, Mildred Chapman, Maude Smith, Eva Henderson, Helen Harriman, Flora Walker, Susie Caldwell, Frances Leggat and Gertrude Libbee.

LANGFORD MEETS JEANNETTE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Sam Langford and Joe Jeannette will meet for the first time here tonight to decide which will meet Jack Johnson in Europe next December. Langford has already been matched with Johnson but Jeannette has been told that a victory over the Bostonian would mean that he would be given the chance.

When Langford and Jeannette met here two years ago Langford won a popular victory, having secured a knockout in the final round but Jeannette in the three preceding rounds had so completely outwitted Langford that the crowd laughed at the latter's weak efforts at defense.

Arrangements for Convention in Boston—Banks Decorated

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—With the expected arrival today of General Secretary Farnsworth and 12 assistants to open headquarters at a local hotel preparations for the 39th annual convention of the American Bankers' association were in full swing. The convention will open next Monday. Already banking houses throughout the city have decorated their buildings with flags and bunting in token of their welcome to the 3000 bankers from all parts of the country who are expected to attend the gathering. The currency bill now before congress will, it is expected, form one of the principal topics of discussion.

The expenditure of $2000 appropriated for improvements on the South common has been held up on a legal question as to whether the park department or the department of public property should spend the money. The matter was referred to the city solicitor who has not yet given an opinion.

RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

It's Me For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 50c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.

ENDS BACKACHE AND KIDNEY DISORDERS

Croxone Helps Lifeless Organs Regain Health, Strength and Activity

It is useless, dangerous and unnecessary to be tortured with the digging, twisting pains of backache or suffer disagreeable kidney and bladder disorders when Croxone is guaranteed to promptly and surely relieve all such misery.

Croxone masters these troubles because it quickly reaches the cause of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the membranes and linings, cleans out the little filtering glands, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and makes the kidneys filter and sift from the blood the waste and poisonous matter that clog the system and cause such troubles.

It does not matter whether you have but slight symptoms or a chronic, aggravated case, it is practically impossible to take Croxone without results.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if you are not entirely satisfied the very first time you use it.

POMONA GRANGE

Held Monthly Session at Bridge Street Hall With Fine Program

The monthly meeting of the Middlesex North Pomona grange was held this morning in Odd Fellows hall on Bridge street and there were present many from the different granges in the suburbs of Lowell while granges in North Reading, Wilmington and other towns were represented. As usual there were two sessions one at 10:30 o'clock this morning and the other at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the latter being open to all interested in the work of the grange while the morning session was for members of the Pomona grange only.

Promptly at 10:30 o'clock the lecturer, Miss Margaret Sarre, called the meeting to order and welcomed all who had gathered there to listen to the different addresses and numbers on the program. The meeting was then given over to an informal discussion of the topic, "How do you account for the fact that farmers have less influence in politics than lawyers when farmers are seventy times as numerous?"

It had been advertised at the different granges that this would be the topic for discussion and the grangers, both men and women, took great interest in the question believing that it was one of great importance to them. At the present time in the towns the lawyers or professional men are more prominent in politics than the farmer and the grangers believe that the farmer who knows his business is qualified to manage town affairs just as well as the lawyer.

The different views on this subject proved very interesting and instructive to the members. Several points were brought up that will probably be discussed at the granges throughout the state and it is believed that the farmer and the granger will greatly benefit by this discussion.

Shortly after the noon session was over the members assembled in the dining room, where a bountiful dinner was waiting for them. The repast was prepared by 14 members of the Pomona grange and there was nothing omitted from the menu that would help to satisfy the appetites of the 100 or more men and women that sat down at the long tables.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock and continued till after 4. The program was one of the best that has been furnished for some time.

Mrs. George S. Lord of Surbridge was the principal speaker at the afternoon meeting and she spoke on the subject "Women in Agriculture." She told of several instances where women had been a great help to the man in agricultural work and gave several ideas on the correct way to utilize all the advantages of a farm.

Representative Taylor of Westford addressed the members on "Some Phases of Farm Life: Other Phases and Faces." This topic was also very interesting as well as instructive.

A delightful musical entertainment was then furnished by the Billerica grange. The first number was a piano solo by Mrs. Tullen. This was followed by a song by Miss Irene Lott-house and a harmonica duet by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. W. W. Tullen acted as accompanist during the afternoon.

HUSBAND AS DETECTIVE

MAN WHO FOLLOWED HIS WIFE TO GET EVIDENCE, IS GRANTED A DIVORCE

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Frederick W. Cope of 32 Pearl street, Cambridge, who once acted as his own detective and followed his wife's actions with a diary and pencil for 10 months to gain evidence for an allegation of affection suit against one of his lodgers, was yesterday granted a divorce nisi by Judge McLaughlin of the East Cambridge superior divorce court.

His wife, Winifred M. Cope, who failed in her attempt to get a divorce in 1912, did not contest the case. Frederick Cope is a plumbing salesman. His love for his wife survived divorce proceedings in 1912, when she charged him with cruel and abusive treatment. Later he came home one night and found her in the company of John Shaw, a middle aged widower, and retired furniture dealer, who had lodgings in the Cope home.

Cope declared in the allegation suit which followed: "I love my wife, but I can't stop love, and I am willing to take her back." Cope was awarded heart balm amounting to $500. This happened in March, 1913.

A very few weeks after this statement he was disabused according to his statements, and in April he brought suit against his wife for divorce.

Pain Around The Heart

Means Gas on the Stomach, Not Organic Heart Disease

That pain around your heart means pressure of gas, the result of indigestion. It does not mean heart disease. Pain in the region of the heart is almost never present in organic heart trouble.

Strength for the stomach is the one thing needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, one after each meal, and a little care in the diet, will correct most cases.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic and positively strengthen and purify the blood. The renewed blood restores the digestive organs and gives relief that is permanent.

This is the tonic treatment for indigestion. You can begin this treatment today and start on the road to health by getting a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People from the nearest drug store.

In an effort to bring about a settlement of the difficulties which have closed down the mill since last Monday representatives of the strikers, mill officials and the state board of arbitration will meet next Monday afternoon. The weavers ask for shorter hours and changes in the working conditions.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of James A. Garfield post, 120, G. A. R., was held in their hall on Merrimack street with Commander Thomas O. Regan in the chair. A large amount of routine business was transacted and Comrade Gasmell of this city, who now resides in Hillsboro, N. H., was present for the first time in 15 years and made some very interesting remarks. Senior Vice Commander James Adams Bartlett, of Ladd and Whitney post, 155, G. A. R., had been invited to visit Post 120 at the next regular meeting to talk on his visit to Chattanooga on the occasion of the reunion of the Blue and the Gray, September 20 and 21. Plans were made for placing flags in the respective cemeteries on October 10, as follows:

Post 42 will care for St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's and No. 2 cemeteries; the Sons of Veterans will care for the Lowell and Hildreth cemeteries, and the Spanish War veterans will care for the Edison cemetery. The flags will be delivered Friday, Oct. 10, by Post 120.

BARRED AS OWN JUROR

VINEYARD MAN, WAITING TO SIT ON THE JURY, INDICTED—HE STRAYED FROM THEATIS HALL

EDGARTOWN, Oct. 3.—The paradoxical possibility of a juror being called to sit in judgment on himself was created in the superior court Tuesday by a turn of circumstances more curious and complicated than many situations in the "movies," of which he is a manager, wherein James A. Pratt of Oak Bluffs, summoned to serve on the traverse jury, was arraigned as a prisoner under the only indictments returned by the grand jury as the sole business for the consideration of the petit jury.

The embarrassing prospect was removed only by the postponement of the cases until the next term of the court in April.

As added interest to the complexities, Pratt was presented in the dual role of theatrical man and a David Harum; for it was because he temporarily strayed from the hall of Thespis to venture into the field of horse trading that he was precipitated into the judicial vortex.

One indictment charged Pratt with larceny of a sum less than $100 from Ernest A. Nickel, an Oak Bluffs laundryman, the other with the sale of a horse which, by reason of debility and disease was unfit for service under the laws of the commonwealth.

An occasion arose when the laundryman felt the need of a new horse in connection with his business. Well knowing that Pratt was rated as a good judge of horseflesh—for the moving picture man has a hobby for horses although not at all interested in hobby-horses—approached him upon the subject of aiding him in getting a suitable animal.

It might be stated, parenthetically, so to speak, that Pratt is a man of very easy approach, inasmuch as being possessed of a character of marked mutability and multifarious duties he is to be found occasionally presiding at the bar of the island's single licensed spirituous drink dispensary.

According to the claims made before the grand jury, Pratt agreed to act as Nickel's agent in the horse transaction, and was authorized to go as far as he liked up to a limit of $75—in payment for a good, sound specimen of the equine species.

Pratt, it is alleged, betrayed his trust by buying for the small sum of $35, a so-called horse for which he is alleged to have collected $75 from the laundryman.

"Well I should worry!" exclaimed the new owner after an experience with the critter, or creature, rather. It was as if he had been stung in a deal with the real David Harum; for, as he tells it, the horse had the heaves with a sound effect like the bursting bubbles of an effervescent beer vat and, in a word, was "all in."

Nickel personally charged Pratt with duplicity, deceit and other things with a big D in them, but Pratt disclaimed all dishonor with the assurance and grace of all good horse dealers.

Nickel hated to be "plugged," as you might say, hence he carried his grievances before the grand jury.

That solemn body, having the fair name of Marthas Vineyard and the honor of its people in its keeping, lent ear to the whisper of insular scandal and, determined to wipe out the stain by offering up, if necessary, a victim for immolation upon the altar of righteousness, drew up the double indictment against Pratt.

ELECTROCUTED NEW SCHEDULE

Foreman Turning on Switch Was Hurled Out of Window

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 3.—Alexander T. Stewart, an employee of the Gordon-Pew Fisheries company of this city, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon as he was turning on the powerful electric switch to run the escalator and hurled 10 feet through a window. His body was found a half hour later by fellow employees.

Physicians were called, but after working over him for an hour with a pulmotor he was pronounced dead. Stewart had been employed for several years as a foreman in the company. He leaves a wife and seven children.

Stewart, when he turned on the switch, was standing in his bare feet on a floor covered with water. His hand, it is believed, must have come in contact with the switch, and the current of electricity passed through his body into the water covered floor.

The crash of the window through which the man was hurled was carried out into the yard by the force of the contact. It was found lying beside the body fully 10 feet away from the switchboard of the escalator.

The New Haven Road Slows Down Many of Its Fast Trains

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—In order to promote a greater safety to the traveling public, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has made one of the most sweeping revisions of train schedules probably ever inaugurated by a railroad at one time.

The revised schedule includes the lengthening of the running time of some of the trains, but the New Haven officials believe that this will meet the approval of the public.

Approximately two-thirds of the 2000 trains, which the New Haven road operates each week day, will be affected by the change. The through trains and those covering long runs are chiefly affected.

There are very few changes in suburban trains at New York and Boston. The time of the limited trains between New York and Boston has been increased 10 minutes and their new average for time will be 47.5 miles an hour. For the running time of other through trains from 5 to 23 minutes have been added.

T. & S. AGENT CONFIDENT

Mr. Rawlinson Says Mill is Booming — Back Dividends Will be Made up — New Minor Law

Agent Rawlinson of the Tremont & Suffolk mill reports extra good business at the mill, and as a matter of fact he says the weekly output is much larger at the present time than it was at this time last year.

All departments are running full time and the company has plenty of orders on hand, so much so that some of the departments are running overtime, but this does not strike the right chord with Agent Rawlinson, and he told the writer eventually he will put a stop if possible to this overtime business. However, despite tariff talk, the mill is experiencing a streak of good business, much better than has been seen for years.

A short time ago the officials of the company declared a dividend of $1.50 a share, which makes the rate of $4.50 a share for this stock for 1912, and it will be surprising and disappointing if the stock does not go on a six percent basis for 1913. In August, 1912, the Tremont & Suffolk mill paid a dividend of $2 a share, and nothing further was paid until March, 1913, so that the corporation really owes its stockholders $7.50 a share on the four percent dividend basis that ruled in 1909 and 1910. This will be made up in all probability, in due time, as with the big surplus and clean slate, so far as debts are concerned, there is no good reason why dividends should not be paid equal to six per cent, as this dividend calls for only $120,000.

The Tremont & Suffolk mill has a varied product that can be turned out at a good profit if conditions are right. Of course the depression due to the tariff has had its effect, but the dividend announcement at this time seems to forecast a permanent disbursement of some amount and it is expected the passed dividends will be made up before any definite rate for the future has been settled upon.

The Tremont & Suffolk mill has a new trade mark which consists of a picture of an armor helmet, the word "Skewmut," and the letters "T. & S." as a trade mark for cotton piece goods. The trademark serial number is 63,510.

Eight-Hour Law

Fibre and Fabric in its last issue has the following item relative to the new eight-hour law which went into effect Sept. 1:

All agents, superintendents, treasurers and overseers knew that the enactment of the law would upset all concerned and a fair warning was given in all probability, in due time, as with the big surplus and clean slate, so far as debts are concerned, there is no good reason why dividends should not be paid equal to six per cent, as this dividend calls for only $120,000.

TOO MANY CHILDREN

are pale and frail—backward in studies—with pinched faces and poor blood—their minds and bodies are actually starved because their regular food does not nourish.

Such children need Scott's Emulsion above everything else; it contains nature's rarest life-giving fats; it is essentially food value—blood-food and bone-food, free from wine, alcohol or harmful drug.

Scott's Emulsion often builds many times its weight in solid flesh—its medicinal, tonic and nutritive properties make all good food do good.

IT IS NOT A PROP. BUT A FOUNDATION FOR STURDY GROWTH.

Every Druggist Has It. Avoid Substitutes.

warning, but now not a few of the so-called reformers who have made for tunes from the labor of boys and girls, are seriously disturbed and are active in the movement for the repeal of the law by the incoming legislature.

From reports of the meetings so far held by the state investigating committee the opinion is practically unanimous that the law should be repealed. The meeting in Lowell is a fair sample of the opinion favoring the law. The only representative of the law was a representative of the carmen's union. He knew all about it and considered it the last piece of legislation ever enacted in Massachusetts. We can guess that the chief reason this man favored the law was his entire lack of knowledge on the question, and it will be a mistake if the child labor reform league or some such association do not engage him for field work without delay. While the representative of the carmen's union favored the law it will be noted that the officials of organizations that really do know something of the child labor situation were either not present at the meeting or failed to respond when their names were called.

Mr. Thomas Croyer, formerly assistant superintendent of the American Printing Co. of Fall River, and at one time overseer of the finishing department for the Merrimack Manufacturing Co. of this city, has severed his connection with the Fall River concern, and resumed his former position in Lowell.

Fred Pacey of this city was granted a patent for shedding mechanism for looms, the number of which is 1,064,194.

Agent Connell

A Boston textile paper in its last issue has the following relative to Agent John J. Connell, formerly of this city and now of New Bedford:

"The Booth Manufacturing Co. of New Bedford is now under the management of John J. Connell, formerly agent at the Tremont & Suffolk mill, and Mr. Connell is doing things with his customary energy, and Booth mill's shareholders can feel pretty certain that their property is in good hands. The Booth mill stock is closely held, and with the exception of one or two small blocks, will continue to be held, and present prices of 50 for the present and 35 for the common represent nothing of the value of the stock. The Booth mill is new, modern, and putting out a line of goods that are in better than ordinary demand, and the new management has hardly had time to turn around as yet. A year hence sellers of the stock at bid or asking prices will regret it."

A lively contest is promised for the presidency. Emanuel Peck, aged 95, of Stroudsburg, will be supported by the town people, while Herbert Elke of Redders will get the votes of those out of town. Andrew Wick, aged 96, of Tunkhannock township, may be the compromise candidate.

This week is "Quarter Week" at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

KILLED BY CAR

Sad Sequel to Wedding in Framingham—Guest Lost His Life

FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 3.—A sad sequel to the wedding in this town last night occurred today when the clergyman who had performed the marriage ceremony was summoned to administer the last rites of the church to one of the wedding guests who had been struck and fatally hurt by a trolley car. The victim was Michael W. Murphy, accompanied by his sister, Murphy. The signal of the car to stop, then started across the track to reach the side on which the door was open. The car, on a limited moving rapidly, Miss Murphy crossed safely but the motorman could not stop in time to prevent the car from striking Murphy, who died a few minutes afterward.

SLAY LITTLE BOY

Chinese Bandits Kill an American—Others are Maltreated

PEKIN, China, Oct. 3.—The American legation received a report yesterday from J. Paul Jameson, vice-consul general at Shanghai, that an American child had been killed and other foreigners were being maltreated by Chinese brigands at Tsaoyang.

The legation fears that the Chinese government troops are neither capable nor zealous enough to accomplish the release of the American and Norwegian missionaries in the hands of the bandits of Tsaoyang and that ransom alone can save the lives of the foreigners still in captivity.

By the efforts of the American legation and consulates the missionaries have been kept out of unsafe districts during the last two years, but the missionaries were not restricted from going to the northern part of the province of Hsichang, which hitherto had not been considered dangerous.

At Hankow, Gen. Li Yuen Heng, vice-president of the republic, states that everything possible is being done. Nearly 3000 Chinese troops are advancing on the town of Tsaoyang.

A former communication to the American consulate reported that the missionaries, the Rev. C. Stokstad and the Rev. Mr. Johnson, were proceeding to Tsaoyang from Siang Yang-Fu, but their expedition evidently failed, as Mr. Stokstad telegraphed yesterday as follows:

"The robbers still hold Tsaoyang, where they compel the Chinese citizens to guard the walls. It is feared that the surrounding force will be insufficient to prevent the bandits from escaping. The little son of Rev. Harman Fauske, attached to the mission of the Lutheran brethren, has been killed. The Rev. George Holm was seen on Saturday bound. A foreign rescuing party is again proceeding to Tsaoyang."

PETITION FROM THAW

SOLICITOR FOLK OF THE STATE DEF. POSTPONED ANNOUNCEMENT OF DECISION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Solicitor Folk of the state department today postponed the announcement of his decision with respect to the petition which Harry K. Thaw lodged with the state department asking that the British embassy be asked to explain the action of the Canadian authorities in forcing Thaw out of Canada.

While no comment was forthcoming from state department officials, it was recalled that Mr. Bryan upon request of the authorities at Albany, transmitted their request for Thaw's deportation to the British ambassador, "with a view to such action as the Canadian authorities may find themselves justified in taking."

EIGHT DROWNED INFLOOD

SAN ANTONIO AND SAN GABRIEL RIVERS IN TEXAS OVERFLOW—$1,000,000 DAMAGE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 3.—The San Antonio river, which overflowed its banks yesterday, flooding a portion of San Antonio and southwest Texas, is falling rapidly today. Train service still is crippled and wire communication interrupted to several towns.

In San Antonio it is estimated the damage to property, including merchandise stocks, will reach $200,000. Until communication is restored, an accurate estimate of the damage to smaller towns and plantations along the stream is not possible. It is believed, however, that the damage will reach $1,000,000.

Mrs. Amelia Villalobos, wife of a Mexican laborer, and her three children were drowned at Hot Wells, near here, while attempting to reach higher ground, according to reports received here.

—BASEMENT—

THE IMMIGRATION BOARD

Will Hold Public Hearing in This City October 10 — Statistics Concerning Lowell

Miss Grace Abbott, executive secretary of the commission on immigration sends notice of a public hearing which the commission will hold in Lowell in the councilmanic chamber at city hall on Oct. 10 at 7 p. m. The commission is vigorously pushing its investigation and is holding hearings in the principal cities and industrial towns of the state for the purpose of obtaining information for the enactment of such laws as will bring non-English speaking foreigners into sympathetic relations with American institutions and customs.

The last legislature created a commission on immigration requiring it to make a "full investigation of the way of living, distribution, occupation, educational opportunities and business opportunities and facilities" of the immigrant population and also its "relation to the industrial, social and economic conditions of all the people of the commonwealth."

The presence of the non-English speaking immigrant has brought new aspects of all the city problems—of education, industry, health, housing, recreation and delinquency. Ignorance of the English language and of the laws and customs of this country makes him peculiarly liable to exploitation by the unscrupulous.

Its large foreign population makes the question of how the immigrant may best be safeguarded, how he may be brought into contact with helpful influences and made familiar with the best ideals of American life of special importance to Massachusetts.

The importance of the work of the commission on immigration to the state cannot be overestimated. If the commission does its work right. Of the total population of Massachusetts, according to the latest U. S. census, 1,103,429 or 82.7 per cent are native white of native parentage; 1,170,445 or 84.5 per cent are native white or foreign or mixed parentage; while 1,051,050 or 81.2 per cent are foreign born white.

The total population of Lowell in 1910 was 108,234. Of these 20,703 or 19.1 per cent were native white of native parentage; 41,242 or 38.1 per cent were native white of foreign or mixed parentage; and 46,289 or 42.8 per cent were foreign born. With 82.1 per cent of the population of the city either foreign born or American born of foreign parentage, the overwhelming importance of what is done for them should be appreciated.

In the past the immigrants to Massachusetts came principally from England, Ireland, and Canada. In the year 1912, 49 per cent of the 70,171 who gave Massachusetts as their destination when admitted were from Slavic countries of eastern Europe or from the Iberic district of the Mediterranean.

Because the federal government controls the admission of immigrants it has been assumed that immigration was not a state but a national problem, but in many parts of the country the people are now beginning to realize that whether immigration is further restricted or not the need of a program for the protection, education, and distribution of those who come will always exist.

Massachusetts has followed the example of New York in recognizing that the problem of adjusting a complex population to a new social, industrial and political environment cannot be properly solved by pursuing a "laissez faire" policy and has required the commission, after investigation, to formulate and present to the next legislature a state policy which will insure provision for those who come as will make possible the highest development of which each is capable.

CAR TIPS OVER

30 Persons Injured in Pennsylvania Accident — Many Jumped

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 2.—Thirty or more persons were injured, several possibly fatally, by the overturning today of a Scranton Railway car bound for Dunmore. Twenty-four of the injured were removed to hospitals.

The car, heavily loaded, stalled on a hill on one of the city streets because of slippery rails and began to slide down the slope when the brake chain broke. Striking a curve at Madison avenue and Pine street the car tumbled over, injuring as it fell on its side a number of passengers who had jumped from the rear platform.

WALTER JOHNSON SIGNS King Pitcher of Them All Will Get $12,500 for His Work With Washington Next Season

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Walter Johnson, who is leading all pitchers in the major leagues, yesterday signed a contract with Manager Griffith of the Washington team for the 1914 season. The salary was not announced but it is understood to be $12,500.

N. Y. WANTS HUB RATE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Counsel for the public service commission balked yesterday in a second effort to learn the profits of the parcel checking room at the Grand Central station, announced that they would ask the supreme court to compel a refractory witness to disclose this information or punish the witness for contempt of court.

The witness is W. H. Mendel, chief stockholder of the corporation operating the package room. Mendel charges 10 cents for checking a package, and inasmuch as only five cents is charged at Boston and other large cities the commission is seeking to investigate the reasonableness of the 10-cent charge.

TEMPERANCE FORCES COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Amalgamation of all the temperance forces of the country into one, education nationwide in its scope and a campaign for constitutional prohibition are the chief aims set forth in the formal call issued today by the council of 100 for the meeting of the temperance forces in national convention in Columbus on Nov. 14.

Leaders in the movement estimate that no less than 20,000 persons representing every state in the Union will attend the national convention.

STORE WAS BROKEN INTO

Thief Got Away With Ten Dollars in Cash Last Night

Theft Was Committed at Cognac's Furniture Store

A daring break was committed at the furniture store of Emery Cognac, 628 Merrimack street, last night, and the thief got away with $10 in cash and probably merchandise of value. The matter was reported to the police but the culprit is still at large.

The break, it is believed, was committed between 11 and 12 o'clock last night, for Patrolman Mahan, who was on duty in that district, claims he tried the rear door of the store at 11 o'clock, and at that time everything was all right. An hour later, however, when he again tried the door, he found the store had been entered.

It is believed the thief was well acquainted with the place, for the door was bolted, and besides, there was a large wooden rail across the door. In order to gain an entrance, the thief broke a pane of glass in the door which leads into the alleyway in the rear store, and then unlatched and unbolted the door. He also took the wooden rail away and went directly to the office, which is situated about halfway to the front entrance.

The cash till, which contained about $10 in change, was locked, and in order to get at it the thief was forced to break the wooden panel over it. The contents of the drawer of a roll-top desk in the office were scattered over the floor, as well as a lot of papers and deeds in a small closet, while the money scattered in the till was gone. The safe, which is also in the office, was untouched. Mr. Cognac this morning could not tell whether any pieces of furniture were removed, but he is of the opinion that some of the goods were taken away.

This is one of many breaks which have been committed in this city within the past few weeks, and the thief or thieves were shrewd enough to get away without leaving the slightest clue for the police to work on.

Next Saturday is "Quarter Day" at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

BRIEF SESSION OF POLICE COURT

Judge Enright, for the second time since taking his oath of office, came very near to getting a pair of white gloves this morning. Under the old English court room procedure the presiding judge is presented with a pair of white gloves if the dock proves empty at any police court session. Only one defendant appeared this morning in the local court.

Albert Boives, a parole man, was again remanded to the state farm on account of his inability to abstain from the use of alcoholic beverages. Probation Officer Slattery also released four first offenders who were arrested on the charge of drunkenness. The usual Friday juvenile session also was short and revealed nothing of note. Today's session was the shortest, with one exception, that Judge Enright has presided over since his appointment.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE

The name of Hammerstein in association with a theatrical organization is generally accepted by theatergoers as a guarantee of excellence, and by the same token, the announcement that Arthur Hammerstein's new comedy opera, "The Firefly," with Miss Edith Thayer as the bright shining light which will appear at the Opera House, gives rise to the belief that this city is going to see something out of the ordinary in the way of comic opera entertainment. Arthur Hammerstein, who is the son of the famous impresario Oscar Hammerstein, has spared neither money nor expense to make this production the supreme effort of his busy career. Otto Hauserbach wrote the book and Rudolf Friml composed the score. In Miss Thayer's support will be found Maxfield Morse, Burton Leelan, Clara H. Bowers, Bert Wheeler, Paul Veron, Thelma Fair, Alice Galliard, Etta Hager and Irene Samson.

Among the attractions booked for an early appearance at the (Best House) are Douglas Fairbanks in "Dollars and Sense," a new Cohan and Harris production, Geo. Arliss in "Dinner," and Geo. M. Cohan himself in "Broadway Jones." As Mr. Cohan is interested in "Dollars and Sense," he will make a special visit to Lowell during his engagement here to see his new piece.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Added attractions in the stock business are rare, but Manager Carroll of the Merrimack Square theatre will offer for the appearance of his patrons in "Sham," the offering by The Players next week, an attraction which, aside from the merits of the play, ought to prove this popular theatre to the doors. It is an X-ray gown, direct from Paris that will be worn by Miss Grace Young. Who is there that hasn't heard of this wonderful creation? Well, here's a chance to get a peek at it first hand. It will be worn at all performances of the play next week, which, by the way, is a really remarkable one, and as usual the newest motion pictures will also be shown. Seats are now on sale and the subscription list is open. This list contains over 600 patrons who got their same seats every week. Are you one of them? If not, why not, it costs no more.

THEATRE VOYONS

Miss Mary Fuller as the star of the "Who Will Marry Mary" series of pictures has proved one of the most popular screen performers and today the third number of the series will be shown at the Theatre Voyons. This play "A Prophecy on the Sculptor," relates how near Mary was to marrying the artist, only to discover that in so doing she would be wronging his little model who was in love with him.

KEITH'S THEATRE

Everybody's going to Keith's this week to see the banner show of the season. There isn't a dull moment from the rise of the curtain to its fall, and some of the acts carry with them a brightness which gets the audience into a festive mood. Laughter is the keynote of the bill, although the musical and scenic features of Rolle's "Forch Party" are most striking. Jack Hale, known as the "Hebrew nut," surely does the work better than did Bert Fitzgerald, while Alan Devitt and Mabel Cameron in the saucy comedy, "The Groom Forgotten," spring some splendid situations and get a bunch of laughs from them. Kelly and Lafferty, the dancers, have a strange shadow dance, and Lillian Seville, the singing comedienne, is the best of her line seen here in a long time. Meredith and Snodder, the latter a trained dog, are very good, while the Barretts, comedians, open the bill well. The Pathe pictures close the show. Good seats may be procured in advance. The phone is No. 28.

TO SIGN TARIFF BILL

Pres. Wilson Will Affix His Signature to the Measure at Nine O'Clock Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The house agreed to the tariff bill conference report at 1:20 today, constituting the final action of that body on the tariff bill. Speaker Clark over-ruled all points of order made by members who contemplated that further action by the house was not necessary. Vice President Marshall signed the bill at 1:31 p. m. Pres. Wilson, after a conference with the administration leaders today, planned to sign the tariff bill at a tonight. Arrangements for ceremonies to attend the final act in the prolonged tariff were made by the president as soon as it seemed assured that the measure would reach him some time today. Invited by the president to witness the signing of the measure were Chairman Underwood and members of the ways and means committee, Chairman Simmons and members of the finance committee, Vice President Marshall, Speaker Clark and members of the cabinet and newspaper correspondents. Pres. Wilson looked forward with eagerness to the moment when the engraved bill, the fruits of many months of endeavor to enact tariff reform in accordance with the declaration of the party platform, would be placed upon his desk.

REVENGE CAUSE OF SUIT

Scheme to Blacken Reputation of Man Who Testified in Lorimer Case Alleged in Confession

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Men higher up in the alleged conspiracy to defame Clarence S. Funk, former general manager of the International Harvester Co., were named in the confession last night of John C. Henning, who sued Mr. Funk for alienating Mrs. Henning's affections. The names of the two men, who, Henning asserts, were behind the scheme to blacken Mr. Funk's reputation, have been suppressed, according to State's Attorney Herne until their cases may be considered by a grand jury. Henning corroborated the confession of his wife, which was made several months ago and which resulted in the indictment of Daniel Donahue, a lawyer who is alleged to have furnished the money. Miss Allen Heppner, a witness, and Isaac Steffel, a detective. Henning confessed, according to Mr. Herne, that Funk had been singled out in revenge for the testimony he gave in the Lorimer case. After the senate failed to convict Lorimer at the first hearing Mr. Funk told of a conversation with Edward Hines in the Union League club a few days after Mr. Lorimer's election in which Hines was alleged to have said:

"We put Lorimer over, but it cost $100,000." This was followed, Mr. Funk said, by a request that the International Harvester Co. pay $100,000 of this amount.

Promised Money to Elie Solt

"I was promised a big sum of money if I would file suit against Funk, charging him with having alienated my wife's affections," said Henning. "I was out of work and they offered game. I could not get my wife to agree, but Donahue and Allen Heppner worked on her and she gave in. After the suit was filed he went to Mobile, Ala., but reporters found us and we had to frame up some evidence and go to trial. That is where the detective came in who got the bellboy to swear that my wife and Mr. Funk were served with drinks at the Grand Pacific hotel. I never saw Funk until the trial started. When we lost I got a tip there was a warrant out for me and I slipped out of the room. We were furnished money to leave town and I have been traveling on their money ever since."

State's Attorney Herne will hold a conference today with attorneys for Mr. Funk and intend to make a statement at its conclusion.

SENATOR LODGE IMPROVING

NAHANT, Oct. 2.—Only one physician made a morning visit today to Sir Henry Cabot Lodge, who submitted to a surgical operation for gastric ulcers a week ago. Up to today two physicians have called on the patient every morning since the beginning of his illness.

Dr. Frederick Winslow, who visited Mr. Lodge this morning, said that the senator had passed a restful night, was taking nourishment with considerable relish and was convalescing satisfactorily.

For the next few days Dr. Winslow will visit the senator in the morning and Dr. Francis B. Harrington will make the afternoon call.

FOR INDEPENDENT P. O. LOSES AN EYE

WALTHAM WANTS ITS POSTOFFICE CUT OFF FROM HUD—SENDS PETITION TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Waltham wants its independence from the Boston postoffice. A strong petition was received yesterday by Congressman Mitchell, signed by Thomas Kerns and a number of other business men of Waltham, asking that the postoffice of that city be put back on an independent basis.

In February, Waltham was made a sub-station of Boston, but the citizens declare that the service is not as good as it was when Waltham was an independent office. Mr. Mitchell has laid the matter before the postoffice department.

The chances are that the federal appointments due to Massachusetts will go over until after the election. President Wilson has had the Billings nomination for the collectorship of the port in his hands for three weeks. He held it up to allow Congressman Murray to pass on it.

Mr. Murray came to Washington a week ago, called on Secretary Tumulty and told him that he was at the president's command. Mr. Murray remained in Washington until midnight last night without being called to the White House.

In the meantime Congressman Curley, just before leaving Washington, filed with the White House a bitter protest against Mr. Billings. So far nothing has been done and there is no indication that the White House is in a hurry.

Other jobs are waiting to be filled and the fact that they have not been taken to mean that the administration intends to hold off until after the election for fear of embarrassing David L. Walsh. As soon as the elections are over several appointments will be made.

It is reported here that Dist. Atty. French will be asked to resign before the expiration of his term. The reason for this is that Attorney General McReynolds wants his own men in office.

Three Thousand Primers Explode in a Pittsfield Store

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 3.—Franklin J. Nelson, a clerk, aged 20, of 28 Greenway avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Nelson, lost the sight of his left eye and seriously endangered the sight of the other when 3000 small high-powered primers loaded with fulminate exploded yesterday in F. G. Belden's sporting goods store on North street. Franklin was stirring up the primers in a large pan half filled with water, where they had been soaking for several days to kill the power, as some of them had been damaged by water from a fire in Belden's store last winter.

Mr. Belden takes every precaution in his store, as he handles large numbers of high-power cartridges and explosives. He did not want the 3000 primers to do any damage if thrown in waste from the store, so he had them soaked in water. They could not be sold, as they could not be depended upon being old stock.

Nelson, for some unknown reason, stirred up the primers with a metal screw driver and the mass exploded in his face. The noise of the explosion was terrific. The pan which contained the primers was blown to bits, as was the table upon which the pan rested. Primers were scattered all over the floor and there is a big black patch on the ceiling.

Nelson's face was cut and his left eye seemed to be gouged out. Dr. T. P. Hennelly was called and rushed the injured boy to the House of Mercy hospital. It was found that the ball of the left eye might be saved, although it was punctured in a number of places. The sight is lost. The sight of the right eye will probably be saved.

HONOR FIRST, THEN LOVE

Prince August Replies to Emperor
William — Deadlock Reached
in Negotiations

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—An utter deadlock has apparently been reached in the negotiations for the placing of Prince Ernest August of Cumberland and his bride, Princess Victoria Louise of Prussia, on the throne of Brunswick and Emperor William may be disappointed in his hope of seeing his only daughter the wife of a reigning sovereign. This has been brought about by the failure of the Prussian officials to realize clearly before the betrothal of the young prince and princess the determination of Prince Ernest August and his father, the Duke of Cumberland, to formally renounce their rights to the Hanoverian succession.

Prince Ernest August declared flatly to Prince August Wilhelm, Emperor William's lawyer son, who was sent to confer with him at Karlsruhe before the betrothal in order to induce him to renounce his rights. "For me and my family, honor comes first; then love."

The publication of this statement today is taken as an indication that Prince Ernest still occupies the same standpoint.

The Duke of Cumberland, according to the same publication, declares that the throne of Brunswick is not essential to him nor to his son and that under no circumstances will either of them renounce Hanover.

Princess Victoria Louise may therefore find herself the wife of a pretender, in the same position as former King Manuel of Portugal.

HENRY SULLIVAN BACK

Henry F. Sullivan, the famous long distance swimmer of Lowell and known the world over for his attempted swim of the English channel, arrived in this city last night on the 5 o'clock train from Boston and was met by a large delegation of friends and admirers who tendered him an enthusiastic reception. The swimmer's party consisted of his father and John J. Conlon, his trainer. The members of the C. Y. M. L., under whose colors Sullivan has won his aquatic honors, took charge of the party upon their arrival and immediately adjourned to the rooms of the society on Suffolk street. Here a very pleasant evening was spent and the young swimmer told his clubmates the particulars of his attempt at the arduous swim. Before leaving Sullivan was presented a purse of gold by the society.

Sullivan still feels that he can make the swim, although he failed this year. All the conditions were against him on his first try, but he has absolute confidence that he can turn the trick in another season. He feels that the experience which he gained by his partial success will stand him in good stead in a second attempt. Sullivan covered over 35 miles and was in the water over ten hours, a remarkable performance which has never been duplicated by anyone in his first attempt.

TRAINED NURSE

SAYS COMFORT POWDER IS RIGHTLY NAMED

Edmona V. Marquis, a trained nurse of Jumbville, Pa., says: "Comfort Powder is rightly named. I never felt more like minding anything for offensive perspiration, eczema, prickly heat and chafing." The scientific medication of Comfort Powder is what makes it so far superior to ordinary talcum powders and that's why physicians, trained nurses and mothers call it a "skin healing wonder." Be sure you get the genuine with signature of E. S. Sykes on box.

TO DISSOLVE NEW HAVEN

ATTORNEY-GENERAL McREY.
NOLDS EXPECTS TO FILE CIVIL ANTI-TRUST SUIT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Attorney-General McReynolds expects to file a civil anti-trust suit for the dissolution of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, as soon as the department of justice's investigation is completed and to defer the investigation of possible criminal prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law for future developments.

Mr. McReynolds believes that the question arising for solution is the transportation problem in New England. A civil anti-trust suit would be aimed to correct alleged monopolistic conditions and suppression of competition. It is pointed out that the question of possible criminal prosecution for violation of the Sherman law will be determined by a study of the results of the department of justice's investigation and probably by the developments of the civil trial.

Officials of the New Haven road have not, so far, indicated any purpose to negotiate with the government for a settlement of the issues. While the attorney-general is proceeding with the prospect of a lawsuit, it is stated by those close to the situation that he would not refuse to negotiate for a settlement of the question out of court if the road would be willing to grant the government's demands, his purpose being to reach as quickly as possible a solution of New England's transportation problem.

SEIZE LOAD
OF WHISKEY

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The East Boston motorboat Spartan carrying a cargo of nearly 1000 gallons of whiskey which was destined to run the blockade and enter Rockland and Bangor, Me., nearly swamped in the heavy sea which ran off the Maine coast early yesterday morning and was forced to put into Portland harbor, where Sheriff Scully seized the boat and cargo and arrested two of its crew.

In an effort to escape from the sheriff and deputies who were on the alert when it was discovered what the boat contained, three of the five men of the crew made their escape by plunging into the water and swimming ashore. The seizure was made in the early morning hours. In the darkness and confusion the fugitives broke through the line of police and deputies. The two men arrested gave the names of Michael O'Shea of Boston and Charles M. Capillo of Hyde Park.

The arrests and cargo form the biggest seizure which the Maine officials have yet made in their effort to suppress the entry of liquor into the "dry state."

The boat, a 40-ft. craft and well known in local waters with her name painted out, started from Boston Wednesday morning, being for the Maine coast. There was a bad sea running, and off Thatcher's Light, she began shipping a little water.

The heavy cargo, consisting of 49 ten-gallon kegs and 85 cases of whiskey, brought her low in the water. The whiskey was shipped by a Boston wholesale house, and one of the men in the boat, the police believe, was a member of this firm.

When off Portland harbor the sea became so perilous that the man in charge gave orders to run her into the harbor. This course brought the boat sideways to the swell, and the anchor, lured out to keep her more steady, was washed away as was the tender. At this juncture help was signalled from Cape Elizabeth, while the life preserver

How to Destroy
the Dandruff Germ

BY A SPECIALIST

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many of the worst cases of catarrh and conjunctivitis, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found; after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you. 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavender de Coucou, one-half ounce Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing half an hour, it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the fingers. If you wish it perfumed, add half a teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. While this preparation is not a dye, it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

Famous Cornetist Was Guest of Lowell Friends Yesterday—Renewed All Old Acquaintances

Edouard N. Lafricain, one of the best known cornet players in New England, who for some time has been making his home in Boston, was here yesterday, the guest of Emile Lavigne and John S. Carlson, two well known local musicians.

Mr. Lafricain, while in Lowell, renewed many old acquaintances, for he is widely known here as a talented musician, having on previous occasions been heard in concerts conducted by the members of Choeur Rosini, a musical organization which went out of existence some ten years ago.

The famous cornetist has traveled all over the world and has played his instrument before many kings and emperors, and everywhere he went he always received a royal reception. A few years ago, however, he decided to settle down, and since he has been making his home in Boston.

of the Boston Symphony orchestra as well as the Boston Opera orchestra, and he has just completed an engagement as band master of the brass band at the Metropolitan Park Reservation grand stand at Revere beach. The noted musician has achieved great success as a cornetist. For 17 years he was first trumpet for the Boston Symphony orchestra and for three years he was conductor of the Boston Opera orchestra.

Mr. Lafricain was pleased to meet his former friends in the Spindle City, for as he said, although living but 25 miles away, it was impossible for him to come to Lowell before this time, as every minute of his time was taken up. However, he is to rest for some time, and it is probable his visits to Lowell will be more frequent.

AGENT PARK RESIGNS LIGHT UP SQUARE

Leaves Beaver Brook Mill to Go to Maine—Strong Sentiment for Annexation in Navy Yard

Charles H. Park, who for the past three years has held the position of agent of the Beaver Brook mill, a branch of the American Woolen Co., in Collinsville, Me., has been transferred to Fairfield, Me., where he will occupy the same position as head of the Kennebec mill.

Mr. Park is a native of Scotland and was born 43 years ago. He immigrated to this country several years ago, and inasmuch as he had considerable experience in the woolen industry, he upon his arrival in the states secured a lucrative position with the American Woolen Co. Later he became superintendent of the Ray mill in Franklin, Mass., where he remained one year, after which he was transferred to Collinsville as agent of the Beaver Brook mill.

During his stay of three years in the village, Mr. Park made a host of friends who will be grieved to learn of his departure. The employees of the mill will also greatly feel the loss of Mr. Park. The new agent, Mr. Joseph Henderson, took up his new duties this week. He came from South Royalton, where he was at the head of the plant of the American Woolen Co. He is an experienced man and no doubt under his management business will increase at the Beaver Brook mill. The Beaver Brook mill is one of many branches of the American Woolen Co. When the plant runs full time, about 700 employees earn their daily bread at this place. The principal products of this mill are suitings, cloakings and worsteds, and there are 176 looms in the plant. Connected with this mill is also a shoddy mill, which is running full blast.

Another important change in the plant is the resignation of Master Mechanic Frank Dickson, who has accepted a similar position at the Appleton mill of this city. Mr. Dickson's successor has not yet been appointed.

Mr. Park's family will remove to Fairfield, Me., sometime next week, while Agent Henderson's family will at the same time come to Collinsville where they will occupy the home now occupied by Mr. Park's family.

Annexation

There is considerable talk of annexation in the Navy Yard district of Lowell, and many feel that to annex the Navy Yard to Lowell would be the wisest move ever started in that part of the country. The writer spoke with several prominent men of the town this morning and all agree to say that if a petition were circulated about the district, there would not be 10 per cent of the residents who would oppose it.

One man, a prominent merchant of the village, said the annexation of the Navy Yard to Lowell would mean a lot for both the city and the village. However, he does not believe it is feasible for he says the Navy Yard could not be annexed to Lowell unless Dracut Centre would also be taken in, for in his opinion it would divide the district too much. He is in favor of annexation, and he says the sooner the better.

Agent Morrison of the Merrimack Woolen Co. at the Navy Yard said the district should have been annexed to Lowell years ago. When he was would see all this spare land covered with shops and other industries as well as dwelling houses. It is my firm belief that the movement will be initiated and that a petition will soon be presented to the city council to take within its folds good old Navy Yard, and that is my most sincere hope."

Merrimack Woolen Co. Business is booming at the plant of the Merrimack Woolen Co. in Navy Yard, and on account of the sample season some of the departments are running full time and the weekly output of the plant is very large. The agent said there are plenty of help and the eight-hour law did not have much effect at this mill.

The Street Railway Will Allow Lights on the Trolley Poles

Merrimack square will be brilliantly lighted in the very near future, the Bay State Street railway having granted the city's request to put lights on the company's trolley poles at the corner of Bridge and Merrimack and the corner of Merrimack and Prescott streets, two lights to a pole or eight lights in all.

The company's permit to place the lights on these poles was obtained by the city agreeing to hold the company blameless in case of accident, of which, it is said, there is little if any danger. The city's wire inspector has gone on record as saying that the scheme would not entail the slightest danger. The arrangement has been drawn up and will receive the necessary signatures in a day or two.

RAILROAD TOWER

The new tower of the Boston & Maine railroad in North Chelmsford was put in operation Wednesday and found to be O. K. in every respect, for it greatly relieves the work at the main tower at the Bleachery.

The new tower consists of a two-story wooden structure and is situated about five hundred feet from the North Chelmsford depot toward this city. It contains forty levers and operates upon all the switches in North Chelmsford and vicinity, which line is the main line to the north. Three men are employed there day and night.

Man Asked That News of Marriage to be Kept Secret

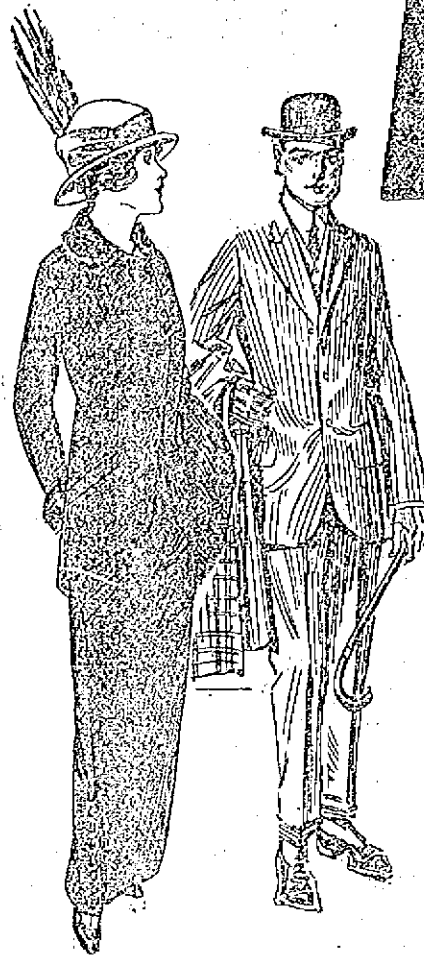

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 2.—Declaring that his business would be ruined if the news of his marriage were made public, an applicant for marriage license at County Clerk Wideman's office today asked that his name be withheld from publication.

"I own a butcher shop and am collecting money," he said. "There are more than 300 unmarried young ladies living in my neighborhood. Because everybody knows that I have money the matchmaking mothers send their girls around to my shop with a view to getting me interested."

"But if they found out I was married they would get mad and boycott me and I would go to the wall. When I get married I am going to introduce my wife as a new hired girl." Under the circumstances, County Clerk Wideman agreed to suppress the man's name.

TELEPHONE CO.

Dr. Otis Allen, the well known local dentist, through his attorney, Edward Tierney, Esq., has brought suit against the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. on the grounds that the company caused the shutting off of his telephone service without cause. The damages asked in this suit are $5,000.

In conversation with a Sun representative yesterday, Dr. Allen said that recently his telephone at the house had been shut off. In doing this, said the doctor, the company had allegedly non-payment of bills. Dr. Allen, however, stated that his account at that time with the telephone company had been settled up to date, and that there was no reason for shutting off the connection.

Lawyer Tierney said yesterday that the case is returnable on Nov. 1st at the superior court session, but that in all probability it cannot be brought to actual trial before the April session. Mr. Tierney said that as far as he knows, the defendant company has filed no answer to the suit. He said that Powers and Hall of Boston will probably represent the telephone company in the case.

WARNED NOT TO STRIKE

Gov. Foss Tells Engineers That He Will Call Special Session to Pass Law Forbidding Walkouts

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Governor Foss sent a letter last night to the officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in which he stated that if this organization declared a strike on the New Haven road that he would call for a special session of the legislature and ask for the passage of a law prohibiting strikes of railroad employees in Massachusetts.

The governor's statement of his attitude on the question of railroad strikes is most drastic.

In his letter he plainly sets himself up in opposition to the contention of the big railroad organization that its men should be promoted in the order of their seniority, the governor holding "that seniority without regard to fitness lowers the efficiency of the labor force." He says that the real question at issue is the safety of the traveling public.

Mr. Foss takes a bold stand against one of the most powerful labor organizations in the country.

The letter is of great interest at this time because of the governor's announcement, made some time ago that he would make as one of the principal issues of his independent campaign, a fight for government control of organized labor.

The governor said at the time that he considered the leadership of organized labor to be as great a menace to this country as is organized capital.

The governor's letter was addressed to the officers of the union and was in part:

"Gentlemen: I am informed that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, are now voting upon the proposal to inaugurate a strike upon the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, and that this strike, if authorized, will occur at such time as may be determined by a committee of which you are members.

Important to People

"This is of grave concern to the people of Massachusetts. A strike upon the New Haven system means the stopping of the wheels of industry, loss of employment to hundreds of thousands of laborers, interference with the regular supply of food and fuel, and a consequent high death rate among invalids and infants. As governor of the commonwealth, I am bound to take such action as I can to prevent such a public calamity.

The real issue is not between the railroad and its employees, but between the employees and the people of this commonwealth; and the question is whether the lives of the people shall be placed in jeopardy by the maintenance of the seniority rule, and whether, in order to enforce this rule, our people must submit to the evils incident to a railroad strike.

Safety Endangered

"Under these circumstances it is my duty to say to you that if you inaugurate a strike upon this issue you will place your organizations in an indefensible position and will array against you the people of Massachusetts and the other New England states. Your controversy will really be with the people of New England, whose safety is endangered by the rule of seniority and whose business will be injured by the proposed strike.

"If this strike is declared it will become my duty to take such measures as are within my power to protect the people of this commonwealth.

Will Call Special Session

"To that end, if the strike is called I shall ask the council to join me in summoning a special session of the legislature for the purpose of enacting laws which, after providing effective remedies for all grievances of employees, shall absolutely prohibit strikes of railroad operatives employed within the commonwealth. For such action, the laws of other countries supply useful precedents and public sentiment in this commonwealth will surely demand the enactment of similar legislation.

Commonwealth's Power

"This commonwealth, of course, has no control over companies or their operatives engaged in business of a purely interstate character; but over intrastate business it has full control, which necessarily extends, if need be, to the employees as well as to the companies. In regard to interstate business, the legislature can appropriately memorialize congress, and urge upon that body, which fortunately is now in session, the enactment of such legislation as may be needed for the prevention of strikes affecting interstate commerce.

In conclusion, I wish to express the hope that you will weigh carefully the fact that the members of your organizations are engaged in a public calling, and that they, no less than the railroads, owe a duty to the public.

Cannot Justify Claim

"In urging the seniority rule, your organizations are acting without regard to the safety of the traveling public; and you cannot justify your claim that the employee's fitness shall not be given due consideration. When employees, even of public service corporations, appear to have a just grievance, the public is sometimes willing to submit to the inconvenience of a strike; but if you precipitate a strike upon the seniority issue, you will invite the condemnation of every fair-minded man in New England and the nation. Yours very truly, Eugene N. Foss, Governor."

RESINOL STOPS SKIN TORMENTS

How This Wonderful Treatment Ends Itching and Heals Skin Eruption

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"At first little red spots were seen on my arms and body, which I noticed were getting larger every day. They itched me so much that I scratched myself until I bled. There were times when I stood up all night and scratched. I was troubled about three weeks, during which time I used—, which seemed to do me no good whatever. Then, finally, I thought of trying Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. As soon as I applied Resinol Ointment I felt much relief. After using it a few times, I noticed the sore spots slowly fading away, and in about a month I was cured completely." (Signed) Adolph Schoen, 724 Shepherd Ave., Nov. 1, 1912.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which has so unusually successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other physicians all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. KILLED BY GAS

Veteran Accidentally Asphyxiated at Home
in No. Chelmsford

Wallace A. Josselyn, aged 74 years, and a lifelong resident of No. Chelmsford, was asphyxiated by illuminating gas at his home in the village, and it is presumed death was accidental.

Mr. Josselyn, who was a veteran of the Civil war had lived alone at his home since the death of his wife, 11 years ago. Wednesday evening after eating his supper, it is presumed, the aged gentleman sat in his favorite chair near the window, and it was there he breathed his last.

Yesterday he was found sitting in his chair and life was extinct. While the evidence of gas was not very strong, a small leak would have been sufficient to stop the feeble heartbeats of the old gentleman. The body was viewed by Dr. F. E. Varney, who was called in haste, who believes death was due to accidental gas poisoning.

HOW THEY DID IT

England Demands an Explanation of Thaw's
Deportation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The British government has taken a hand in the Thaw case and has made a demand upon the Canadian authorities for a full explanation of the fugitive's deportation.

This became public last night, when it was announced that Attorney T. R. E. McInnes, K. C. of Ottawa, the man who drafted the Canadian immigration law, had succeeded in getting the matter of Thaw's deportation by the Canadian government brought before the state department here as an international incident.

Attorney McInnes, who is chief of Canadian counsel for Harry K. Thaw, told yesterday of the nature of the "fifth chance" for his client's freedom, should he lose his fight through the federal courts. This is his return to Canada by the federal authorities, upon request of the British government.

For more than two weeks Attorney McInnes, who is closely associated with governmental work in Ottawa, has been in Washington, quietly working on the case. Yesterday he was ready to announce his results—the bringing of Thaw's deportation before the state department.

The question involved is the violation of the rights guaranteed to American citizens under the Ashburton treaty with England. Already the British government has asked for explanation from Canada on the ground that the deportation was carried out in defiance of the order of the court of King's Bench at Montreal, and also the denial of the right of appeal to Thaw.

The latter, according to the contention of the British government, is beyond the power of the Canadian government, and unconstitutional.

It was believed here last night that a formal protest will be made by the United States government and that this protest will be favorably entertained by the British government, as the rights of British subjects, not domiciled in Canada, it is declared, are continually being denied to them, as well as to Americans by the Canadian immigration officers.

As long as Thaw remains in the custody of the United States marshal instead of the state authorities, he can be returned to Canada by the federal authorities demanding that he be given his treaty rights to appear and prosecute such claims as he may have before the Canadian courts.

Money deposited on or before next Saturday, October 4th, in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank will draw the interest from that date.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

REACHING OVER SEA

About one million dollars of the new income tax will be levied on American expatriates, and American women who have married foreigners and are now living abroad. In individual cases such as those of Mrs. William Waldorf Astor and the Duchess of Roxburgh, who was May Gostin, the annual tax will be as high as $10,000 and $17,500 respectively. Over twenty others will pay amounts from $500 to $20,000. Thus it will be seen that though the recurring proposal to tax all who marry foreigners merely because they choose has been discarded up to the present, American expatriates and those heiresses who have chosen foreign husbands will be strongly reminded in future that they owe a duty to a country in which they still hold investments. Incidentally we may expect a stronger condemnation of our institutions than ever from those who will have to foot the bills.

Supposing, however, these foreign living Americans should refuse to pay legal tribute to the American government, how can they be compelled to do so? Many ask that question about the working of the income tax among our resident citizens and though opponents of the new tax have declared the efficiency of the future government method of collection, they have not been very free with the details of the policy to be employed. If, then, there is some doubt as to the equitable working out of the plan among our residents, it is reasonable to expect anything but a rosy future in collecting from those who have shaken the dust of our shores from their feet—many of whom, however, retain a strong and abiding interest in our gold dust.

CITY MORGUE NEEDED

The whole country was shocked a few weeks ago when it was learned that the body of "Big Tim" Sullivan, who had formerly been powerful and popular in political New York, had lain for 13 days unidentified in a public morgue there after having been found mangled beside the railroad tracks. Thousands of others had so lain and been buried as "unknown" before that time, but the prominence of the former statesman and the wide publicity given the case resulted in an investigation and a new set of regulations regarding those found dead that will make it practically impossible in future for people to be buried in the potter's field in New York if their relatives institute any search for them. A police bureau of unidentified dead has been formed and photographs and other means of identification will be used in future before any dead unknown is given a pauper's grave.

The Boston Post commenting on the innovation and its cause, says: "If the body of a man so well known as Sullivan could stay a week in the morgue unrecognized, how certain it is that many a poor man or woman has gone to a pauper's burial, when a little research might have discovered relatives or friends. In the Sullivan case several plain clues were withheld. It is to be hoped that under the new system such negligence can never be heard of again."

It is very true that "many a poor man or woman has gone to a pauper's burial," and in this city of Lowell too. Some months ago we spoke editorially of such a case when a man dead beside the railroad tracks was taken to an outlying undertaker's establishment and after being kept a day or two was buried in the potter's field, unidentified then and unidentified forever. The care was not unlike or in any way exceptional. We have had many such and in this civilized area and country it is a shame for which there is no excuse. The remedy is as simple as the offence is flagrant.

There should be some central officially designated city morgue to which all people found dead should be taken pending identification and burial. At present there are many instances in which friction, jealousy and ill feeling have cropped out between local undertakers owing to the disposition of bodies found dead, and this is as out of keeping with the character of the profession as it is wholly unnecessary. If there were some official city morgue with a paid attendant, all cases could be handled with dignity and consistency, and the main end, that of identification of the dead, could be served. Such would be fair to all undertakers equally and would be in keeping with the regulations of all progressive cities.

If we had a city morgue, a body brought in would first be held for examination by the city examiner. It would then be embalmed or otherwise prepared for a possibly long period of awaiting identification. The papers would be in the natural order of things, publish the facts of the finding of the body with its descriptive features. People who missed a relative or friend would take in the morgue in their search. If, within a stipulated time no one appeared to identify or claim the body it would be buried, first having been measured and photographed and any possible means of identification, such as clothing, distinguishing marks, etc., noted. When buried, the number of the grave would be entered in a record of identification and the body could be recovered years afterwards from an "unknown" grave, if relatives or friends turned up. By all means let us have a city morgue. The burial of unfortunate "unknown" people in pauper's graves is unchristian and without justification.

WALSH ON PERSONALITIES

All people whether they favor the policies of Lieut. Governor David I. Walsh or not will commend him for his declaration to avoid all personalities in his campaign. In an interview to the press of Boston he stated his intention of refraining from mentioning Mr. Gardner or Mr. Bird by name. He furthermore explained his attitude by stating that the issues were important enough to give him ample campaign material while maintaining a "judicial and dignified" attitude. He said he will address himself to the people as to a court which would have the right to call him in contempt did he descend to personalities.

This declaration of Mr. Walsh is in keeping with his sincere and dignified character and does credit to his good sense. The age of bitter political personalities is gone by and no one regrets it. Usually in these times a vicious personal attack by one candidate on his opponent draws sympathy to the hated one. A campaign should be conducted on its merits and the platform of each candidate if it is worth anything will give its chief exponent ample material for speeches and interviews without obliging him to make cheap or sarcastic remarks at the expense of his opponents.

It looks, too, as though the dignity of the campaign thus far is all with Mr. Walsh as his determination to avoid personalities has not penetrated either the progressive or republican ranks. Whether his expressed views have gained for him the respect of the candidates of the other two parties, however, or whether by accident, his name has not been mentioned in a light or abusive character by them, but quite an exchange of compliments has passed between Messrs. Bird and Gardner. Next to the column that tells of Mr. Walsh's determination to avoid personalities is a burning wish of Mr. Gardner for a "wallop" at Mr. Bird because of what he calls "misrepresentations." Mr. Walsh will be a calm and disinterested spectator of the "wallop" and its effects.

YELLOW JOURNALISM

Mr. George P. Bent of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Illinois Manufacturers' association recently issued a timely warning at a business meeting as to the danger that lurks in sensational journalism of the "yellow" variety. The direct occasion for his remarks was the purchase and publication of the revelations of the notorious Col. Muihall of the National Association of Manufacturers and the evident desire back of that publication to assail big business, not from motives of sincerity but in order to satisfy a public craving for purely sensational news. There is much of truth in his stand. So called yellow journalism tends to make the popular mind suspicious of all constituted authority and arouses what a distinguished churchman has called "the tumult of the evens." Of all the contributing sources of socialism in its least defensible phases it is the most direct.

DEFACING PUBLIC PROPERTY

A form of vandalism that is very prevalent of late in the cities, towns and even villages of the state is the defacement of property, especially public property. In this city we have seen many recent instances of such destructive activity such as the dismantling of bubble fountains and the breaking of street lamps. In New Bedford, a beautiful and artistic statue was defaced a few days ago when the harpoon carried by "The Whaler" was bent out of shape. In Brockton the papers are regretting the breaking of plate glass windows and injury to the parks. In almost every part of the commonwealth there are like indications of a most destructive lawlessness.

We read of these instances and regret them but we cannot well complain for they are the result of our lawless sentimentality in dealing with the hoodlum. In all our cities and towns there are groups of grown boys and some to whom age has brought neither wisdom nor discretion, who delight in devilry in every form from the sheer delight of doing something contrary to law. When there are no fruit trees to be robbed they must work off surplus energy in some way and the sight of anything attractive or decorative gives them the opportunity they seek. When we teach youth respect for law by the stern and unyielding application of legal punishment we will not have so many defaced statues, ruined parks, or broken bubble fountains.

Seen and Heard

"So that dance lasted till 2 o'clock, did it?" queried the old man by the sweet young thing came down to breakfast a little late, but looking as fresh as a daisy. "And I suppose you danced every dance?" "Yes, and you're one of those delicate girls who expect you to walk downtown some day you'd faint, and yet they say that one evening's dancing is equivalent to walking 10 miles."

"Not nowadays, papa," answered the young thing. "That's the old style dancing you're thinking of. The new style is equivalent to climbing about a hundred telegraph poles."

The woman was the author of a cook-book that had been published at her request with wide margins and occasional blank pages for notes and additional recipes. Often she had expressed a wish to see an old copy of the book and find out to what use the blank spaces had been put. One day in a second-hand book store her husband unearthed an old volume. Noting that it had been annotated freely, he bought it. After a day or two he said: "How about the notes in that cook-book?" "Were they interesting?" "No," she said curtly; "they didn't amount to anything."

When he got a chance he looked through the book himself. Even now the book contained a ready remedy for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.

Howard Sutherland, the new member from West Virginia, in an old Washingtonian. Just 25 years ago he was appointed an even-day, common, garden variety of clerkship in the census bureau. But in six months he was promoted so often that from a beginning of "charitable" he had risen in that time to a salary of $2500 a year.

Then he went out to West Virginia in charge of the Ekins interests, where, but when these interests were sold out to the Goulds Sutherland felt a hankering for the deserts of the capital and decided the best way to return would be as a M. C. and thus save car fare.—Washington Post.

THE DISAPPOINTED

There are songs enough for the hero, Who dwells on the heights of fame, I sing for the disappointed— For those who have missed their aim.

I sing with a tearful cadence, For one who stands in the dark, And knows that his last best arrow, Has bounced back from the mark.

I sing for the breathless runner, The eager, anxious soul, With a faint, almost exhausted, Almost in sight of the goal.

For the hearts that break in silence, With a sorrow all unknown; For those who need consolation, Yet walk their way alone.

There are songs enough for the lovers, Who share love's tender pain, I sing for the one whose passion, Is given all in vain.

For those whose spirit comrades Have missed the mark on the way, I sing, with a heart overflowing, This minor strain today.

And I know the Solar System, Must somewhere keep in space, A prize for that great runner, Who barely lost the race.

For the plan would be imperfect, Unless it held some sphere, That paid for the toll and talent, And love that was wasted here.

—Edna Wheeler Wilcox.

FOR WOMEN WORKERS

One of the familiar arguments for woman suffrage is that the conditions and hours of workingwomen would be greatly improved, because women have so much more sympathy for their own sex than have men. But have they? Some time ago in a letter in The Springfield Republican, Miss Katherine H. Leonard, of Springfield, directed attention to the fact that out of 389,675 women industrially employed in Massachusetts, about one sixth of the entire number, were engaged in domestic service of one kind or another. Of this form of labor Miss Leonard said: "It is in the way of manual labor probably the best paid, the best housed, and the best fed of all the unprofessional occupations. Almost without exception it is and has been from time immemorial in the hands of women. Women have regulated the wages, hours of labor, and general policy of its work. It is the most natural of occupations for the ordinary woman. Nevertheless, it is the most unpopular. Domestic service is almost wholly recruited from the newly-arrived foreigners, or the woman who is unable to make a living in any other way. A social stigma is attached to it and fewer enter its ranks with each succeeding year. If as women we have had wholly in our control in the past many years one-sixth of the labor of the community, and have failed to make good in our management of our task, shall we so better the conditions of the other five-sixths whom we have as yet little directed? Let us first cast out the beam from our own eye before we lay claim to be able to remove the mote from our brother's eye."

MARATHON AT BROCKTON

BROCKTON, Oct. 3.—The sixth renewal of the Marathon run from Boston to this city held in connection with the Brockton fair, started at noon today from the clubhouse of the Boston A. C. with 41 long distance men in the running. The distance was about 25 miles.

The weather was perfect and the roads were fairly well dried out after yesterday's rain except through the Blue Hills road where the footing was somewhat uncertain.

DARING ROBBER

Man Copped 57 Pairs of Shoes at Essex-Town Cop Says He'll 'Git im'

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The police force of Essex is searching vigilantly for the daring robber who sometime during the past two weeks has departed from the town of Essex richer by 53 pairs of shoes. The police force says it will get that robber, too.

When a young lady entered the emporium owned by Clarence B. Burnham to buy a pair of shoes yesterday afternoon, the enterprising merchant felt sure that he could get it. He did not remember selling a pair of shoes of that size that he knew he once had in stock.

Burnham went to his rack and picked out the box which he was so certain contained the shoes that matched his customer's feet. But, and here is the tragedy—the box was empty. So was the next, and the next.

By this time Clarence was sure that something was wrong. He distinctly remembered that when he had last dusted that shelf the boxes were full of shoes. After a careful examination he found that there were 53 brand-new pairs taken, 15 pairs of children's, 17 of ladies', and 17 of men's.

The storekeeper called in the police force, and the two agreed that some thief must have done the dastardly deed.

Now every self-respecting citizen of Essex, possessing new shoes, is careful of wearing them, lest he be suspected of the felony. The storekeeper has offered $5 reward for the apprehension of the criminal.

DR. STOWELL HONORED

As a token of the esteem in which he is held by his employees, Dr. Chas. H. Stowell of the J. C. Ayer company was today presented a beautiful bouquet by the members of the Quarter-of-a-Century club, which is connected with the above company. On Oct. 3, 1900, Dr. Stowell took up the duties of general manager and treasurer of the J. C. Ayer company and the presentation today was to observe the 13th anniversary of his appointment.

Shortly before 10 o'clock this morning the members of the Quarter-of-a-Century club assembled in the treasurer's office and presented him with a card inscribed as follows: "Quarter-of-a-Century club of the J. C. Ayer company—1900—Oct. 3, 1913." Dr. Stowell was very much pleased with the gift and thanked the members of the club for it. The other employees of the company then gathered in the office to express their best wishes for his future happiness.

Dr. Stowell was connected with the office of the J. C. Ayer company for many years prior to being appointed treasurer and general manager, and has always had a sincere interest in the club and all individual employees of the company.

NATURALIZATION COURT

Another Session Held This Morning—Twenty-five Applicants for Second Papers

The naturalization session for those who are qualified to receive second papers in the process was held today at the court house. This was a special session called for the benefit of those who were unable to receive the second steps toward citizenship on Wednesday when a second paper session was held, and on which day a very large number assembled. There were about 25 applicants at the court house, lined up outside the office of the clerk of court on the second floor of the building early this morning, and they were accompanied by their witnesses. It was expected that the session would occupy the greater part of the day.

PAINTED PORTRAIT OF LINCOLN

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—Charles A. Nickum, 69, who painted a portrait of Abraham Lincoln without knowing who was posing for him, died at his home here late last night. At the time Mr. Nickum painted the picture his studio was in Cincinnati. A lawyer accompanied the war president when he sat for the portrait and after President Lincoln was shot he told the painter who it was who posed for him and sought to purchase the painting. Mr. Nickum refused and always kept the picture.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Ten Cent Best

Lowell Courier-Union: Peru expects to shift beef to the United States by way of the Panama canal and sell it at 10 cents a pound. And at that figure we will wager that the beef trust will take all that is offered, and put it into cold storage until the price becomes right for the retail trade. Yet the new administration has an unusual opportunity to serve the people by putting this whole beef question into such competent hands that the products that come into the country on the free list shall find their way to the consumer, and not to be held up by the middlemen.

Cost of Living

Boston Post: An interesting contribution to statistics of the cost of living is made in the annual report of a nursery and orphan asylum in Chicago. This institution has been taking care of children since 1874, during which period it has had some 4300 inmates. When it started, and for 10 years, the annual cost of maintaining one child was within a few cents of $50. Today the average is over $140.

Effect of Foss

Boston Traveler: Foss, as a candidate, would still further divide the opposition to Walsh. He would obtain some genuine democratic votes, especially from those whom he has appointed to office, but Walsh's foe in the democratic party care little or nothing for Foss. Foss would help Walsh, although at the present time Walsh does not require such help.

Currency

Newport News: President Wilson, now that his tariff bill is practically a law, is especially anxious that Congress shall settle its differences on the currency measure and will use all his efforts to secure its early passage. Will he succeed as well in this case?

New York Laws

Brockton Enterprise: New York papers announce that a new law is coming that is drastic in protecting the factory girls. Sure. Perhaps the first man who violates it will be fined the enormous sum of $20, the same as Blank was when he locked in his workers the other day after another lock-in had cost within time easily rememberable the lives of 147 other girls he employed.

Senator Lodge

Portland Express: It is sincerely to be hoped that Senator Lodge will soon recover from his illness. No man in Washington is better informed as to our foreign relations, or for that matter, upon all subjects of national legislation. Such an able and experienced politician can hardly be spared from the senate.

Dress and Suffrage

Burlington Free Press: Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice-president of the United States, calls the new fashioning fashions "hideous." She delivers a "body blow" in the remark that the women appear to have lost their sense of propriety, and that "until women can correct their present form of dressing they cannot sensibly ask for the ballot." How many women would go contrary to fashion in order to win even the ballot?

DEPORTATION OF MISS LLOYD

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The deportation of Marie Lloyd, the music hall singer, is commented on today by the Pall Mall Gazette, which writes somewhat sarcastically about what it describes as the sensitiveness of public opinion.

It says:

"One can only hope that the excessive propriety which governs the regulations for the admission of aliens to America corresponds with the daily life of the citizens within its discreet borders."

TO BAR MRS. PANKHURST

PENNSYLVANIA SUFFRAGISTS TO IGNORE THE PRESENCE OF MR. ISH MILITANT

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—No recognition of any sort, cordial or otherwise, awaits Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst from Pennsylvania suffragists upon her visit to this country, according to the dictum voiced at the headquarters of the Equal Franchise Federation here yesterday.

Mrs. F. M. Bonessing, president of the Pennsylvania branch of the Association, said that Mrs. Pankhurst had not been invited to the United States by the suffragists, neither would the militant's presence be acceptable.

Mrs. J. C. Miller, local president, said Mrs. Pankhurst "will find only slight opportunity in this city of discussing on the agonies of forcible feeding, since members of the Woman's Suffrage party intend to ignore the presence of the English woman and do all in their power to prevent her speaking here."

This public statement was put out by suffrage headquarters here yesterday.

Pittsburgh suffragists have pledged themselves to join with the Equal Franchise Federation of Pennsylvania in fighting against the influence of the militants, and Mrs. Pankhurst will find the doors of the local suffrage enthusiasts closed to her, no matter how loudly she may shout "Votes for women."

In connection with the Pennsylvania suffragists' convention, set for Oct. 23 to 30 in this city, Mrs. Miller said yesterday that Mrs. Pankhurst's name had not been considered as a speaker, and that "positively no invitation would be extended to the leader of London women."

Pinklets, the New Laxative, Gently Assist Nature

The first step in correcting constipation is to stop the use of strong purgatives. Substitute for them the mild, non-gripping, but effective laxative, Pinklets. Strong, harsh purgatives are of little value in the treatment of constipation because they wear out the muscular activity of the bowels and finally lessen their sensibility to even the strongest stimulation. The continued use of purgatives always brings on chronic constipation instead of correcting it. With Pinklets you need have no such fear. They assist the bowels in their work and so gently that they are not irritated by the treatment. Pinklets are for every member of the family. Each bottle contains complete directions for use. Any druggist can supply you with Pinklets at 25 cents per bottle.

ELLIOTT WILL AID

New Haven President
Tells Foss That Road
Wants Investigation

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—President Howard Elliott of the New Haven railroad yesterday wrote a letter to Governor Foss in which he agrees to a thorough investigation of the circumstances surrounding the payment of large sums of money to various representatives of the road connected with the state house and offers his co-operation to the public service commission in conducting the inquiry.

The New Haven head offers to submit whatever data, original vouchers, pay rolls and books on file in the company's office that may be needed by the commission in making the investigation.

The letter is as follows:

My dear Gov. Foss:
Your letter of Sept. 29, in reply to mine of the same date, is here. Just as soon as you, or the commission, if you put the matter in their hands, are ready I shall be glad to give the matter my best attention.

We will be glad to submit any original vouchers or to furnish certified copies, or we will be glad to have the properly accredited representatives of the state of Massachusetts examine the books, pay-rolls and vouchers on file in our offices.

The question raised by you is very important, and this company would like to have the very fullest investigation of the whole matter and have it done at once.

In your letter of Sept. 25 to Mr. Macleod you say:

"It is my understanding that the power conferred upon you by the legislature of 1913 in creating your commission suffices for your purpose in conducting the inquiry which I now call for."

This company will be pleased to have the commission feel that in this case it has the power suggested and proceed on that theory.

Yours very sincerely,
Howard Elliott,
President.

Hub Councilman Failed to Press Charges at Hearing Yesterday

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The three members of the city council appointed to investigate Councilman Ernest E. Smith's charges that Good Government association officials lobbied against the extension of the city's building limits, a stenographer and city hall reporters were all who appeared at city hall yesterday afternoon when the time arrived for the public hearing on Smith's charges. As a result, the hearing was deferred until the committee is able to arrange for another session.

Councilman Smith, who made the charges at the last session of the city council, did not appear, and did not notify the committee that he did not intend to appear. Neither were there any Good Government association officials present.

After calling the meeting to order, Chairman Ballantine announced that he had talked with Smith on the telephone the day before and learned that Smith did not intend to be present unless a stenographer was present and witnesses were sworn. When informed that a stenographer would attend, Smith said that he might be out of the city working in the interest of the progressive ticket.

The committee, which consists of Councilmen Ballantine, Attridge and McDonald, finally decided to adjourn subject to the call of the chairman, and meet Smith for the purpose of deciding what course to pursue.

Councilman Smith's outbursts against the Good Government association will cost him the Good Government association-Citizens' Municipal league nomination for re-election to the city council, and Henry E. Hagan of ward 20, a prominent member of the league and a leader in the chamber of commerce, will be nominated in Smith's place, according to authentic information given out yesterday by members of the league.

The other two places on the league's slate will go to Councilman Daniel J. McDonald, candidate for re-election, and Lewis J. Hewitt of ward 25, whom Councilman James A. Watson defeated a year ago, or Logan McLean of East Boston.

As a result of the league's determination to turn down Smith, the councilman proposes to either go before the people as an independent candidate or run as a progressive candidate for the council.

GOOD RESULTS

In Raising of Egyptian Cotton in Irrigated Sections

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3.—The government's experiment in growing Egyptian cotton in the irrigated sections of the southwest has shown that such cotton may be raised successfully there and at fair profit, according to Carl S. Schofield, agriculturist, in charge of western irrigation farming, of the United States department of agriculture. In an address delivered before the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers Mr. Schofield announced the results of the experiment.

A supply of seed obtained by the government and distributed among seventy-five farmers in Arizona and California sufficed to plant 530 acres. In the Salt River Valley, Arizona, where the best results were obtained, Mr. Schofield said thirty-two farmers planted 305 acres. There several fields were measured and a record kept of the harvest. This record Mr. Schofield read as follows:

Size of Field, Acres	Total Pounds	Average Per Acre, Pounds
3.32	2,927	729
3.32	3,572	714
3.35	3,518	714
1.42	2,954	700
1.42	2,954	700
15.25	10,150	667
10.25	5,937	578
2.58	1,451	566
13.15	6,553	498

Altaita has proved to be the best alternating crop to be used with this cotton, Mr. Schofield said. The quality of the cotton was excellent some of the lint stapling slightly more than 1 1/2 inches and the bulk 1 1/4 inches. The price obtained for the cotton, he said, varied between 21 and 23 cents a pound. About 1,500 pounds of seed cotton of the Tuma variety, the kind used, yielded a 500-pound bale, and the cotton seed obtained therefrom was more than sufficient to pay for the ginning and baling, even when sold to an oil mill at the low figure of $15 a ton.

Mr. Schofield estimated the cost of producing an acre of Egyptian cotton—basing his estimate on averages—at approximately $61, exclusive of interest on land investments. This he divided as follows: Seed, tillage and irrigation, $15; picking (1,500 pounds seed cotton), $36; ginning and baling, $10; the average yield in the Salt River Valley experiment was in excess of a bale an acre, the profit was consequently a good one, approximately $10 an acre.

HEINZE WINS SUIT

Boston Money Lenders Must Replace Value of Securities

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—F. Augustus Heinze of New York and Butte, Mont., has won his suit to recover the value of $500,000 in bonds and stocks from about 40 well known Boston brokers and money lenders. The supreme judicial court has recalled its decision in the case and so amended it that virtually all the defendants may be held liable to Heinze. Liability rests not only for any bonds or stock which he originally serving a term in state prison, and which they may have remaining in their possession, but for the value of those securities which the note brokers and money lenders have disposed of.

This decision practically overrules in every particular the conclusions reached by F. J. Rockwood Hall, who for more than a decade heard the evidence of Heinze and the defendants in the suit. He sat as special master, appointed by the supreme judicial court.

The only necessary step for Heinze to take, according to the decision, is to amend his bill.

A majority of the defendants knew when they took the securities, valued at more than $500,000, from Adams, that he had received them from Heinze or the latter's agent, Warfield, under certain conditions in regard to their transfer.

At times Heinze, with his vast interests extending from British Columbia to New York city, has been in financial straits. It was during one of these periods that he sent his agent, Carlos Warfield, to Boston, loaded down with securities of the Ohio Copper company and other mining ventures of proved worth, and which he had developed.

Warfield soon came into the hands of A. D. F. Adams, who was loaning money at fairly low rates of interest on marketable collateral. He offered Warfield or Heinze $300,000 with the securities as collateral. His offer was accepted and a note signed by Heinze was given with the securities as collateral.

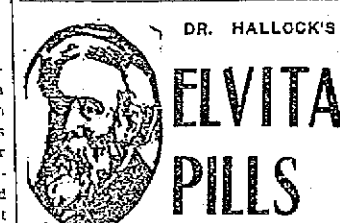

IDENTIFY BODY

Young English Baronet Died From an Overdose of Ether

PARIS, Oct. 3.—The body of an Englishman which had been removed from the morgue after his death from an overdose of ether has been identified as that of a young English baronet, Sir Frederick Williams. He was found unconscious in his luxuriously appointed apartments on the boulevard Mount Marlie by a friend who had him removed to a hospital, where he died. Sir Frederick, about 25 years old, fair complexion and distinguished appearance, rented his apartments about six months ago, decorating them with costly draperies, rare and incense burners.

Neighbors say he received a number of strange visitors, most of them foreigners whose errands were mysterious. Only one woman was ever seen to enter, she being a young dancer who had been engaged to teach him dancing.

Saturday, October 4th, is "Quarter Day" at the Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

STEAMER BURNED AT SEA

Crew Was Rescued When Vessel Laden With Cotton and Oil Went up in Flames

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Fifty-four shipwrecked persons from the British freight steamer Templemore which was burned at sea, 800 miles east of Virginia Capes, were brought here last night by the Hamburg American steamer Arcadia. No lives were lost and no one was seriously injured.

The hull of the burned vessel is believed now to be beneath the waters of the Atlantic. The value of the vessel and her cargo is estimated at $150,000, covered by insurance.

Besides the crew there were aboard the ill-fated vessel William Thomas, a consular passenger, and a stowaway named McCormick. All signed a testimonial to Capt. George Boldt and the crew of the Arcadia in which deep gratitude was expressed for the prompt manner in which the rescue was effected.

Capt. Isaac Jones of the Templemore, which left Baltimore for Liverpool last Saturday, said the fire was discovered at 11:30 Monday night in the hold where cotton was stored and it was his belief that it was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Wireless Call for Help

"I ordered the hold flooded," said Capt. Jones, "and besides two powerful streams of water were sent into the ventilators just above the burning cotton.

Within 20 minutes the fire reached the oil and lumber stored next to the cotton and an explosion which shook the vessel from end to end occurred. I ordered the wireless operator to send out an 'S. O. S.'

"Word came at 11:50 that the Arcadia, 50 miles away, had heard our call and was coming at full speed, still, we fought the blaze, my men appearing unimpaired of the danger.

"The fire reached the engine room so quickly that the steering gear was put out of commission within five minutes after the light began. The pumps were still working, however, and we managed to keep going until about 1 o'clock. Finally, Edward Emmanuel, the wireless operator, reported the lights were out in his room and the current he used was practically useless.

"Emmanuel ordered candles and with the aid of his reserve storage battery he kept in communication with the Arcadia for 15 minutes longer. Then his batteries failed.

"I saw we had done the best we could and three boats were lowered. No man left the ship until he received instructions to do so from me. I have never heard of men who behaved so admirably under such trying conditions.

"It was a few minutes after 1 o'clock when I left the ship. All on board had preceded me to the boats.

"Our experience in the small boats was the worst of all. A storm was raging and the wind nearly upset our slender bottoms. Under such conditions, however, we managed to keep our boats head to the wind until 3:05 o'clock when the Arcadia came alongside.

"Many of the crew were seasick and exhausted. Some were so weak they had to be lifted out of the boats. When the Arcadia started toward Baltimore the Templemore was aflame from bow to stern."

POTATOES HIGH

Are Becoming a Luxury —Drop in Price Expected Soon

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Potatoes are being shipped from Maine and sold to the middleman for $1.10 a barrel this week, though they are still marked 25 cents a peck, or what would amount to $3.25 at retail. A drop is hoped for soon.

It has been a fine week for fish, ascarole and chicory, cucumber pickles and preserving fruits, but sirloin steak has risen two cents, and still no signs of the promised Argentine beef.

These were the average prices at Boston markets yesterday: Italian tomatoes 10 cents a quart, citron melons 10 cents apiece, sweet peppers 20 cents a dozen, blueberries 25 cents a quart, fine big eating apples and California peaches 25 cents a dozen, large baskets of peaches 75 cents to $1 according to size of fruit, grape, malaga, muscatel, tokay and Carishon grapes 10 cents a pound, Delaware and Concord 15 cents a basket, cauliflower 5 cents a head, sweet corn 20 cents a dozen, pickle cucumbers 10 cents a quart, lima and wax beans 5 cents a quart, radishes 4 bunches for 5 cents, Spanish onions 5 cents apiece, lettuce 5 cents a head, ascarole and chicory 8 cents a head, green wax plums 50 cents a basket, plum tomatoes 3 1-3 cents, and damson plums 40 cents, while crab apples were 55 cents a basket. Tomatoes were 10 cents a pound and celery 10 cents a bunch, canteloupes 8 1-3 cents apiece.

Sirloin steak was 35 cents, fresh eggs 45 cents, and western eggs as low as 25 cents, creamery butter 33 cents, bluefish 15 cents a pound, smelts 35 cents, flounder 12 cents, haddock 10 cents, eels 10 cents, spawns 12 1/2 cents, herring 3 cents apiece, scallops 35 cents a quart, white halibut 20 cents a pound, chicken mackerel 15 cents, salmon 20 cents, swordfish 23 cents, and tinker mackerel 3 for 25 cents.

Here is Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer's receipt for fruit honey, a seasonable undertaking:

Take equal quantities of grated pineapple and small yellow tomatoes peeled. Allow a pound of sugar to each pint of material. Mix the sugar with the fruit and cook without water till transparent.

Select eight hard and rather select pears, or the equivalent in quinces or pineapples. Boil three pounds of sugar with a pint of water for just a moment, and skim. Grate the fruit and put quickly into the syrup to prevent discoloration. Boil 10 minutes and put away in tumblers the same as jelly.

WILL NOT TELL PROFITS

Public Service Commission Balked By Head of Parcel-Checking Business in Grand Central Station

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Counsel for the public service commission, balked yesterday in a second effort to learn the profits of the parcel-checking room at the Grand Central station, announced that they would ask the supreme court to compel a refractory witness to disclose this information under penalty of contempt of court.

The witness is W. H. Mendel, chief stockholder of the corporation operating this package room. Mendel charges 10 cents for checking a package, and inasmuch as only 5 cents is charged at Boston and other large cities, the commission is seeking to investigate the reasonableness of the 10-cent charge.

Mendel continued yesterday his refusal to reveal his profits, claiming that the commission is without jurisdiction.

REV. D. J. MURPHY CHOSEN

Pastor of St. Andrew's Church at No. Billerica — Several Other Priests Transferred

Rev. David J. Murphy, who for the past few years has been a curate at St. Leo's church in Dorchester, has been appointed pastor of St. Andrew's church of North Billerica by His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell. Up to a recent date, the parish had been under the direction of Rev. Fr. Cornell, O. M. I., North Billerica being a mission of the Oblate fathers of Tewksbury. Rev. Fr. Murphy previous to going to Dorchester, had been connected with the Church of the Immaculate Conception of Salem for about 15 years. His appointment is the most important of several announced by the diocesan authorities. Fr. Murphy is a brother of Mr. James A. Murphy, director of St. Michael's choir, and is a well-known priest.

St. Andrew's is a rapidly growing parish and it is believed that the completion of the big railroad shops will be the means of bringing a large additional number there as new residents of the town. Rev. Fr. Murphy, who is to assume his duties there on Monday, is a native of Lowell and has a host of warm friends in this city. He is a graduate of Holy Cross college of Worcester with the class of 1890 and on completion of his college course, entered the seminary at Brighton, being ordained in 1894 by the late Archbishop Williams. He was first assigned to the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Salem and later to St. Leo's at Dorchester. His many friends in this city will be highly pleased to learn that he has been given a pastorate.

Several other transfers have been made by His Eminence, the cardinal. Rev. James A. Sherry and Rev. P. J. Scannell have been assigned to St. Patrick's church in South Lawrence. Rev. Fr. Scannell has for a number of years been connected with St. John's church in Quincy, while Rev. Fr. Sherry was attached to the parish at Peabody. He was also formerly associated with Rev. Fr. Barry, pastor of St. Benedict's church at Somerville and assisted in the building of that church. Rev. James T. Landrigan and Rev. M. P. Maguire of St. Patrick's, South Lawrence, have been transferred. Rev. Fr. Landrigan going to St. Bridget's parish in Abington as assistant to the pastor, Rev. P. H. Billings, and Rev. Fr. Maguire going to the church of St. Francis in Walpole to assist the pastor, Rev. Fr. Riley. Rev. Fr. Landrigan had for several years been assistant to the pastor of St. Patrick's in South Lawrence and Rev. Fr. Maguire had been attached to the same church for some time.

Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Sullivan has been transferred from St. John the Evangelist parish, at Swampscott, to St. Leo's parish, in Dorchester, where he will succeed Fr. Murphy, who goes to a pastorate.

Rev. Fr. John J. O'Donnell goes to the Watertown parish, in place of Fr. Shaughnessy, coming there from St. Bridget's parish at Abington.

Rev. Fr. Francis T. Mahoney goes to St. John the Evangelist parish, at Swampscott, from St. Francis' parish, at Walpole.

FEDERAL CONTROL

Rep. Lewis Wants U. S. to Operate All Wires—President Wilson Interested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Governor ownership of telegraph and telephone lines is to be proposed in bills Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland is drafting now for introduction in the house probably within a month. The measures, which would have these public utilities taken over as a part of the postal service, have not been made an administration policy, the president is known to have discussed the idea with Representative Lewis and others interested in the project.

Mr. Lewis has collected a mass of data on the subject of telephone and telegraph operation, and has prepared estimates as to their cost to the government, their availability as a source of revenue and cost of maintenance and also has worked out a tentative plan for their acquisition and operation as government public utilities.

Besides laying his plans before President Wilson, Representative Lewis has consulted frequently concerning them with Postmaster-General Burleson.

When the Maryland Congressman reviewed his plans with the president the latter, it is reported, evinced considerable interest, but it is known that consideration of the matter has not advanced sufficiently for the project to be designated as an administration plan.

Representative Lewis, however, proposed to press the proposed legislation vigorously and already he has procured the indorsement of the proposal by many members of congress.

TO HOLD FIRST MEETING

Executive Committee of St. Joseph's College Alumni Will Meet Next Friday

The new board of directors of St. Joseph's college alumni will hold their first meeting a week from tonight at the home of one of the directors, Eugene Hicard in Fletcher street. It is probable that a social of some kind for the members of the alumni will be provided in order to keep the good feeling that already exists among the members of this popular organization. The question of a chaplain for the alumni will also be taken up, and as in the past the affair will be left to the pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Rev. Hervey Racette, O. M. I. D. D., who is a member of the alumni. All members of the executive committee are requested to be present at the first meeting.

STATE SEALER IS AFTER DRUGGISTS

Writes to Local Sealer Requesting That Weights and Measures of Druggists be Carefully Tested

The statement that the prescription devices, counter scales and measures of various kinds used by druggists are not always correct and that there is a certain kind of sanctity about druggists' scales and weighing and measuring devices handed down from the time of the alchemists is contained in a letter received by Commissioner Cummings from the office of the commissioner of weights and measures at the state house and the weights and measures officials are admonished not to pass by the drug stores. The letter, dated Sept. 29, 1913, reads:

Dear Sir: Your attention is respectfully called to sections 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17, chapter 82 of the revised laws, relative to the testing and sealing of apothecaries' scales, weights and measures.

The field of endeavor of weights and measures officials is broad and is constantly broadening, hence, due to the lack of help, lack of facilities, and lack of this certain phases of work receive more neglected attention than others. Among the classes of weights and measures that are neglected by some of the local weights and measures officials are the weighing and measuring devices in drug stores. The cause of this seeming neglect, aside from the help or time elements, is often found in the idea that has been instilled in the minds of some of the local weights and measures officials through the prevailing notion of the general public and many druggists that there is a certain kind of sanctity about druggists' scales and weighing and measuring devices. This notion has been handed down from the time of the alchemists.

The idea is typified by the reception that the weights and measures official very often receives upon entering a drug store. The druggist or clerk will smile knowingly and say: "You surely do not want to test my druggists' scales, do you? How absurd this is! An examination of these very scales and accompanying weights will cause surprise and wonderment as to their inaccuracy. Even recognizing that the field of prescriptions is relative weighing and measuring, no one can be done as carefully as absolute weighing, and further recognizing that more or less inaccuracy or carelessness does not so materially affect the results attained by prescription, in-

SCHOOL STILL CROWDED

Work in Many Departments at High School Hindered by the Lack of Room

The crowded condition of the rooms at the Lowell high school still prevails, according to the statement of Principal Irish to a Sun man this morning. Two of the classes are at present holding their recitations in the assembly hall of the building, a course which is accompanied by setbacks and considerable inconvenience affecting several departments.

With the two classes, both of which are very large, holding their recitations in the same hall, the work is hindered. It is with great difficulty that the work of instruction and of hearing the daily lessons is carried on. Moreover, under the present state of affairs, it is, of course, out of the question to hold the election classes, and thus the work in this line has had to undergo suspension until better arrangements are effected.

Mr. Irish said that he had succeeded in housing all of the pupils by crowding them into the various rooms, providing extra chairs, benches, etc., but that the principal need is that of suitable recitation rooms. The work in many departments is hindered by the lack of room.

The members of the school committee have taken up the question of providing additional rooms and have under consideration the house of the Jewett estate in Kirk street, just north of the high school building and directly in the rear of the Knights of Columbus building. The occupants of this house, it is said, have recently begun to move out, and from this it is supposed that they have received notification of their removal. The committee is in charge of the place, who may anticipate leasing the building to the city for school purposes.

A member of the school committee said today that he believed that the lease had already been signed by Mayor O'Donnell for the city of Lowell, the lease being granted by J. D. Jewett representing the heirs of Harriett E. Jewett, who are said to reside in Arlington. His Honor, the mayor, however, when questioned about the matter, replied that he had not as yet signed any lease, nor has he received any official notification that such action was pending. He did say, however, that from various sources he has heard that it is the intention of the school board to request him to sign such a lease at an early date. It seems to be the general belief that the matter will be transacted as soon as possible, so that the carpenters may prepare the rooms to be used as recitation rooms. The location of the building adjoining as it does, the main high school, is most favorable.

Football Game Monday

The football game between the Lowell High eleven and the team representing the High School of Commerce of Boston, will be played at Spaulding park on Monday afternoon, having been postponed Saturday because of the failure of the authorities to secure the use of the park for that date. The team is reported to be in fine shape and it is expected that a large number will go to the park to see the first home gridiron contest of the season.

CENTRAL STREET

FIND MAN DYING OF STARVATION

While walking in the vicinity of North Chelmsford yesterday, Joseph Fallon and Fred Reidy, two young men of that town were horrified to find a man unkept, disheveled and almost in the last stages of starvation lying in an old shack near the disused rifle range. He was terribly emaciated and had evidently lain where they found him for several days. The chairman of the board of selectmen was notified and immediately went to the scene. When he saw the condition of the unfortunate man he sent for Dr. Varney, who rendered medical assistance and advised the administration of nourishment judiciously as the man was perishing for want of food. At that time he rambled incoherently in his talk and could give no account of himself, where he hailed from or how long he had lain there, but later in the evening when his condition improved he muttered something about Collinsville. Accordingly, this morning he was driven to Collinsville and taken to the home of John Brennan, town clerk of Dracut, for identification. Mr. Brennan identified him as one John Kendall who had lived in Collinsville up to six weeks ago, but had mysteriously disappeared about that time. Because of his weak and emaciated condition Mr. Brennan immediately ordered him to the Corporation hospital. He is said to have relatives or friends in Church street this city.

When interviewed this morning on the subject Mr. Brennan said: "I know the man very well as he has lived and worked in Collinsville for some time past and people there were very surprised when he disappeared suddenly about six weeks ago. In a short time, however, the matter was forgotten and you can imagine my surprise when I was called upon by the Chelmsford authorities to identify him and found in-

TEXTILE SCHOOL 18 MONTHS IN JAIL

Now in Full Swing With a Large Attendance—Football Team Busy

The work at the Lowell Textile school is now in full swing with a very large attendance at all of the classes. Those classes in which after a four years' course degrees may be obtained are especially sought by the entering students.

On last Wednesday evening, the alumni of the institution gave an informal reception to the students, old and new, at the school and a very pleasant evening was spent by all. In this way a valuable intercommunication is established between alumni and students today, which may be of special benefit to the latter. There was an address of welcome by Mr. Arthur C. Varnum, assistant superintendent of the Sterling mills of this city, and a graduate of the Textile school, class of '06. His words were of deep interest to all and were listened to attentively throughout. The speech was followed by a program of music, instrumental and vocal, after which these present went about renewing acquaintances, making new friends, and generally enjoying themselves and confirming the bond of union between the graduates and students of the institution.

The evening classes of the school will start work on Monday evening next. Registration periods for these classes have been held on the past two Thursday evenings and the enrollment thus far is more than usually large. A great many students from Lowell and Lawrence will attend the evening session.

The football eleven is benefiting by daily workouts on the campus and gives promise of being a winning aggregation. Thus far a very large number of candidates have reported to the coach and the interest is even greater than that of last year.

The members of the various classes will be called into session at an early date in order to organize.

REPLY TO FOSS

B. of L. E. Will Make Acknowledgment of Governor's Letter

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 3.—An acknowledgment of receipt of a letter from Gov. Eugene H. Foss bearing upon a strike of the engineers and firemen of the New Haven system in which the executive says he would invoke executive aid to stop a strike, will be made at once by L. G. Griffing, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and P. McNamara, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers. The governor's letter was received by each union in a morning mail. The two officers then decided to make an acknowledgment of the letter and later to draft a reply to it. Mr. Griffing said that this reply would be made public at the earliest possible moment. Neither officer of the brotherhoods would comment upon the letter of Gov. Foss. They said they had read it with interest in the morning papers. Both officers called at the rooms of the adjustment committee and found the committeemen in deep discussion of the letter. They took no part in it.

F. S. Evans, chairman of the committee, said that the whole matter now rested with Messrs. Griffing and McNamara. Their representatives, Grand Chief Stone of the engineers and President Carter of the firemen's brotherhood. They will count the vote probably tonight.

In regard to the rule of seniority, to which the engineers object, Mr. Evans said that the old rule, in force for 12 years, had the words, "if competent" in it. For these words the railroad company had substituted the qualification of "fitness." Otherwise the rule is practically the same.

HANS SCHIMDT HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Coroner's Jury Holds Him Responsible for the Death of Anna Amuller

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Hans Schmidt, the murderer of Anna Amuller, became frenzied today at the coroner's inquest into the death of his victim, tore from his neck the rosary he had worn ever since his incarceration and hurled it at the newspaper reporters sitting half a dozen steps away. The jury found him responsible for the girl's death.

Schmidt's outburst of temper occurred in the presence of a jury of millionaires empaneled to conduct the inquest. The verdict was quickly found.

It follows: "We, the jury, believe that Anna Amuller came to her death on Sept. 2, 1912, at number 55 Broadhurst avenue at the hands of Hans Schmidt." Schmidt was immediately remanded to the Tombs without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Co., was foreman of the jury. His fellow jurors included Vincent Aster, B. J. Greenhut, merchant; Mortimer Regensberg, cigar manufacturer and E. S. Marston, banker.

When Schmidt was brought into the courtroom he appeared to be calm. During the brief examination of witnesses he sat with his back to the courtroom bolt upright and made no unusual move until the coroner had concluded his charge to the jury.

Coroner Feinberg's charge seemed to lash the prisoner into a sudden tempest of fury. Jumping to his feet, his eyes blazing and his lips moving, Schmidt tore the rosary from his neck and before detectives could stay him he had hurled it at the reporters.

The torso of the victim was identified by Anna Hirt, who roomed with the Amuller girl at the parish house of St. Boniface's church. A small brown mark on the bosom, which may have been the birthmark, furnished the means of identification.

The Hirt woman was followed on the stand by detectives, the physician who made the autopsy and finally by Inspector Fauriol, in charge of the detective bureau, to whom Schmidt confessed.

"Do you wish to place your client on the stand?" Coroner Feinberg next asked counsel for Schmidt. The answer was in the negative.

The coroner told the jury that it could find that Anna Amuller came to her death at the hands of an unknown person or that she was killed by a person to be named by the jury. "Hans Schmidt does not appear before you on trial for murder," he said. "You are simply to find a verdict as a coroner's jury."

Within 15 minutes from the time the first witness had taken the stand the jury had withdrawn for deliberation of the case. Within ten minutes more it had returned with its verdict.

LIKE THE NEW SYSTEM

Auditor Paige and Assistants Impressed With the Book-Keeping Arrangement

The new system of bookkeeping that is being installed at the city hall by experts from Gettemy's office will be in operation in a very few days and the experts will then march on to Lawrence to install the system there.

City Auditor Paige and his assistants are very much pleased with the new system. It means considerable more work for them, but the system is so thorough that they allow the extra work is worth while. It is nothing more nor less than a corporation system of bookkeeping, double entry, to which the engineers object, Mr. Evans said that the old rule, in force for 12 years, had the words, "if competent" in it. For these words the railroad company had substituted the qualification of "fitness." Otherwise the rule is practically the same.

Under the new system the card classification scheme will be eliminated and will be superseded by the bureau of statistics, classification book. Under the new system it will be possible for the auditor to balance the city's books daily, if necessary, and the necessity of leaving something to go over till tomorrow as was the case under the old system will be wiped out.

The experts have posted the new books up to September 1 and in a day or two they will have them posted up to Oct. 1. Then the experts will turn the books over to the city auditor and go on to Lawrence, leaving a man behind to write classification sheets. It is generally conceded that the new system will work a great improvement.

More Money Needed

Nobody at city hall knows how much money will be required to piece over the different departments for the year. The school department and the board of health are not the only ones who will ask for more money. The purchasing agent's department will have to have more money because of increased expenses connected with the office.

This would be a good time, it was suggested today, for the council members to think about what is going to happen next year. This year's government is allowed to borrow for current expenses but after Jan. 1, 1914, borrowing for current expenses must cease, and that is one big reason why the state allowed the cities and towns the privilege of making the tax rate $15 instead of $12. The extra dollar was intended to relieve the embarrassment of being unable to borrow for current or departmental expenses.

"The city will make a big mistake if it does not raise the limit to $13," said Mr. Tarbox of Gettemy's office today.

City Planning Board

The city council has not yet elected successors to Messrs. Joseph A. LeGare and George P. Green, who declined to serve on the city planning board, and Mayor O'Donnell said today that so far as he was concerned he didn't have any new candidates in mind.

Gov. Foss will call a meeting of the planning boards of the different cities throughout the commonwealth. The meeting or conference will be held in Boston about Oct. 19 or 20.

LEAPS TO DEATH

Patient in Maine Hospital Jumps Through Window

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 3.—While in a delirious condition caused by a fever, Frank H. Moody, 30 years old, leaped through a window on the fourth floor of the Maine General hospital early yesterday and was instantly killed when he struck the brick sidewalk.

Moody was a traveling real estate agent and had recently taken a house in this city. Soon after midnight the nurse, Miss Jennie Keene, detected symptoms of delirium in her patient. She secured a set of bands with which to confine the man to the bed and was just leaving the room for help in adjusting them when Moody leaped up and sprang for the window.

Before the nurse could block his flight he dived out head first, going through the screen, the window being open. Miss Keene was in time only to seize him by an ankle. The man's weight almost pulled her through the window and the edges of the screen and window sill severely lacerated her arms and wrists. Her shirtwaist was torn to shreds. The young woman screamed for help, but none came until after she was obliged to loosen her hold.

LIFE SAVERS TO RESCUE

CAPT. CAHOON OF HARWICH IN A DANGEROUS FLIGHT—BOAT GOES ON ROCKS AT LONG LEDGE

SITUATION, Oct. 3.—Capt. Cahoon of Harwich was rescued by the local U. S. life-saving crew from a dangerous position, when the 20-foot cat-boat in which he was sailing alone from Boston to South Harwich went on to the rocks at Long Ledge, off the Sand Hills beach, about 7 last night.

Capt. Cahoon left Boston yesterday afternoon, and just after passing Milne's Light his compass went overboard when a big wave struck the little craft.

A heavy sea has been running the past two days owing to the high north-east wind and the waves tossed the catboat about so that it was almost unmanageable. Capt. Cahoon, with his compass missing, lost his direction when darkness fell and striking on the rocks was the first indication he got that he was near land.

Some people on the beach telephoned the life-saving station. Capt. Frederick Franzen and his six men hurried with their apparatus down the three miles of a beach to a point opposite Long Ledge. A heavy dory was launched and the life-savers rowed 300 yards to the craft, which had careened, and took off Capt. Cahoon. He was brought to the life-saving station where he remained last night.

The catboat was righted and anchored in a safe place for the night. The craft was not damaged and Capt. Cahoon will resume his trip in the morning.

THANKSGIVING

Gov. Dunne, of Ohio, to Call Conference to Consider Asking That Nov. 19 Be Set Aside

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 3.—Governor Dunne will call a conference of leading citizens of Ohio next week to consider the proposition of addressing a memorial to President Wilson asking him to fix Wednesday, Nov. 19, as Thanksgiving day for this year.

Nov. 19 will be the fiftieth anniversary of the delivery by Abraham Lincoln of his Gettysburg address. The movement, it is said, has the endorsement of United States Senators Sherman and Lewis of Ohio.

CLABBY AND PETROSKY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—Jimmy Clabby, the eastern middleweight, will meet Sailor Petrosky here tonight in a 20-round fight, the winner of which probably will be acclaimed the champion of his class. Although the easterner is a shade more highly held in the ring public's estimation at odds of 9 to 10, experts agree that there is little to choose between the men and a hard fought contest is expected. Clabby is conceded about ten pounds to Petrosky, who made it a condition that he be allowed to "weigh 160 pounds, two pounds over the recognized middleweight class."

MATHEWS OF BILLERICA

TENDERED RECEPTION TO REV. FR. CORNELL, O. M. I., RETIRING PASTOR OF ST. ANDREWS

About seventy members of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence society of North Billerica assembled in their hall last night to bid farewell to the Rev. E. J. Cornell, O. M. I., chaplain of the society and pastor of St. Andrew's church of North Billerica. A similar reception was held by the residents of the town in Talbot Memorial hall last week and the members of the Mathews also took an active part in that event.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of a silver watch to the pastor as a token of the appreciation of the interest that he has taken in the Mathews during his stay in Billerica. The presentation was made by Mr. Fred Reardon, president of the society, and he in behalf of the members expressed their good wishes wherever his new field may be and told of the regret that the Mathews and others felt when it became known that he was to leave the church and society. Fr. Cornell thanked the members for the thoughtful gift and assured them that

Slattery was present and spoke at some length on the history of the Mathews of No. Billerica. Mr. Slattery was one of the organizers of this society and he stated that he had missed very few social events since its organization and took great pleasure in being with the members. He was loudly applauded at the close of his talk by those who know him as the "father of the society." During the evening there were musical selections by Mr. Charles Fairbrother, Mr. George Ennion and Mr. Nestor Hubert and recitations by Mr. Maurice O'Donnell. The committee in charge was as follows: J. Fred Reardon, J. E. Gannon, Neil R. Mahoney, Joseph O'Brien, Arthur L. TARIFF PASSES IN SENATE

By Vote of 36 to 17—Expected
Bill Will be in Hands of Pres.
Wilson by Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The democratic tariff revision bill, probably will be in the hands of President Wilson for his signature by tonight. The senate at the end of a listless debate passed the conference report at 3.30 o'clock last night by a vote of 36 to 17 only four more than the necessary quorum of the senate.

Sensors La Follette, republican, of Wisconsin, and Polindexter, progressive, of Washington, voted for the conference report as they did for the bill on its passage, and Senators Mansfield and Thornton, democrats, of Louisiana, voted against it as they did against the bill. Otherwise it was a strict party vote.

Cotton Tax Dropped

Immediately after the passage of the conference report acting on motions made by Chairman Simmons of the finance committee, the senate rejected the Smith-Lever compromise cotton futures tax amendment passed by the house Tuesday, and then receded from its own amendment, known as the Clarke cotton futures tax plan.

Both of these motions were carried without roll calls and their effect is to leave the cotton futures question out of the tariff bill, so far as the senate is concerned.

The bill was returned to the house early today.

At a conference of house leaders yesterday the question was taken up as to whether the bill might not go directly from the senate to the president. While many parliamentarians held that this course would be legal, Chairman Underwood and Speaker Clark decided that the house should take formal action today to recede from its cotton futures tax amendment. Such action will eliminate the subject from the bill and the completed measure can go to President Wilson at once.

Soon to Be Law

It was thought at the capitol last night that the bill would become a law Saturday. Anticipating such a conclusion to the tariff revision fight, the treasury department was busy yesterday making final preparations to put the new rates of duty into effect on all foreign merchandise on the day following the signature of the bill by the president. It is expected that millions of dollars worth of imported goods now held in bond will be withdrawn for distribution in this country within two or three days after the new tariff rates become effective.

The eight and a half hours of debate in the senate yesterday produced but little real criticism of the tariff bill or the conference agreement. Chief interest centered in the speech of Senator Penrose (republican) of Pennsylvania, who raised the standard of the Angora goat over the democratic party and moved the senate to continued outbursts of laughter with his allusion to the new duty that had been put on Angora wool. The principal criticism of the conference committee came from Senator Pomerene (democrat) of Ohio, whose amendment imposing a tax of $1.10 a gallon on spirits used to fortify sweet wines had been dropped out by the conferees, and from Senator Borah (republican) of Idaho, whose amendment prohibiting the importation of goods made by child labor also had been eliminated.

Senator Pomerene said he acquiesced in the decision of the conferees because he knew the senate members had been compelled to drop the wine tax amendment.

Senator Borah declared that the opposition to the child labor amendment had been fostered and stirred up by importers and aided by "sinister influences" in this country that were opposed to restrictions against child labor.

Child Labor Law Favored

"There is nothing so pathetic, nothing so menacing to the citizenship of this republic," he added, "as the fact that these conditions of labor continue here in our country year after year, and there seems no remedy for them."

Attempts to impeach the work of the conferees on points of order were overruled by Senator Clarke, president pro tempore. Senators Burton and Penrose declared the conference had injected new matter into the tariff bill by changing rates that both houses had agreed to.

Senator Simmons, in presenting estimates of the revenues to be derived from the new tariff rates, declared that the democrats were to be congratulated on the character of the tariff bill that finally had been brought out of the conference committee. "This is the first tariff bill ever passed in this country," he said, "that was framed by the whole body of the party responsible for the legislation."

Many Americans Among the Guests Who Were Touched at Paris

PARIS, Oct. 3.—The hotels here are being systematically robbed, many American visitors being among guests who have lost considerable personal property. At one hotel in the Place Vendôme Mrs. Kirkland, an American, has just been robbed of a quantity of valuable jewelry. At another house in the same square on the same day, while practically all of the guests were absent from their rooms one of the largest of the recent robberies was carried out. A man dressed in workmen's clothes, who said he had come to execute some repairs, was admitted to a number of rooms. He carried away from them without being detected almost everything that was portable. The police have been unable to obtain any clue as to the identity of the thieves.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—During a game of "stump the leader," James Thormally, 14 years old, of 15 Plymouth street, Everett, fell 25 feet from the topmost branches of an elm tree yesterday afternoon on School street and sustained a broken wrist, a fractured right arm, besides possible internal injuries.

SHERIFF'S WORSTED SUITINGS JOHNSON'S FANCY OVERCOATINGS

To the man, who, when he buys, wants the best in the market, who wants late, snappy, up-to-date merchandise, who, when he spends his money likes to see lots of goods so that he won't be restricted in a choice, who doesn't care so much for fifty cents or a dollar on the price, so long as he gets what he likes and what he knows people will appreciate, to the man who wouldn't give a nickel for a bargain, but who would go three miles for what he wanted, I issue

Pain Around The Heart

Means Gas on the Stomach, Not Organic Heart Disease

That pain around your heart means pressure of gas, the result of indigestion. It does not mean heart disease. Pain in the region of the heart is almost never present in organic heart trouble. Strength for the stomach is the one thing needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, one after each meal, and a little care in the diet, will correct most cases. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic and positively strengthen and purify the blood. The renewed blood restores the digestive organs and gives relief that is permanent. This is the tonic treatment for indigestion. You can begin this treatment today and start on the road to health by getting a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People from the nearest drug store.

ers belong to that organization, the remainder not being affiliated with any labor body. An organizer of the I. W. W. addressed them yesterday and announced he would speak to them today.

In an effort to bring about a settlement of the difficulties which have closed down the mill since last Monday representatives of the strikers, mill officials and the state board of arbitration will meet next Monday afternoon. The weavers ask for shorter hours and changes in the working conditions.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of James A. Garfield post, 129, G. A. R., was held in their hall on Merrimack street with Commander Thomas O. Regan in the chair. A large amount of routine business was transacted and Commander Gamell of this city, who now resides in Hillsboro, N. H., was present for the first time in 15 years and made some very interesting remarks. Senior Vice Commander James Adams Bartlett, of Ladd and Whitney post, 185, G. A. R., had been invited to visit Post 129 at the next regular meeting to talk on his visit to Chattanooga on the occasion of the reunion of the Blue and the Gray, September 20 and 21. Plans were made for placing flags in the respective cemeteries on October 10 as follows:

Post 42 will care for St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's and No. 2 cemeteries; the Sons of Veterans will care for the Lowell and Hildreth cemeteries, and the Spanish War veterans will care for the Edison cemetery. The flags will be delivered Friday, Oct. 10, by Post 129.

BARRED AS OWN JUROR

VINEYARD MAN, WAITING TO SIT ON THE JURY, INDICTED—HE STRAYED FROM THEMIS HALL

EDGARTOWN, Oct. 3.—The paradoxical possibility of a juror being called to sit in judgment on himself was created in the superior court Tuesday by a turn of circumstances more curious and complicated than many situations in the "movies," of which he is a manager, wherein James A. Pratt of Oak Bluffs, summoned to serve on the traverse jury, was arraigned as a prisoner under the only indictments returned by the grand jury as the sole business for the consideration of the petit panel.

The embarrassing prospect was removed only by the postponement of the cases until the next term of the court in April. As added interest to the complexity, Pratt was presented in the dual role of theatrical man and a David Harum; for it was because he temporarily strayed from the hall of Themis to venture into the field of horse trading that he was precipitated into the judicial vortex.

One indictment charged Pratt with larceny of a sum less than $100 from Ernest A. Nickel, an Oak Bluffs laundryman, the other with the sale of a horse which, by reason of debility and disease was unfit for service under the laws of the commonwealth. An occasion arose when the laundryman felt the need of a new horse in connection with his business. Well knowing that Pratt was rated as a good judge of horseflesh—for the moving picture man has a hobby for horses although not at all interested in the subject of aiding him in getting a suitable animal.

It might be stated, parenthetically, that Pratt is a man of a very easy approach, inasmuch as being possessed of a character of marked mutability and multifarious duties he is to be found occasionally presiding at the bar of the island's single licensed spirituous drink dispensary. According to the claims made before the grand jury, Pratt agreed to act as Nickel's agent in the horse transaction, and was authorized to go as far as he liked—up to a limit of $15—in payment for a good, sound specimen of the equine species.

Pratt, it is alleged, betrayed his trust by buying, for the small sum of $35, a so-called horse for which he is alleged to have collected $15 from the laundryman. "Well I should worry!" exclaimed the new owner after an experience with the critter, or creature rather. It was as if he had been stung in a deal with the real David Harum; for, as he tells it, the horse had the heaves with a sound effect like the bursting bubbles of an effervescent beer vat and, in a word, was "all in."

Nickel, personally, charged Pratt with duplicity, deceit and other things with a big D in them, but Pratt disclaimed all dishonor with the assurance and grace of all good horse dealers. Nickel hated to be "plugged," as you might say, hence he carried his grievances before the grand jury. That solemn body, having the fair name of Marthas Vineyard and the honor of its people in its keeping, lent ear to the whisper of insular scandal and, determined to wipe out

Foreman Turning on Switch Was Hurlled Out of Window

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 3.—Alexander T. Stewart, an employee of the Gordon-Pew Fisheries company of this city, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon as he was turning on the powerful electric switch to run the escalator and hurled 10 feet through a window. His body was found a half hour later by fellow employees.

Physicians were called, but after working over him for an hour with a pulmotor he was pronounced dead. Stewart had been employed for several years as a foreman in the company. He leaves a wife and seven children.

Stewart, when he turned on the switch, was standing in his bare feet on a floor covered with water. His hand, it is believed, must have come in contact with the switch, and the current of electricity passed through his body into the water covered floor. The splash of the window through which the man was hurled was carried out into the yard by the force of the contact. It was found lying beside the body fully 10 feet away from the switchboard of the escalator.

OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

CHOSEN LAST NIGHT BY THE TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL AT REGULAR SESSION

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year at the meeting of the Trades and Labor council last evening: President, Timothy F. Bourke, Borden's union; vice president, John W. Downing, Stationary Firemen's union, local 14; secretary, Charles E. Anderson, International Moulders' union, local 55; assistant secretary, John J. Mahoney, Typographical union; financial secretary-treasurer, Annie Odel, Cotton Weavers' union; sergeant-at-arms, Edward Lemler, Teamsters' union, local 72; trustees, Edward Welch, Street Railway Men's union, No. 250; John H. Barry, Municipal Employees' union; Bernard Golden, Carpenters' union, local 42.

The standing committee of the organization will be chosen at the next session. President Bourke and Secretary Anderson, delegates to the recent convention of the state branch, gave an interesting report of the work of the state body. Other representatives of the unions submitted interesting reports. Several communications were read.

The New Haven Road Slows Down Many of Its Fast Trains

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—In order to promote a greater safety to the traveling public, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has made one of the most sweeping revisions of train schedules probably ever inaugurated by a railroad at one time. The revised schedule includes the lengthening of the running time of some of the trains, but the New Haven officials believe that this will meet the approval of the public. Approximately two-thirds of the 2000 trains, which the New Haven road operates each week day, will be affected by the change. The through trains and those covering long runs are chiefly affected. There are very few changes in suburban trains at New York and Boston. The time of the limited trains between New York and Boston has been increased 10 minutes and their new average for time will be 47.3 miles an hour. For the running time of other through trains from 5 to 23 minutes have been added.

T. & S. AGENT CONFIDENT

Mr. Rawlinson Says Mill is Booming — Back Dividends Will be Made up — New Minor Law

Agent Rawlinson of the Tremont & Suffolk mill reports extra good business at the mill, and as a matter of fact he says the weekly output is much larger at the present time than it was at this time last year.

All departments are running full time and the company has plenty of orders on hand, so much so that some of the departments are running overtime, but this does not strike the right chord with Agent Rawlinson, and he will tell the writer eventually he will put it to rest if possible to this overtime business. However, despite tariff talk, the mill is experiencing a streak of good business, much better than has been seen for years.

A short time ago the officials of the company declared a dividend of $150 a share, which makes the rate of $1.50 a share for this stock for 1913, and it will be surprising and disappointing if the stock does not go on a six per cent. basis for 1914. In August, 1913, the Tremont & Suffolk mills paid a dividend of $2 a share, and nothing further was paid until March, 1913, so that the corporation really owes its stockholders $7.50 a share on the four per cent. dividend basis that ruled in 1909 and 1910. This will be made up in all probability, in due time, as with its big surplus and clean slate, so far as debts are concerned, there is no good reason why dividends should not be paid equal to six per cent. as this dividend calls for only $120,000.

The Tremont & Suffolk mill has a varied product that can be turned out at a good profit if conditions are right. Of course the depression due to the tariff has had its effect, but the dividend announcement at this time seems to forecast a permanent disbursement of some amount and it is expected the passed dividends will be made up before any definite rate for the future has been settled upon.

The Tremont & Suffolk mill has a new trade mark which consists of a picture of an armor helmet, the word "Shenmut" and the letters "T. & S." as a trade mark for cotton piece goods. The trademark serial number is 69,516.

Eight-Hour Law
Fibre and Fabrics in its last issue has the following item relative to the eight-hour law which went into effect Sept. 1:

Mill agents, superintendents, treasurers and overseers knew that the enactment of the law would upset all concerned and a fair warning was given. No attention was paid to the warning, but now not a few of the so-called reformers have made fortunes from the labor of boys and girls, the officials disturbed and are active in the movement for the repeal of the law by the incoming legislature.

From reports of the meetings so far held by the state investigating committee the opinion is practically unanimous that the law is a fair sample. The only person favoring the law was a representative of the carmen's union. He knew all about it and considered it the best piece of legislation ever enacted in Massachusetts. We can guess that the chief reason this man favored the law was his entire lack of knowledge on the question, and it will be a mistake if the child labor reform league or some such association do not engage him for field work without delay. While the representative of the carmen's union favored the law it will be noticed that favored of organizations that really do know something of the child labor situation were either not present at the meeting or failed to respond when their names were called.

Mr. Thomas Cryer, formerly assistant superintendent of the American Printing Co. of Fall River, and at one time overseer of the finishing department of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co. of this city, has severed his connection with the Fall River concern, and resumed his former position in Lowell.

Fred Pacey of this city was granted a patent for shedding mechanism for looms, the number of which is 1,061,494.

Agent Connell
A Boston textile paper in its last issues has the following relative to Agent John J. Connell, formerly of this city and now of New Bedford:

"The Booth Manufacturing Co. of New Bedford is now under the management of John J. Connell, formerly agent at the Tremont & Suffolk mills, and Mr. Connell is doing things with his customary energy, and Booth mill shareholders can feel pretty certain that their property is in good hands. The Booth mill stock is closely held, and with the exception of one or two small blocks, will continue to be held, as present prices of 50 for the preferred and 35 for the common represent nothing of the value of the stock. The Booth mill is new, modern, and putting out a line of goods that are in better than ordinary demand, and the new management has hardly had time to turn around as yet. A year hence sellers of the stock at bid or asking prices will regret it."

OCTOGENARIANS TO CONVE
STROUDSBURG, Pa., Oct. 1.—Monroe county octogenarians will hold their convention on October 10 at the American House in this town. Only those who are 80 years of age and over will be eligible. A permanent organization will be formed and a banquet will follow.

A lively contest is promised for the presidency. Emanuel Peck, aged 95, of Stroudsburg, will be supported by the town people, while Herbert Pike of Red Bank will get the votes of those out of town. Andrew Wick, aged 96, of Tunkhannock township, may be the compromise candidate.

This week is "Quarter Week" at the Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

Sad Sequel to Wedding in Framingham—Guest Lost His Life

FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 3.—A sad sequel to the wedding in this town last night occurred today when the clergyman who had performed the marriage ceremony was summoned to administer the last rites of the church to one of the wedding guests who had been struck and fatally hurt by a trolley car. The victim was Michael W. Murphy, accompanied by his sister, Murphy had signalled the car to stop, then started across the track to reach the side on which the door was open. The car, on a limited schedule, calling for no local stops, was moving rapidly. Miss Murphy crossed safely, but the motorist could not stop in time to prevent the car from striking Murphy, who died a few minutes afterward.

SLAY LITTLE BOY

PEKIN, China, Oct. 3.—The American legation received a report yesterday from J. Paul Jameson, vice-consul general at Shanghai, that an American child had been killed and other foreigners were being maltreated by Chinese brigands at Tsaoyang.

The legation fears that the Chinese government troops are neither capable nor zealous enough to accomplish the release of the American and Western missionaries in the hands of the bandits of Tsaoyang, and that ransom alone can save the lives of the foreigners still in captivity.

By the efforts of the American legation and consulates the missionaries have been kept out of unsafe districts during the last two years, but the missionaries were not rescued from going to the northern part of the province of Hu-Pei, which hitherto had not been considered dangerous.

At Hankow, Gen. Li Yuan Heng, vice-president of the republic, states that everything possible is being done. Nearly 3000 Chinese troops are advancing on the town of Tsaoyang.

A former communication to the American consulate reported that the missionaries, the Rev. C. Stokstad and the Rev. Mr. Johnson, were proceeding to Tsaoyang from Sian Yang-Pu, but their expedition evidently failed, as Mr. Stokstad telegraphed yesterday as follows:

"The robbers still hold Tsaoyang, where they compel the Chinese citizens to guard the walls. It is feared that the surrounding force will be insufficient to prevent the bandits from escaping. The little son of Rev. Harman Fauske, attached to the mission of the Lutheran Brethren, has been killed. The Rev. George Holm was seen on Saturday bound. A foreign rescuing party is again proceeding to Tsaoyang."

PETITION FROM THAW

SOLICITOR FOLK OF THE STATE DEPT. POSTPONED ANNOUNCEMENT OF DECISION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Solicitor Folk of the state department today postponed the announcement of his decision with respect to the petition which Harry K. Thaw lodged with the state department asking that the British embassy be asked to explain the action of the Canadian authorities in forcing Thaw out of Canada.

While no comment was forthcoming from state department officials, it was recalled that Mr. Bryan upon request of the authorities at Albany, transmitted their request for Thaw's deportation to the British ambassador, with a view to such action as the Canadian authorities may find themselves justified in taking.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 3.—The San Antonio river, which overflowed its banks yesterday, flooding a portion of San Antonio and southwest Texas, is falling rapidly today. Train service still is crippled and wire communication interrupted to several towns.

In San Antonio it is estimated the damage to property, including merchandise stocks, will reach $200,000. Until communication is restored, an accurate estimate of the damage to smaller towns and plantations along the stream is not possible. It is believed, however, that the damage will reach $1,000,000.

Mrs. Amelia Villanueva, wife of a Mexican laborer, and her three children were drowned at Hot Wells, near here, while attempting to reach higher ground, according to reports received here.

REVENGE CAUSE OF SUIT

Scheme to Blacken Reputation of Man Who Testified in Lorimer Case Alleged in Confession

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Men higher up in the alleged conspiracy to defame Clarence S. Funk, former general manager of the International Harvester Co., were named in the confession last night of John C. Henning, who sued Mr. Funk for alienating Mrs. Henning's affections. The names of the two men who, Henning asserts, were behind the scheme to blacken Mr. Funk's reputation have been suppressed, according to State's Attorney Herne until their cases may be considered by a grand jury. Henning corroborated the confession of his wife, which was made several months ago and which resulted in the indictment of Daniel Donahue, a lawyer who is alleged to have furnished the money. Mrs. Allen Henning, a witness, and Isaac Stedfeld, a detective. Henning confessed, according to Mr. Herne, that Funk had been singled out in revenge for the testimony he gave in the Lorimer case. After the senate failed to convict Lorimer at the first hearing, Mr. Funk told of a conversation with Edward Hines in the Union League club a few days after Mr. Lorimer's decision in which Hines was alleged to have said:

"We put Lorimer over, but it cost him. This was followed, Mr. Funk said, by a request that the International Harvester Co. pay $10,000 of this amount.

Promised Money to File Suit
"I was promised a big sum of money if I would file suit against Funk, charging him with having alienated my wife's affections," said Henning. "I was out of work and they offered game. I could not get my wife to agree, but Donahue and Allen Henning worked on her and she gave in. After the suit was filed he went to Mobile, Ala., but reporters found us and we had to frame up some evidence and go to trial. That is where the detective came in who got the hush-baby to swear that my wife and Mr. Funk were served with drinks at the Grand Pacific hotel. I never saw Funk until the trial started. When we lost I got a tip there was a warrant out for me and I slipped out of the room. We were furnished money to leave town and I have been traveling on their money ever since."

State's Attorney Herne will hold a conference today with attorneys for Mr. Funk and intend that he would make a statement at its conclusion.

SENATOR LODGE IMPROVING
NAHANT, Oct. 3.—Only one physician made a morning visit today to Sir Henry Cabot Lodge, who submitted to a surgical operation for gastric ulcers a week ago. Up to today two physicians have called on the patient every morning since the beginning of his illness.

Dr. Frederick Winslow, who visited Mr. Lodge this morning, said that the senator had passed a restful night, was taking nourishment with considerable relish and was convalescing satisfactorily.

For the next few days Dr. Winslow will visit the senator in the morning and Dr. Francis B. Harrington will make the afternoon call.

FOR INDEPENDENT P. O.

WALTHAM WANTS ITS POSTOFFICE CUT OFF FROM HUB—SENDS PETITION TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Waltham wants its independence from the Boston postoffice. A strong petition was received yesterday by Congressman Mitchell, signed by Thomas Kerns and a number of other business men of Waltham, asking that the postoffice of that city be put back on an independent basis.

In February, Waltham was made a sub-station of Boston, but the citizens declare that the service is not as good as it was when Waltham was an independent office. Mr. Mitchell has laid the matter before the postoffice department.

The chances are that the federal appointments due to Massachusetts will go over until after the election. President Wilson has had the Billings nomination for the collectorship of the port in his hands for three weeks. He held it up to allow Congressman Murray to pass on it.

Mr. Murray came to Washington a week ago, called on Secretary Taft and told him that he was at the president's command. Mr. Murray remained in Washington until midnight last night without being called to the White House.

In the meantime Congressman Curley, just before leaving Washington, filed with the White House a bitter protest against Mr. Billings. So far nothing has been done and there is no indication that the White House is in a hurry.

Other jobs are waiting to be filled and the fact that they have not been taken to mean that the administration intends to hold off until after the election for fear of embarrassing David I. Walsh. As soon as the elections are over several appointments will be made.

It is reported here that Dist. Atty. French will be asked to resign before the expiration of his term. The reason for this is that Attorney General McReynolds wants his own men in office.

LOSES AN EYE

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 3.—Franklin J. Nelson, a clerk, aged 20, of 28 Greenway avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Nelson, lost the sight of his left eye and seriously endangered the sight of the other when 3000 small high-powered primers loaded with fulminate exploded yesterday in F. G. Belden's sporting goods store on North street. Franklin was stirring up the primers in a large pan half filled with water, where they had been soaking for several days to kill the power, as some of them had been damaged by water from a fire in Belden's store last winter.

Mr. Belden takes every precaution in his store, as he handles large numbers of high-power cartridges and explosives. He did not want the 3000 primers to do any damage if thrown in waste from the store, so he had them soaked in water. They could not be sold, as they could not be depended upon, being old stock.

Nelson, for some unknown reason, stirred up the primers with a metal screw driver and the mass exploded in his face. The noise of the explosion was terrific. The pan which contained the primers was blown to bits, as was the table upon which the pan rested. Primers were scattered all over the floor and there is a big black patch on the ceiling.

William — Deadlock Reached
in Negotiations

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—An utter deadlock has apparently been reached in the negotiations for the placing of Prince Ernest August of Cumberland and his bride, Princess Victoria Louise of Prussia, on the throne of Brunswick and Emperor William may be disappointed in his hope of seeing his only daughter the wife of a reigning sovereign. This has been brought about by the failure of the Prussian officials to realize clearly before the betrothal of the young prince and princess the determination of Prince Ernest August and his father, the Duke of Cumberland, to formally renounce their rights to the Hanoverian succession.

Prince Ernest August declared flatly to Prince August Wilhelm, Emperor

William's lawyer son, who was sent to confer with him at Karlsruhe before the betrothal in order to induce him to renounce his rights, "For me and my family, honor comes first; then love."

The publication of this statement today is taken as an indication that Prince Ernest still occupies the same standpoint.

The Duke of Cumberland, according to the same publication, declares that the throne of Brunswick is not essential to him nor to his son and that under no circumstances will either of them renounce Hanover.

HENRY SULLIVAN BACK

Henry F. Sullivan, the famous long distance swimmer of Lowell and known the world over for his attempted swim of the English Channel, arrived in this city last night on the 8 o'clock train from Boston and was met by a large delegation of friends and admirers who tendered him an enthusiastic reception. The swimmer's party consisted of his father and John J. Conlon, his trainer.

The members of the C. Y. M. L., under whose colors Sullivan has won his aquatic honors, took charge of the party upon their arrival and immediately adjourned to the rooms of the society on Suffolk street. Here a very pleasant evening was spent and the young swimmer told his clubmates the particulars of his attempt at the arduous swim. Before leaving Sullivan was presented a purse of gold by the society.

Sullivan still feels that he can make the swim, although he failed this year. All the conditions were against him on his first try, but he has absolute confidence that he can turn the trick in another season. He feels that the experience which he gained by his partial success will stand him in good stead in a second attempt. Sullivan covered over 35 miles and was in the water over ten hours, a remarkable performance which has never been duplicated by anyone in his first attempt.

With reference to the proposed race between himself and Jabez Wolfe, the most famous swimmer on the continent, Sullivan made his position very clear. "I offered to give Wolfe a mile handicap," said the stocky Centralville boy, "but even then he would not enter competition with me. Wolfe simply wanted to do some talking, not swimming." Sullivan's distance and time both beat those of Wolfe's in their try for the channel.

TRAINED NURSE
IS RIGHTLY NAMED

Emma V. Marquis, a trained nurse of Juncosville, Pa., says: "Comfort Powder is rightly named. I never felt more like praising anything for offensive perspiration, eczema, prickly heat and chafing." The scientific medication of Comfort Powder is what makes it so far superior to ordinary talcum powders and that's why physicians, trained nurses and mothers call it a "skin healing wonder." TO DISSOLVE NEW HAVEN

ATTORNEY-GENERAL McREYNOLDS EXPECTS TO FILE CIVIL ANTI-TRUST SUIT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Attorney-General McReynolds expects to file a civil anti-trust suit for the dissolution of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, as soon as the department of justice's investigation is completed and to defer the investigation of possible criminal prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law for future developments.

Mr. McReynolds believes that the question of dissolution for solution is the transportation problem in New England. A civil anti-trust suit would be aimed to correct alleged monopolistic conditions and suppression of competition. It is pointed out that the question of possible criminal prosecution for violation of the Sherman law will be determined by a study of the results of the department of justice's investigation and probably by the developments of the civil trial.

Officials of the New Haven road have not, so far, indicated any purpose to negotiate with the government for a settlement of the issues. While the attorney-general is proceeding with the prospect of a lawsuit, it is stated by those close to the situation that he would not refuse to negotiate for a settlement of the question of control of the road would be willing to grant the government's demands, his purpose being to reach as quickly as possible a solution of New England's transportation problem.

SEIZE LOAD
OF WHISKEY

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The East Boston motorboat Spartan carrying a cargo of nearly 1000 gallons of whiskey which was destined to run the blockade and enter Rockland and Bangor, Me., and was seized in the heavy sea which ran off the Maine coast early yesterday morning and was forced to put into Portland harbor, where Sheriff Scully seized the boat and cargo and arrested two of its crew.

In an effort to escape from the sheriff and deputies who were on the alert when it was discovered what the boat contained, three of the five men of the crew made their escape by plunging into the water and swimming ashore. The seizure was made in the early morning hours. In the darkness and confusion the fugitives broke through the line of police and deputies. The two men arrested gave the names of Michael O'Shea of Boston and Charles M. Capillo of Hyde Park.

The arrests and cargo form the biggest seizure in which the Maine officials have yet made in their effort to suppress the entry of liquor into the "dry state."

The boat, a 60 ft. craft and well known in local waters, with her name painted out, started from Boston Wednesday morning bound for the Maine coast. There was a bad sea running, and off Thatchers' Light she began shipping a little water.

The heavy cargo, consisting of 49 ten-gallon kegs and 65 cases of whiskey, brought her low in the water. The whiskey was shipped by a Boston wholesale house, and one of the men in the boat, the police believe, was a member of this firm.

When off Portland harbor the sea became so perilous that the man in charge gave orders to run her into the harbor. This order brought the boat sideways to the swell, and the anchor, slung out to keep her more stable, was washed away as was the tender. At this juncture help was signalled from Cape Elizabeth, while the life preserv-

BY A SPECIALIST

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many of the worst cases of catarrh and consumption, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found, after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any drug-gist will put it up for you: 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavender Compound, one-half ounce Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing half an hour is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. If you wish it perfumed, add half a teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. While this preparation is not a dye, it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

E. N. LAFRICAIN

Edouard N. Lafricain, one of the best known cornet players in New England, who for some time has been making his home in Boston, was here yesterday, the guest of Emile Lavig-

Mr. Lafricain, while in Lowell, renewed many old acquaintances, for he is widely known here as a talented musician, having on previous occasions been heard in concerts conducted by the members of Choeur Hoesini, a musical organization which went out of existence some ten years ago.

The famous cornetist has traveled all over the world and has played his instrument before many kings and emperors, and everywhere he went he always received a royal reception. A few years ago, however, he decided to settle down, and since he has been making his home in Boston.

Mr. Lafricain is a former conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra as well as the Boston Opera orchestra, and he has just completed an engagement as band master of the brass band at the Metropolitan Park Reservation grand stand at Revere beach. The noted musician has achieved great success as a cornetist. For 12 years he was first trumpeter for the Boston Symphony orchestra and for three years he was conductor of the Boston Opera orchestra.

Mr. Lafricain was pleased to meet his former friends in the Spindle City, for as he said, although living but 25 miles away, it was impossible for him to come to Lowell before this time, as every minute of his time was taken up. However, he is to visit for some time, and it is probable his visits to Lowell will be more frequent.

AT OPENING OF MARKET TODAY

—GOVERNMENT BONDS WEAK—
BONDS EASY—CLOSED STEADY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The stock market lost the firm tone of the last two days when aggressive selling was resumed at the opening today. Only feeble resistance was offered to the attack which was centered on Union Pacific and Steel, in which prices gave way. U. P. Lost 1-2 and Steel nearly a point. The coppers yielded part of their recent extended advance. Other active stocks receded, although losses in most cases were slight. U. P. pf. moved against the market, rising one-half. Government bonds developed renewed weakness, most issues showing fractional losses. The coupon fours made a new low record at 109 1/2. American stocks this morning were inclined to heaviness abroad and offerings for foreign account were in fairly large volume. Heaviness of Union Pacific was attributed to liquidation by holders who were disappointed at the failure of directors to make some announcement regarding the rumored cash distribution. Quotations were on a progressively lower level, with the volume of business decreasing on the decline. Stocks in which the bulk of the trading centered fell one to one and a half. Bonds were easy.

During the early afternoon trading Steel and St. Paul were offered more freely, but the latter stock dropped a half point when a decrease in its earning capacity for the last quarter was made known.

The market closed steady. Fractional recoveries in the final hour were due to the efforts of some traders to cover their shorts. Business was of nominal proportions and although more steadiness was exhibited the principal shares ended today with losses of a point or more.

CURRENCY BILL

Situation Confronting it
Deep Concern

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The situation confronting the administration currency bill in the senate has become a matter of deep concern to President Wilson and members of the senate who favor early action on the bill. Four members of the senate banking and currency committee have been in conference during the last week in an effort to devise a plan for hastening action on the bill, but they have not decided finally what course will be followed if the full committee should refuse to report the bill back to the senate.

Chairman Owen and Senators Pomeroy, Hollis and Shafroth have participated in the conferences which began soon after the visit of Senators Owen and Shafroth to the White House early in the week. It is understood that Senators Hatcher, O'Gorman and Reed, the three other democratic members of the senate, have thus far refused to agree to any plan of immediate action on the bill.

Several tentative plans for forcing the measure upon the attention of the full senate have been considered by administration leaders. These include a proposal to have the senate committee discharged from further consideration of the bill, thus bringing it before the full senate and the alternative possibility of having a democratic caucus take up the problem and determine what course shall be followed.

In both cases, however, the friends of the administration bill recognize that sentiment is divided on the democratic side over many provisions of the measure. It is believed that an exodus of senators from Washington will follow the signing of the tariff bill and that any contemplated action involving the full democratic strength of the senate will be withheld for several weeks. The senate committee met today to hear of delegations of small bankers of the south and of middle west.

Catarrh Sufferers

Get Immediate and Effective Relief
By Using Hyomei

Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh. There is no stomach dosing—you breathe it.

When using this treatment, you breathe healing balsams and effectively reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, the catarrhal germs are destroyed—quick and sure relief results.

Hyomei often restores health to chronic cases that had given up all hope of recovery. Its best action is at the start of the disease when the breath is becoming offensive, and constant sniffling, discharges from the nose, droppings in the throat and frequent sneezing, or that choked up feeling begin to make life a burden. At the first symptom of catarrhal trouble, such as crusts in the nose, watery eyes, hawking and morning choking, surely use Hyomei and see how quickly you get relief. All druggists sell it. The complete outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid, costs but $1.00; extra bottles of liquid, if later needed, 50 cents. Hyomei is sold by Carter & Sherman with guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

HEADACHY, COSTIVE, BILIOUS,—"CASCARETS"

Liver and Bowels Are Clogged—Clean Them Tonight! Feel Better!

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, decayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

JUVENILE AUTO RACES

BOYS TO TEST THEIR SELF-MADE VEHICLES IN TRIAL OF SPEED TOMORROW AFTERNOON

The younger element of upper Broadway is looking forward with great interest to the amateur automobile races that are to be held in that vicinity tomorrow afternoon. Several of the boys who reside near the corner of School Street and Broadway have manufactured automobiles and the business men of that district have donated baseball gloves, roller skates, a football and many other prizes to be awarded to the winners.

The starting point will be at the corner of School Street and Broadway and will run up School, down Cross, down Mt. Vernon and up Broadway to the starting place. In the big race the boys will go over this course about 12 times and as the automobiles are operated by hand power it will be necessary to have a relief man at every corner. The owners of the "speedsters" will sit at the wheel and blow the horn when a pedestrian endangers his life by stepping in front of the machines.

During the past week or more the youngsters have spent much time getting everything into shape for the big contest and several minor wagers have been made as to who will be the first to cross the line.

It is no easy task to build any of the machines and nothing has been left undone to make them complete.

In many cases a registration number has been painted on the front and rear of the vehicle and mud-guards, hood and all parts are in evidence. A large number of spectators will be on hand tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to witness the young auto racers as they go over the course.

Damaged By Water

We got our share of it yesterday when a careless person left a faucet turned on in a room on the second floor right over our store. Our ceiling was so damaged that it must be removed. That was not the only damage, for the water soaked in on a large portion of our pictures, frames and art material which were displayed about the store. Now this calls for an immediate removal of these goods at any old price in order that we may have our store repaired and a new ceiling. There need be no long story told as to what this means to the public. It simply means that we are in for a big loss, and that our loss is your gain. There is nothing but what will go if great bargain prices can do it. There is no attempt to prepare anything at this sale. It will start at once.

WARNED NOT TO STRIKE

Gov. Foss Tells Engineers That He Will Call Special Session to Pass Law Forbidding Walkouts

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Governor Foss sent a letter last night to the officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in which he stated that if this organization declared a strike on the New Haven road that he would call for a special session of the legislature and ask for the passage of a law prohibiting strikes of railroad employees in Massachusetts.

The governor's statement of his attitude on the question of railroad strikes is most drastic.

In his letter he plainly sets himself up in opposition to the contention of the big railroad organization that its men should be promoted in the order of their seniority, the governor holds that "that seniority without regard to fitness lowers the efficiency of the labor force." He says that the real question at issue is the safety of the traveling public.

Mr. Foss takes a bold stand against one of the most powerful labor organizations in the country.

Government Control

The letter is of great interest at this time because of the governor's announcement, made some time ago that he would make as one of the principal issues of his independent campaign, a fight for government control of organized labor.

The governor said at the time that he considered the leadership of organized labor to be as great a menace to this country as is organized capital.

The governor's letter was addressed to the officers of the union and was in part:

"Gentlemen: I am informed that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, are now voting upon the proposal to inaugurate a strike upon the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, and that this strike, if authorized, will occur at such time as may be determined by a committee of which you are members.

Important to People

"This is of grave concern to the people of Massachusetts. A strike upon the New Haven system means the stopping of the wheels of industry, loss of employment to hundreds of thousands of laborers. Interference with the regular supply of food and fuel, and a consequent high death rate among invalids and infants. As governor of the commonwealth, I am bound to take such action as I can to prevent such a public calamity.

"The real issue is not between the railroad and its employees, but between the employees and the people of this commonwealth; and the question is whether the lives of the people shall be placed in jeopardy by the maintenance of the seniority rule, and whether, in order to enforce this rule, our people must submit to the evils incident to a railroad strike.

Safety Endangered

"Under these circumstances it is my duty to say to you that if you inaugurate a strike upon this issue you will place your organizations in an indefensible position and will array against you the people of Massachusetts and the other New England states. Your controversy, which really is with the people of New England, whose safety is endangered by the rule of seniority and whose business will be injured by the proposed strike.

"If this strike is declared it will become my duty to take such measures as are within my power to protect the people of this commonwealth.

Will Call Special Session

"To that end, if the strike is called I shall ask the council to join me in summoning a special session of the legislature for the purpose of enacting laws which, after providing effective remedies for all grievances of employees, shall absolutely prohibit strikes of railroad operatives employed within the commonwealth. For such action, the laws of other countries supply useful precedents, and public sentiment in this commonwealth will surely demand the enactment of similar legislation.

Commonwealth's Power

"This commonwealth, of course, has no control over companies or their operatives engaged in business of a purely interstate character; but over intrastate business it has full control, which necessarily extends, if need be, to the employees as well as to the companies. In regard to interstate business, the legislature can appropriately memorialize congress, and urge upon that body, which fortunately is now in session, the enactment of such legislation as may be needed for the prevention of strikes affecting interstate commerce.

In conclusion, I wish to express the hope that you will weigh carefully the fact that the members of your organizations are engaged in a public calling, and that they, no less than the railroads, owe a duty to the public.

Cannot Justify Claim

"In urging the seniority rule, your organizations are acting without regard to the safety of the traveling public; and you cannot justify your claim that the employee's fitness shall not be given due consideration. When employees appear to have a just grievance, the public is sometimes willing to submit to the inconvenience of a strike; but if you precipitate a strike upon the seniority issue, you will invite the condemnation of every fair minded man in New England and the nation. Yours very truly, (Signed) "Eugene N. Foss," Governor."

How This Wonderful Treatment Ends Itching and Heals Skin Eruption

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"At first little red spots were seen on my arms and body, which I noticed were getting larger every day. They itched me so much that I scratched myself until I bled. There were times when I stood up all night and scratched. I was troubled about three weeks, during which time I used —, which seemed to do me no good whatever. Then, finally, I thought of trying Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. As soon as I applied Resinol Ointment, I felt much relief. After using it a few times, I noticed the sore spots slowly fading away, and in about a month I was cured completely." (Signed) Adolph Schoen, 724 Shepherd Ave., Nov. 1, 1912.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which was so unusually successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other physicians all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. KILLED BY GAS

Veteran Accidentally Asphyxiated at Home in No. Chelmsford

Wallace A. Josselyn, aged 74 years, and a lifelong resident of No. Chelmsford, was asphyxiated by illuminating gas at his home in the village, and it is presumed death was accidental.

Mr. Josselyn, who was a veteran of the Civil war had lived alone at his home since the death of his wife, 11 years ago. Wednesday evening after eating his supper, it is presumed, the aged gentleman sat in his favorite chair near the window, and it was there he breathed his last.

Yesterday he was found sitting in his chair and life was extinct. While the evidence of gas was not very strong, a small leak would have been sufficient to stop the feeble heartbeats of the old gentleman. The body was viewed by Dr. F. E. Varney, who was called in haste, who believes death was due to accidental gas poisoning.

HOW THEY DID IT

England Demands an Explanation of Thaw's Deportation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The British government has taken a hand in the Thaw case and has made a demand upon the Canadian authorities for a full explanation of the fugitive's deportation.

This became public last night, when it was announced that Attorney T. R. E. McInnes, K. C., of Ottawa, the man who drafted the Canadian immigration law, has succeeded in getting the matter of Thaw's deportation by the Canadian government brought before the state department here as an international incident.

Attorney McInnes, who is chief of Canadian counsel for Harry K. Thaw, told yesterday of the nature of the "fifth chance" for his client's freedom, should he lose his fight through the federal courts. This is his return to Canada by the federal authorities, upon request of the British government.

For more than two weeks Attorney McInnes, who is closely associated with governmental work in Ottawa, has been in Washington, quietly working on the case. Yesterday he was ready to announce his results—the bringing of Thaw's deportation before the state department.

The question involved is the violation of the rights guaranteed to American citizens under the Ashburton treaty with England. Already the British government has asked for explanation from Canada on the ground that the deportation was carried out in defiance of the order of the court of King's Bench at Montreal, and also the denial of the right of appeal to Thaw.

The latter, according to the contention of the British government, is beyond the power of the Canadian government, and unconstitutional.

It was believed here last night that a formal protest will be made by the United States government and that this protest will be favorably entertained by the British government, as the rights of British subjects, not domiciled in Canada, it is declared, are continually being denied to them, as well as to Americans by the Canadian immigration officers.

As long as Thaw remains in the custody of the United States marshal instead of the state authorities, he cannot be returned to Canada by the federal authorities demanding that he be given his treaty rights to appear and prosecute such claims as he may have before the Canadian courts.

Money deposited on or before next Saturday, October 4th, in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank will draw the interest from that date.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

REACHING OVER SEA

About one million dollars of the new income tax will be levied on American expatriates, and American women who have married foreigners and are now living abroad. In individual cases such as those of Mrs. William Waldorf Astor and the Duchess of Roxburghe, who was May Gaskell, the annual tax will be as high as $294,000 and $77,510 respectively. Over twenty others will pay amounts from $5,000 to $20,000. Thus it will be seen that though the recurring proposal to tax all who marry foreigners merely because they so choose has been discarded up to the present, American expatriates and those husbands who have chosen foreign husbands will be strongly reminded in future that they owe a duty to a country in which they still hold investments. Incidentally we may expect a stronger condemnation of our institutions than ever from those who will have to foot the bills.

Supposing, however, those foreign living Americans should refuse to pay legal tribute to the American government, how can they be compelled to do so? Many ask that question about the working of the income tax among our resident citizens and though experts of the new tax have declared the efficiency of the future government method of collection, they have not been very free with the details of the policy to be employed. If, then, there is some doubt as to the equitable working out of the plan among our residents, it is reasonable to expect anything but a rosy future in collecting from those who have shaken the dust of our shores from their feet—many of whom, however, retain a strong and abiding interest in our gold dust.

CITY MORQUE NEEDED

The whole country was shocked a few weeks ago when it was learned that the body of "Big Tim" Sullivan, who had formerly been powerful and popular in political New York, had lain for 13 days unidentified in a public morgue there after having been found mangled beside the railroad tracks. Thousands of others had so lain and been buried as "unknown" before that time, but the prominence of the former statesman and the wide publicity given the case resulted in an investigation and a new set of regulations regarding those found dead that will make it practically impossible in future for people to be buried in the potter's field in New York if their relatives institute any search for them. A police bureau of unidentified dead has been formed and photographs and other means of identification will be used in future before any dead unknown is given a pauper's grave.

The Boston Post commenting on the innovation and its cause, says: "If the body of a man so well known as Sullivan could stay a week in the morgue unrecognized, how certain it is that many a poor man or woman has gone to a pauper's burial, when a little research might have discovered relatives or friends. In the Sullivan case several plain clues were unheeded. It is to be hoped that under the new system such negligence can never be heard of again."

It is very true that "many a poor man or woman has gone to a pauper's burial" and in this city of Lowell too. Some months ago we spoke editorially of such a case when a man dead beside the railroad tracks was taken to an outlying undertaker's establishment and after being kept a day or two was buried in the potter's field, unidentified then and unidentified forever. The case was not unique or in any way exceptional. We have had many such and in this civilized age and country it is a shame for which there is no excuse. The remedy is as simple as the offence is flagrant.

There should be some central officially designated city morgue to which all people found dead should be taken pending identification and burial. At present there are many instances in which friction, jealousy and ill feeling have cropped out between local undertakers owing to the disposition of bodies found dead, and this is as out of keeping with the character of the profession as it is wholly unnecessary. If there were some official city morgue with a paid attendant, all cases could be handled with dignity and consistency, and the main end, that of identification of the dead, could be served. Such would be fair to all undertakers equally and would be in keeping with the regulations of all progressive cities.

If we had a city morgue, a body brought in would first be held for examination by the city examiner. It would then be embalmed or otherwise prepared for a possibly long period of awaiting identification. The papers would be in the natural order of things, the facts of the finding of the body with its descriptive features. People who missed a relative or friend would take in the morgue in their search. If, within a stipulated time, no one appeared to identify or claim the body it would be buried, first having been measured and photographed and any possible means of identification, such as clothing, distinguishing marks, etc., noted. When buried, the number of the grave would be entered in a record of identification and the body could be recovered years afterwards from an "unknown" grave, if relatives or friends turned up. By all means let us have a city morgue. The burial of unfortunate "unknown" people in pauper's graves is unchristian and without justification.

WALSH ON PERSONALITIES

All people whether they favor the policies of Lieut.-Governor David I. Walsh or not will commend him for his declaration to avoid all personalities in his campaign. In an interview to the press of Boston he stated his firm intention of refraining from "mentioning Mr. Gardner or Mr. Bird by name." He furthermore explained his attitude by stating that the issues were important enough to give him ample campaign material while maintaining a "judicial and dignified" attitude. He said he will address himself to the people as to a court which would have the right to call him in contempt did he descend to personalities.

This declaration of Mr. Walsh is in keeping with his sincere and dignified character and does credit to his good sense. The age of bitter political personalities is gone by and no one expects it. Usually in these times a vicious personal attack by one candidate on his opponent draws sympathy to the hated one. A campaign should be conducted on its merits and the platform of each candidate. If it is worth anything will give its chief exponent ample material for speeches and interviews without obliging him to make cheap or sarcastic remarks at the expense of his opponents.

It looks, too, as though the dignity of the campaign thus far is all with Mr. Walsh as his determination to avoid personalities has not penetrated either the progressive or republican ranks. Whether his expressed views have gained for him the respect of the candidates of the other two parties, however, or whether by accident, his name has not been mentioned in a light or abusive character by them, but quite an exchange of compliments has passed between Messrs. Bird and Gardner. Next to the column that tells of Mr. Walsh's determination to avoid personalities is a burning wish of Mr. Gardner for a "wallop" at Mr. Bird because of what he calls "misrepresentations." Mr. Walsh will be a calm and disinterested spectator of the "wallop" and its effects.

YELLOW JOURNALISM

Mr. George P. Bent of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Illinois Manufacturers' association recently issued a timely warning at a business meeting as to the danger that lurks in sensational journalism of the "yellow" variety. The direct occasion for his remarks was the purchase and publication of the revelations of the notorious Col. Mulhall of the National Association of Manufacturers and the evident desire back of that publication to assail big business, not from motives of sincerity but in order to satisfy a public craving for purely sensational news. There is much of truth in his stand. So called yellow journalism tends to make the popular mind suspicious of all constituted authority and arouses what a distinguished churchman has called "the tumult of the envious." Of all the contributing sources of socialism in its least defensible phases it is the most direct.

A form of vandalism that is very prevalent of late in the cities, towns and even villages of the state is the defacement of property, especially public property. In this city we have seen many recent instances of such destructive activity such as the dismantling of bubble fountains and the breaking of street lamps. In New Bedford, a beautiful and artistic statue was defaced a few days ago by a harpoon carried by "The Whaleman" was bent out of shape. In Brockton the papers are regretting the breaking of plate glass windows and injury to the parks. In almost every part of the commonwealth there are like indications of a most destructive lawlessness.

We read of these instances and regret them but we cannot well complain for they are the result of our lawless sentimentality in dealing with the hoodlum. In all our cities and towns there are groups of grown boys and some to whom age has brought neither wisdom nor discretion, who delight in devilry in every form from the sheer delight of doing something contrary to law. When there are no fruit trees to be robbed they must work off surplus energy in some way and the sight of anything attractive or decorative gives them the opportunity they seek. When we teach youth respect for law by the stern and unyielding application of least punishment we will not have so many defaced statues, ruined parks or broken bubble fountains.

Seen and Heard

"So that dance lasted till 2 o'clock, did it?" grumbled the old man, as the sweet young thing came down to breakfast a little late, but looking as fresh as a daisy. "And I suppose you danced every dance?" "Yes, and you are one of these delicate girls. If I'd ask you to walk downtown some day you'd faint, and yet they say that one evening's dancing is equivalent to walking 10 miles."

"Not nowadays, papa," answered the sweet young thing. "That's the old style dancing you're thinking of. The new style is equivalent to climbing about a hundred telegraph poles."

The woman was the author of a cook-book that had been published at her request with fifty margins and additional recipes. Often she had expressed a wish to see an old copy of the book and find out to what use the blank spaces had been put. One day in a second-hand book store her husband unearthed an old volume. Noticing that it had been annotated freely, he brought it home and read it. "How about the notes in the cook-book?" "Were they interesting?" "No," she said curtly; "they didn't amount to anything."

Howard Sutherland, the new member from West Virginia, is an old Washingtonian. Just 35 years ago he was appointed to an every-day, common garden variety of clerkship in the custom bureau. But in six months he was promoted so often that from the beginning of a "hundred per" he had risen in that time to a salary of $2500 a year.

Then he went out to West Virginia in charge of the Bilkins interests there, but when these investments were sold out to the Bilkins Sutherland felt a hankering for the comforts of the capital and decided the best way to return would be as an M. C. and thus save car fare.—Washington Post.

THE DISAPPOINTED

There are songs enough for the hero, who dwells on the heights of fame, I sing for the disappointed—For those who have missed their aim.

I sing with a tearful cadence, For one who stands in the dark, And knows that his last best arrow, Has bounded back from the mark.

For the hearts that break in silence, With a sorrow all unknown; For those who need companions, Yet walk their way alone.

There are songs enough for the lovers, Who share love's tender pain; I sing for the one whose passion, Is given all in vain.

For those whose spirit comrades Have missed their aim today, I sing with a heart aching, This minor strain today.

And I know the Solar System, Must somewhere keep in space, A prize for that spent runner, Who barely lost the race.

For the plan would be imperfect, Unless it held some sphere, That paid for the roll and talent, And love that are wasted here.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

FOR WOMEN WORKERS

One of the familiar arguments for woman suffrage is that in conditions and hours of workingwomen would be greatly improved, because women have so much more sympathy for their own sex than have men. But have they?

Some time ago in a letter in the Springfield Republican, Miss Katharine H. Leonard, of Springfield, directed attention to the fact that, out of 380,675 women industrially employed in Massachusetts, according to the last census, 67,870, or about one sixth of the entire number, were engaged in domestic service of one kind or another. Of this form of labor Miss Leonard said:

"It is in the way of manual labor probably the best paid, the best housed, and the best fed of all the unprofessional occupations. Almost without exception it is led and has been from time immemorial in the hands of women. Women have regulated the wages, hours of labor and general policy of its work. It is the most natural of occupations to the ordinary woman. Nevertheless, it is the most unpopular. Domestic service is almost wholly recruited from the newly-arrived foreigners, or the woman who is unable to make a living in any other way. A social stigma is attached to it, and fewer enter its ranks with each succeeding year. If as women we have had wholly in our control in the past many years, one-sixth of the laboring women of the community, and have failed to make good in our management of our task, shall we so better the conditions of the other five-sixths whom we have as yet little directed? Let us first cast out the beam from our own eyes before we lay claim to be able to remove the mote from our brother's eye."

MARATHON AT BROCKTON

BROCKTON, Oct. 3.—The sixth renewal of the Marathon run from Boston to this city held in connection with the Brockton fair, started at noon today from the clubhouse of the Boston A. C. with 41 long distance men in the running. The distance was about 25 miles.

The weather was perfect and the roads were fairly well dried out after yesterday's rain except through the Blue Hills wood where the footing was somewhat uncertain.

DARING ROBBER

Man Copped 57 Pairs of Shoes at Essex-Town Cop Says He'll 'Git 'im'

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The police force of Essex is searching vigilantly for the daring robber who sometime during the past two weeks has departed from the town of Essex richer by 53 pairs of shoes. The police force says it will get that robber, too.

When a young lady entered the emporium owned by Clarence B. Burnham to buy a pair of shoes yesterday afternoon, the enterprising merchant felt sure that he could get her. He did not remember selling a pair of shoes of that size that he knew he once had in stock.

Burnham went to his rack and picked out the box which he was so certain contained the shoes that matched his customer's feet. But, and here is the tragedy—the box was empty. So was the next, and the next.

By this time Clarence was sure that something was wrong. He distinctly remembered that when he had last dusted that shelf the boxes were full of shoes. After a careful examination he found that there were 53 brand-new pairs taken, 19 pairs of children's, 17 of ladies', and 17 of men's.

The storekeeper called in the police force, and the two agreed that some thief must have done the dastardly deed.

Now every self-respecting citizen of Essex, possessing new shoes, is careful of wearing them, lest he be suspected of the felony. The storekeeper has offered $5 reward for the apprehension of the criminal.

DR. STOWELL HONORED

PRESENTED BEAUTIFUL BOUQUET BY EMPLOYEES OF THE J. C. AYER COMPANY

As a token of the esteem in which he is held by his employees, Dr. Chas. H. Stowell of the J. C. Ayer company was today presented a beautiful bouquet by the members of the Quarter-of-a-Century club, which is connected with the above company. On Oct. 3, 1900, Dr. Stowell took up the duties of general manager and treasurer of the J. C. Ayer company and the present day was his 13th anniversary of his appointment.

Shortly before 10 o'clock this morning the members of the Quarter-of-a-Century club, assembled in the treasurer's office and presented him the bouquet containing a card inscribed as follows: "Quarter-of-a-Century club of the J. C. Ayer company—1900-Oct. 3, 1913." Dr. Stowell was very much pleased with the gift and thanked the members of the club for it. The other employees of the company then gathered in the office to express their best wishes for his future happiness.

NATURALIZATION COURT

Another Session Held This Morning—Twenty-five Applicants for Second Papers

The naturalization session for those who are qualified to receive second papers in the process was held today at the court house. This was a special session called for the benefit of those who were unable to receive the second steps toward citizenship on Wednesday when a second paper session was held, and on which day a very large number assembled. There were about 25 applicants at the court house, lined up outside the office of the clerk of court on the second floor of the building early this morning, and they were accompanied by their witnesses. It was expected that the session would occupy the greater part of the day.

PAINTED PORTRAIT OF LINCOLN

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—Charles A. Nickum, 69, who painted a portrait of Abraham Lincoln without knowing who was posing for him, died at his home here late last night. At the time Mr. Nickum painted the picture his studio was in Cincinnati. A lawyer accompanied the war president when he sat for the portrait and after President Lincoln was shot he told the painter who it was who posed for him and sought to purchase the painting. Mr. Nickum refused and always kept the picture.

Ten Cent Beef
Lowell Courier-Citizen: Peru expects to shift beef to the United States by way of the Panama canal and sell it at 10 cents a pound, and at that figure we will waver. That the beef trust will take all that is offered, and put it into cold storage until the price becomes right for the retail trader. Yet the new administration has an unusual opportunity to serve the people by putting this whole meat question into such competent hands that the products that come into the country on the free list shall find their way to the consumer, and not to be held up by the middleman.

Cost of Living
Boston Post: An interesting contribution to statistics of the cost of living is made in the annual report of a nursery and orphan asylum in Chicago. This institution has been taking care of children since 1874, during which period it has had some 4500 inmates. When it started, and for 10 years, the annual cost of maintaining one child was within a few cents of $50. Today the average is over $140.

Effect of Foss
Boston Traveler: Foss, as a candidate, would still further divide the opposition to Walsh. He would obtain some genuine democratic votes, especially from those whom he has appointed to office, but Walsh's foe in the democratic party care little or nothing for Foss. Foss would help Walsh, although at the present time Walsh does not require such help.

Currency
Newport News: President Wilson, now that his favor is practically a law, is especially anxious that congress shall settle its differences on the currency measure and will use all his efforts to secure its early passage. Will he succeed as well in this case?

New York Laws
Brooklyn Enterprise: New York papers announce that a new law is coming that is drastic in protecting the factory girls. Sure. Perhaps the first man who violates it will be fined the enormous sum of $20, the same as Blank was when he locked in his workshop the other day after another lock-in had cost within the week nearly 1000 the lives of 147 other girls he employed.

Senator Lodge
Portland Express: It is sincerely to be hoped that Senator Lodge will soon recover from his illness. No man in Washington is better informed as to our foreign relations, or for that matter upon all subjects of national legislation. Such an able and experienced politician can hardly be spared from the senate.

Dress and Suffrage
Burlington Free Press: Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice-president of the United States, calls the new feminine fashions "hideous." She delivers a "body blow" in her remark that the women appear to have lost their sense of propriety, and that "until women can correct their present form of dressing, they cannot sensibly ask for the ballot." How many women would be contrary to fashion in order to win even the ballot?

DEPORTATION OF MISS LLOYD
LONDON, Oct. 3.—The deportation of Marie Lloyd, the music hall singer, is commented on today by the Pall Mall Gazette, which writes somewhat sarcastically about what it describes as the sensitiveness of public opinion. It says: "One can only hope that the excessive propriety which governs the regulations for the admission of aliens to America corresponds with the daily life of the citizens within its discreet borders."

TO BAR MRS. PANKHURST

PENNSYLVANIA SUFFRAGISTS TO IGNORE THE PRESENCE OF BRITISH MILITANT

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—No recognition of any sort, cordial or otherwise, awaits Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst from Pennsylvania suffragists upon her visit to this country, according to the dictum voiced at the headquarters of the Equal Franchise Federation here yesterday.

Mrs. F. M. Reussing, president of the Pennsylvania branch of the association, said that Mrs. Pankhurst had not been invited to the United States by the suffragists, neither would the militant's presence be acceptable. Mrs. J. C. Miller, local president, said Mrs. Pankhurst "will find only slight opportunity in this city of discussing on the agenda of forcible feeding, since members of the Woman's Suffrage party intend to ignore the presence of the English woman and do all in their power to prevent her speaking here."

This public statement was put out from suffrage headquarters here yesterday. Pittsburgh suffragists have pledged themselves to join with the Equal Franchise Federation of Pennsylvania in fighting against the influence of the militants, and Mrs. Pankhurst will find the doors of the local suffrage enthusiasts closed to her, no matter how loudly she may shout "Votes for women."

In connection with the Pennsylvania suffragists' convention, set for Oct. 23 to 30 in this city, Mrs. Miller said yesterday that Mrs. Pankhurst's name had not been considered as a speaker, and that "positively no invitation would be extended to the leader of London women."

Pinklets, the New Laxative, Gently Assist Nature

ELLIOTT WILL AID

New Haven President
Tells Foss That Road
Wants Investigation

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—President Howard Elliott of the New Haven railroad yesterday wrote a letter to Governor Foss in which he agrees to a thorough investigation of the circumstances surrounding the payment of large sums of money to various representatives of the road connected with the state house and offers his co-operation to the public service commission in conducting the inquiry.

The New Haven head offers to submit whatever data, original vouchers, pay rolls and books on file in the company's office that may be needed by the commission in making the investigation.

The letter is as follows:

My dear Gov. Foss:
Your letter of Sept. 23, in reply to mine of the same date, is here. Just as soon as you, or the commission, if you put the matter in their hands, are ready I shall be glad to give the matter my best attention.

We will be glad to submit any original vouchers or to furnish certified copies, or we will be glad to have the properly accredited representatives of the state of Massachusetts examine the books, pay-rolls and vouchers on file in our offices.

The question raised by you is very important, and this company would like to have the very fullest investigation of the whole matter and have it done at once.

In your letter of Sept. 25 to Mr. Macleod you say:
"It is my understanding that the power conferred upon you by the legislature of 1913 in creating your commission suffices for your purpose in conducting the inquiry which I now call for."

This company will be pleased to have the commission feel that in this case it has the power suggested and proceed on that theory.

Yours very sincerely,
Howard Elliott,
President.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—A warrant for the arrest of Caleb Howard, secretary of the I. W. W., was received by Chief of Police Burrell of Quincy from Chief of Police O'Neil of Milford yesterday. The warrant is in connection with the methods of Howard during the Hopkinton strike. It is declared he violated the bylaws of the town.

When Chief Burrell went to serve the warrant yesterday, he found sickness in the Howard family, and after communication with the police of Milford, decided to take no action towards the arrest until today.

DIDN'T SHOW UP

Hub Councilman Failed to Press Charges at Hearing Yesterday

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The three members of the city council appointed to investigate Councilman Earnest E. Smith's charges that Good Government association officials lobbied against the extension of the city's building limits, a stenographer and city hall reporters were all who appeared at city hall yesterday afternoon when the time arrived for the public hearing on Smith's charges. As a result, the hearing was deferred until the committee is able to arrange for another session.

Councilman Smith, who made the charges at the last session of the city council, did not appear, and did not notify the committee that he did not intend to appear. Neither were there any Good Government association officials present.

After calling the meeting to order, Chairman Ba'tantyne announced that he had talked with Smith on the telephone the day before and learned that Smith did not intend to be present unless a stenographer was present and witnesses were sworn. When informed that a stenographer would attend, Smith said that he might be out of the city working in the interest of the progressives' ticket.

The committee, which consists of Councilmen Ba'tantyne, Attridge and McDonald, finally decided to adjourn subject to the call of the chairman, and meet Smith for the purpose of deciding what course to pursue.

Councilman Smith's outbursts against the Good Government association will cost him the Good Government league nomination for re-election to the city council, and Henry E. Hagan of ward 20, a prominent member of the league and a leader in the chamber of commerce, will be nominated in Smith's place, according to authentic information given out yesterday by members of the league.

The other two places on the league's slate will go to Councilman Daniel J. McDonald, candidate for re-election, and Lewis J. Hewitt of ward 26, whom Councilman James A. Watson defeated a year ago, or Logan McLean of East Boston.

As a result of the league's determination to turn down Smith, the councilman proposes to either go before the people as an independent candidate or run as a progressive candidate for the council.

GOOD RESULTS

In Raising of Egyptian
Cotton in Irrigated Sections

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3.—The government's experiment in growing Egyptian cotton in the irrigated sections of the southwest has shown that such cotton may be raised successfully there and at fair profit, according to Carl S. Schofield, agriculturist, in charge of western irrigation farming, of the United States department of agriculture. In an address delivered before the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers Mr. Schofield announced the results of the experiment.

A supply of seed obtained by the government and distributed among seventy-five farmers in Arizona and California sufficed to plant 530 acres. In the Salt River Valley, Arizona, where the best results were obtained, Mr. Schofield said thirty-two farmers planted 303 acres. There several fields were measured and a record kept of the harvest. This record Mr. Schofield read as follows:

3.55	2,527	717
5.22	3,572	723
5.35	3,518	714
1.42	1,024	723
1.42	2,745	653
15.25	10,150	667
10.35	5,397	573
2.39	1,461	506
12.15	6,553	488

Alfalfa has proved to be the best alternating crop to be used with this cotton, Mr. Schofield said. The quality of the cotton was excellent some of the lint stapling slightly more than 1 1/2 inches and the bulk 1 7/16 inches. The price obtained for the cotton, he said, varied between 21 and 23 cents a pound. About 1,500 pounds of seed cotton of the Yuma variety, the kind used, yielded a 500-pound bale, and the cotton seed obtained therefrom was more than sufficient to pay for the ginning and baling, even when sold to an oil mill at the low figure of $15 a ton.

Mr. Schofield estimated the cost of producing an acre of Egyptian cotton—based on his estimate on averages—at approximately $61, exclusive of interest on land investments. This he divided as follows: Seed, tillage and irrigation, $15; picking (1,500 pounds seed cotton), $36; ginning and baling, $10. As the average yield in the Salt River Valley experiment was in excess of 500 pounds an acre, the profit was consequently a good one, approximating $59 an acre.

Must Replace Value of Securities

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—F. Augustus Heinze of New York and Butte, Mont., has won his suit to recover the value of $500,000 in bonds and stocks from about 40 well known Boston brokers and money lenders. The supreme judicial court has recalled its decision in the case and so amended it that virtually all the defendants may be held liable to Heinze. Liability rests not only for any bonds or stock which he originally delivered to A. D. F. Adams, now serving a term in state prison, and which they may have retaining in their possession, but for the value of those securities which the note brokers and money lenders have disposed of.

This decision practically overrules in every particular the conclusions reached by F. L. Rockwood Hall, who for more than 220 days heard the evidence of Heinze and the defendants in the suit. He sat as special master, appointed by the supreme judicial court.

The only necessary step for Heinze to take, according to the decision, is to amend his bill.

The decision turns on the fact that a majority of the defendants knew when they took the securities, valued at more than $500,000, from Adams, that he had received them from Heinze or the latter's agent, Warfield, under certain conditions in regard to their transfer.

At times Heinze, with his vast interests extending from British Columbia to New York city, has been in financial straits. It was during one of these periods that he sent his agent, Carlos Warfield, to Boston, loaded down with securities of the Ohio Copper company and other mining ventures of proved worth, and which he had developed.

Warfield soon came into the hands of A. D. F. Adams, who was loaning money at fairly low rates of interest on marketable collateral. He offered Warfield or Heinze $300,000 with the securities as collateral. His offer was accepted and a note signed by Heinze was given with the securities as collateral.

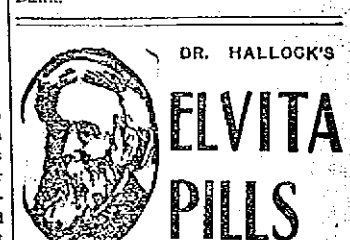

IDENTIFY BODY

Young English Baronet
Died From an Overdose of Ether

PARIS, Oct. 3.—The body of an Englishman which had been removed from the morgue after his death from an overdose of ether has been identified as that of a young English baronet, Sir Frederick Williams. He was found unconscious in his luxuriously appointed apartments on the boulevard Mount Matrice by a friend who had him removed to a hospital, where he died. Sir Frederick, about 25 years old, fair and of distinguished appearance, rented his apartments about six months ago, decorating them with costly draperies, rare and incense burners.

Neighbors say he received a number of strange visitors, most of them foreigners whose errands were mysterious. Only one woman was ever seen to enter, she being a young dancer who had been engaged to teach him dancing.

STEAMER BURNED AT SEA

Crew Was Rescued When Vessel Laden With Cotton and Oil Went up in Flames

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Fifty-four shipwrecked persons from the British freight steamer Templemore, which was burned at sea, 800 miles east of Virginia Capes, were brought here last night by the Hamburg American steamer Aradia. No lives were lost and no one was seriously injured.

The hull of the burned vessel is believed now to be beneath the waters of the Atlantic. The value of the vessel and her cargo is estimated at $700,000, covered by insurance.

Besides the crew there were aboard the ill-fated vessel William Thomas, a consular passenger, and a stowaway named McCormick. All signed a testimonial to Capt. George Boldt and the crew of the Aradia in which deep gratitude was expressed for the prompt manner in which the rescue was effected.

Capt. Isaac Jones of the Templemore, which left Baltimore for Liverpool last Saturday, said the fire was discovered at 11:30 Monday night in the hold where cotton was stored and it was his belief that it was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Wireless Call for Help

"I ordered the hold flooded," said Capt. Jones, "and besides two powerful streams of water were sent into the ventilators just above the burning cotton. Within 20 minutes the fire reached slender bottoms. Under such conditions, however, we managed to keep our boats head to the wind until 3:05 o'clock when the Aradia came alongside.

"Many of the crew were seasick and exhausted. Some were so weak they had to be lifted out of the boats. When the Aradia started toward Baltimore the Templemore was aflame from bow to stern."

POTATOES HIGH

Are Becoming a Luxury

-Drop in Price Expected Soon

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Potatoes are being shipped from Maine and sold to the middleman for $1.10 a barrel this week, though they are still marked 25 cents a peck, or what would amount to $1.25 at retail. A drop is hoped for soon.

It has been a fine week for fish, escarole and chleory, cucumber pickles and preserving fruits, but sirloin steak has risen two cents, and still no sign of the promised Argentine beef.

These were the average prices at Boston markets yesterday: Italian tomatoes 10 cents a quart, citron melons 10 cents apiece, sweet peppers 20 cents a dozen, blueberries 25 cents a quart, fine big eating apples and California peaches 30 cents a dozen, large baskets of peaches 75 cents to $1 according to size of fruit, grape, malaga, muscatel, tokay and Carishon grapes 10 cents a pound, Delaware and Concord 15 cents a basket, cauliflower 5 cents a head, sweet corn 20 cents a dozen, pickle cucumbers 10 cents a quart, lima and wax beans 5 cents a quart, radishes 4 bunches for 5 cents, Spanish onions 5 cents apiece, lettuce 6 cents a head, escarole and chleory 5 cents a head, green gage plums 50 cents a basket, plum tomatoes 3 1/2 cents, and damson plums 40 cents, while crab apples were 35 cents a basket. Tomatoes were 10 cents a pound and celery 10 cents a bunch, canteloupes 1 1/2 cents apiece.

Sirloin steak was 35 cents, fresh eggs 45 cents, and western eggs as low as 28 cents, creamery butter 33 cents, bluefish 12 cents a pound, smelts 35 cents, Annan haddock 12 cents, flounders 10 cents, eels 10 cents, spawn 12 1/2 cents, herring 5 cents apiece, scallops 35 cents a quart, white halibut 70 cents a pound, chicken mackerel 15 cents, salmon 20 cents, swordfish 25 cents, and tinker mackerel 3 for 10 cents.

Here is Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer's receipt for fruit honey, a reasonable undertaking:

Take equal quantities of grated pineapple and small yellow tomatoes peeled. Allow a pound of sugar to each pint of material. Mix the sugar with the fruit and cook without water till transparent.

Select light hard and rather select pears, or the equivalent in quinces or pineapples. Boil three pounds of sugar with a pint of water for just a moment, and skim. Grate the fruit and put quickly into the syrup to prevent discoloration. Boil 15 minutes and put away in tumblers the same as jelly.

WILL NOT TELL PROFITS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Counsel for the public service commission, balked yesterday in a second effort to learn the profits of the parcel-checking room at the Grand Central station, announced that they would ask the supreme court to compel a refractory witness to disclose this information under penalty of contempt of court.

The witness is W. H. Mendel, chief stockholder of the corporation operating this package room. Mendel charges 10 cents for checking a package, and inasmuch as only 5 cents is charged at Boston and other large cities, the commission is seeking to investigate the reasonableness of the 10-cent charge. Mendel continued yesterday his refusal to reveal his profits, claiming that the commission is without jurisdiction.

REV. D. J. MURPHY CHOSEN

Rev. David J. Murphy, who for the past few years has been a curate at St. Leo's church in Dorchester, has been appointed pastor of St. Andrew's church of North Billerica by His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell. Up to a recent date, the parish had been under the direction of Rev. Fr. Corneli, O. V. I. North Billerica being a mission of the Oblate fathers of Tewksbury. Rev. Fr. Murphy previous to going to Dorchester, had been connected with the Church of the Immaculate Conception of Salem, for about 15 years. His appointment is the most important of several announced by the diocesan authorities. Fr. Murphy is a brother of Mr. James A. Murphy, director of St. Michael's choir, and is a well-known priest.

St. Andrew's is a rapidly growing parish and it is believed that the completion of the big railroad shops will be the means of bringing a large addition number there as new residents of the town. Rev. Fr. Murphy, who is to assume his duties there on Monday, is a native of Lowell and has a host of warm friends in this city. He is a graduate of Holy Cross college, entered the seminary at Brighton, being ordained in 1894 by the late Archbishop Williams. He was first assigned to the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Salem and later to St. Leo's at Dorchester. His many friends in this city will be highly pleased to learn that he has been given a pastorate.

Several other transfers have been made by His Eminence, the cardinal. Rev. James A. Sherry and Rev. P. J. Cannell have been assigned to St. Patrick's church in South Lawrence. Rev. Fr. Scannell has for a number of years been connected with St. John's church in Quincy, while Rev. Fr. Sherry was attached to the parish at Feabody. He was also formerly associated with Rev. Fr. Barry, pastor of St. Benedict's church at Somerville and assisted in the building of that church.

Rev. James T. Landrigan and Rev. M. F. Maguire of St. Patrick's, South Lawrence, have been transferred. Rev. Fr. Landrigan going to St. Bridget's parish in Abington as assistant to the pastor, Rev. P. H. Billings, and Rev. Fr. Maguire going to the Church of St. Francis in Walpole to assist the pastor, Rev. Fr. Riley. Rev. Fr. Landrigan had for several years been assistant to the pastor of St. Patrick's in South Lawrence and Rev. Fr. Maguire had been attached to the same church for some time.

Rev. Fr. Patrick J. Sullivan has been transferred from St. John, the Evangelist parish, at Swampscott, to St. Leo's parish, in Dorchester, where he will succeed Fr. Murphy, who goes to a pastorate.

Rev. Fr. W. F. Shaughnessy has been transferred from St. Patrick's parish, in Watertown, to St. John's parish, in Feabody.

Rev. Fr. John J. O'Donnell goes to the Watertown parish, in place of Fr. Shaughnessy, coming there from St. Bridget's parish at Abington.

Rev. Fr. Francis T. Mahoney goes to St. John the Evangelist parish, at Swampscott, from St. Francis' parish at Walpole.

Rep. Lewis Wants U. S. to Operate All Wires—President Wilson Interested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Government ownership of telegraph and telephone lines is to be proposed in bills Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland is drafting now for introduction in the house probably within a month.

These measures, which would have these public utilities taken over as a part of the postal service, have not been made an administration policy, the president is known to have discussed the idea with Representative Lewis and others interested in the project.

Mr. Lewis has collected a mass of data on the subject of telephone and telegraph operation, and has prepared estimates as to their cost to the government, their availability as a source of revenue and cost of maintenance and also has worked out a tentative plan for their acquisition and operation as government public utilities.

Besides laying his plans before President Wilson, Representative Lewis has consulted frequently concerning them with Postmaster-General Burleson.

When the Maryland Congressman reviewed his plans with the president the latter, it is reported, evinced considerable interest, but it is known that consideration of the matter has not advanced sufficiently for the project to be designated as an administration plan.

Representative Lewis, however, proposed to press the proposed legislation vigorously and already he has procured the endorsement of the proposal by many members of congress.

TO HOLD FIRST MEETING

Executive Committee of St. Joseph's College Alumni Will Meet Next Friday

The new board of directors of St. Joseph's college alumni will hold their first meeting a week from tonight at the home of one of the directors, Eugene Fletcher of Fletcher street. It is probable that a social of some kind for the members of the alumni will be provided in order to keep the good feeling that already exists among the members of this popular organization.

The question of a chaplain for the alumni will also be taken up, and as in the past the affair will be left to the pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Rev. Henry Racette, O. M. I. D. D., who is a member of the alumni. All members of the executive committee are requested to be present at the first meeting.

H., to New York. She says she received severe internal injuries and that her nerves are affected. She seeks $25,000 damages.

ROGERS TO MAKE GOOD LOWELL CONGRESSMAN TO BUY TROPHY FOR WINNERS OF MERRIMACK VALLEY LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—As a devotee of clean sport and a generous patron of athletics, Congressman Rogers of Lowell once promised the Merrimack Valley Cricket league a pennant to be presented to the champion team of the organization.

Yesterday Mr. Rogers was informed that the price had been won by the Beverly Cricket club, the letter gently intimating that the pennant now would be welcome. "We have adopted a fish-bait design," wrote Secretary John W. Foster. Mr. Rogers will order the trophy and is expected to deliver the presentation address.

DEEPER WATERWAYS MEN To Hold Sixth Annual Convention in Florida Next Month—Secretary Murphy Notified Mr. John H. Murphy, secretary of the local board of trade, has received a notice of the Sixth Annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association, which is to take place in Jacksonville, Fla., on November 15, 19 and 21. The circular states that the president and vice-president of the United States together with the governors of many states and the mayors of the principal cities will be invited to this congress and in all probability it will be a very large and notable gathering. It seems that the deeper waterways movement is penetrating throughout the country, and it is said that the work of the Atlantic association is attracting widespread attention. The action is of local interest because of the similar matter which has been set on foot to make the Merrimack river navigable.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY BOY HAD NARROW ESCAPE—WAGON BADLY DAMAGED IN FLETCHER STREET

A boy employed at Joseph C. McGraw's fish market in Adams street, had a narrow escape from serious injury this morning, when the horse he was driving ran away in Fletcher street. The boy was thrown out of the wagon, but fortunately escaped with a few scratches.

The boy, whose name could not be learned, was driving down Fletcher street early this forenoon, when his horse after being frightened, probably by a flying piece of paper, became unmanageable, and went down the Fletcher street hill at a high rate of speed. When the wagon, which was an ordinary delivery wagon, reached a point opposite Varney street, it collided with a tree, and the boy was thrown with force to the ground.

One of the front wheels of the wagon was totally demolished, while one of the rear wheels was badly twisted. The horse was brought to a full stop a short distance farther, and the boy who was soon on his feet, was able to lead the animal to the stable. The wagon was removed later.

Athletes and Athletics

We are in receipt of a letter from "Snubner" Thomas, the schoolboy catcher of the Lowell team, who is back at Lehigh university. "Snubner" announces that he is playing football every day and that his baseball during the summer months has greatly helped out his gridiron work.

Eddie Miller was offered a chance to attend Lehigh college, which is only a short distance from his home, if he would play football during his college course. Miller very wisely shook his head and told the coach that he would never play football so long as he was earning a salary for picking up grounders.

It's a wonder Ban Johnson allowed the three games between the Giants and the Yankees to go through yesterday. Of course Ban is president of the American league and the two teams mentioned are members of the National league but this fact should never make any difference to Johnson. The American league's head will be the whole show in the world's series. It seems from the way in which the National commission has recommended all his suggestions.

Langford and Jeanette should prove a treat to the New York boxing fans tonight. Although the pair have met many times with varying results the sporting public always feel that Langford is the better man from every angle of the game. Jeanette, with his lanky style, and Langford, short and built like a bull, present two opposite types of ring artists.

The loss of Snowden, captain-elect of next year's crew, will be sadly felt in Yale athletic circles. Snowden was declared ineligible under the recent agreement entered into between Yale and Harvard although he has only rowed two years in the 'varsity shell.

The Brockton Fair's modified marathon was run off this afternoon and thousands of spectators watched the grind from points of vantage along the route. Sturges was picked as the winner although several other good distance men were down on the entry list.

Denegre, the carman who was elect captain of the Yale 'varsity crew yesterday, is only a junior in college. He was captain of his freshman crew and has a seat in the Yale boat last spring. It has been many years since a junior was selected to lead a Blue boat.

Tom Shevlin is pounding all the speed he possibly can get out of the Yale ends and has improved this department wonderfully since his arrival in the Blue's camp. With two good ends at his command any coach is pretty well situated under the present rules.

Jimmy Powers is to be treated like a hero before he sets sail for Australia. Powers is the mite champion of New England and expects to make a general cleanup over in Australia. The Boston athletes will be tendered a big banquet on Oct. 13. Powers is one of the All-American team of athletes who will tour several countries before again landing on American soil.

Hearne, the Giants' recruit pitcher, is a very fast man on the bases and can also hit. In the second game yesterday between New York and the Phillies Hearne allowed but seven hits, but safely on himself, drew a pass, stole two bases and scored a run. What more can you ask of a twirler?

Yesterday's rain drove most of the big teams into their respective gyms for practice. We can well remember the time when not even a snow storm interrupted the work of the football team.

The Harvard line was greatly strengthened when Dana and Millholland returned to practice. Both are ends of the first order and the entire college is breathing easier now that this pair have recovered sufficiently to don their mole skins.

Fletcher, the Giants' shortstop, has been playing a whirlwind game of late. His work has been very good all season but he has even excelled his mid-season form by his performances the last two weeks. Yesterday he had ten chances, several of which were difficult, and worked without an error.

the fact that its studies are of a general character, is as usual, one of three years. The majority of entering pupils choose this course as a rule. Following are the list of studies embraced in the regular course.

French, physiology, commercial arithmetic, literature, American history, commercial geography, spelling, penmanship, grammar, elocution, book-keeping, stenography and typewriting, manual training, general history, business correspondence, algebra, geometry, civil government and rhetoric.

The advanced course is open to all graduates of the regular course, those showing qualifications which will admit of them taking the advanced subjects taken up in this course. Physiology, Latin advanced algebra, English, and American literature, advanced French, physics, rhetoric and geometry are what the students in the advanced course will be required to study.

This civil service course is a series of studies laid out by Mr. Robbins with the view of fitting students for the various civil service examinations. No boy or girl who is not a graduate of a grammar school is allowed to take up this course. Arithmetic with rapid calculation is one of the principal subjects which a student in this course is required to perfect himself in, while a study of letter writing, penmanship, and railroad connections also enter into the course.

The stenography course requires three years to complete and is very thorough. Stenography and typewriting are the only two subjects embraced in this course.

The bookkeeping course is prescribed for two years in order to obtain a diploma. No other subject is required in this course except the study of single and double entry accounts.

Students will be admitted to Lowell evening high school only by diplomas from grammar schools (or schools having an equivalent standing) or by an examination. The prescribed studies for the various courses have just been announced by Principal Robbins in a circular that may be obtained from him at the school.

The annual meeting of the Modern Investment Co. was held last night at the home of Mr. Frank Ricard, and considerable business was transacted, among which was the election of officers for the ensuing year.

President J. E. Rochette occupied the chair and all members were present. The treasurer, Frank Ricard, made his annual report, which showed that the organization is in very good financial condition. The clerk, Arthur Levell, also read his report, and the two were accepted as progress.

The election of officers brought the following result: J. E. Rochette, president; Wilfrid Verina, Woburn, vice president; Frank Ricard, treasurer; Arthur Levell, clerk; Diodorus St. Pierre, financial secretary; Frederick Lamoureux, Amos Lebrun, Ludger Colombe and Samuel J. The Modern Investment Co. was organized a year ago yesterday with 25 members, who pay a weekly fee of one dollar. The purpose of this organization is to purchase and control real estate property, and it is expected that with a short time the first purchase will be made.

The company although started but a year ago has already $1400 in its treasury, and if it keeps up the pace it will become one of the strong real estate companies in Lowell. The other members of the organization are: Emery C. Gauvin, Ernest Verina, Woburn; Eugene Ricard, Wilfrid Gendreau, George Fontaine, Elphège J. Ouellette, Edmond Colombe, Ludger Gendreau, Phillis Vignault, Charles J. Vignault, two of the members last night tendered their resignation and at the next meeting of the company two names will be submitted to fill the vacancies.

At the conclusion of last night's meeting a delectable luncheon was served and a social hour was spent church have decided to present an opera in this city sometime in December. The piece which will be given has not yet been named but it is believed that this matter will be decided upon by Saturday at the latest so that the rehearsals may begin on Sunday. It will be remembered that last year the society presented the opera "Iolanthe" with truly remarkable success, and that the performance was in every way a most commendable as well as enjoyable one. On that occasion, the participants and those in charge of the arrangements were widely praised for the result of their efforts. It is believed that an opera this year, presented by the sodality would be a repetition of the success of last season's production. The piece will either be presented in the Opera House or for two nights in the Playhouse.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

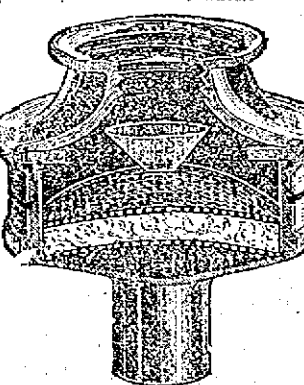

Big Crowd Will Take Part in the Manchester Parade on Oct. 13—Columbus Day

A large number of the members of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, have signified their intention to go to Manchester on Oct. 13 to participate in the celebration of Columbus day by the council of Manchester. At the local quarters of the K. of C. in Anne street, there is a list of the names of those who have decided to make the trip, and the authorities of the organization have urged all who are to attend to register on that paper.

As the Manchester council responded with willingness to a similar invitation by Lowell council on a previous occasion, the members of the local division feel that they owe it to the Knights in the New Hampshire city to respond to the call to assist them in their celebration, and it is the desire of Grand Knight Thornton that as many as possible make the trip. There will be a parade and other events throughout the day. The local members of the order have on former occasions had the opportunity of experiencing the hospitality of the Manchester council and no doubt they appreciate this.
